Direct Relief Funds Allotted For September

State Board Apportions Federal Funds; Lawrence Given $90,700

SPECIAL SESSION CALL STILL DELAYED

Governor Pinchot Not Decided On Scope Of Call For Legislative Session

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7.—While continuance of direct relief for 1,500,000 needy Pennsylvanians was assured through September, speculation over the scope of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's call for the special Legislative session to finance relief was but whetted by delay today.

The state emergency relief board at its monthly meeting acted to keep the state's vast jobless aid machinery functioning in high gear by pouring out $11,253,951—all but $57,729 of its available funds to meet demands for the month.

Pinchot Non-Committal

Governor Pinchot, however, continued his non-committal attitude over the scope of his proclamation calling the legislature into session next Wednesday at noon. The Assembly must meet the relief crisis brought about by refusal of the federal government to continue furnishing the state money for relief without matching appropriation by the commonwealth. The belief gained ground that the call will be delayed until Monday.

It was reported from sources close to the executive offices that Governor Pinchot will not decide finally whether to limit the special session to the subject of raising money for relief or throw its deliberations open to a variety of social legislative topics until after the Republican state campaign platform is adopted Saturday.

The same sources explained that if the Governor was satisfied with the G. O. P. platform he probably would issue a limited call; that if he was not satisfied he would keep his promise of July to hold a "wide open" session.

Emergency Sum Set

A flat sum of $1,320,000 was earmarked by the relief board out of its allocations of $11,253,951 to meet possible emergencies of increased relief rolls or to provide a reserve to carry needy aid into October if an agreement has not been reached by the legislature at that time.

The board appropriated $6,852,779

City Plans Purchase Of Old Hospital Building

Members of city council met Thursday afternoon in the city building and introduced an ordinance authorizing Councilmen Hoyland and Alexander to submit a bid for the purchase of the Shenango Valley hospital building and contents. The ordinance was sent to committee, given consideration and reported out favorably. Pending final passage it was sent to the printing office.

After council adjourned the two councilmen placed a bid of $1,825 for the building and materials. It was the high bid, it is reported. It is likely that definite action will be taken by the owners of the building as soon as counsel for both parties approve the matter.

It was stated yesterday that should the city's bid be accepted the city will use the materials from the building for not only a recreation house in Dean park but also a new toolhouse to be constructed on city owned ground next to the central fire station, South Jefferson street. RWD labor will be used.

Student Accused In Girl's Death Goes On Witness Stand

(International News Service)

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 7.—Neal Myers took the witness stand in his own behalf today at his trial for murder to tell the story of his illicit love affair with Marian Mills, 19-year-old University of Oklahoma beauty queen, which ended in the girl's unexpected death here the afternoon of July 10.

The courtroom was packed with university students, both boys and girls, as the youthful defendant began his testimony.

Apparently composed but tense he clasped his hands in his lap and told of pledging as a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and working in the fraternity house kitchen to help pay his way.

It was there that he met Mrs. Hazel Brown, a cook, in whose home the girl died, purportedly from shock resulting from an attempt to thwart motherhood.

NUREMBERG, Sept. 7.—Another 175 special trains arrived in Nuremberg today, pouring another 150,000 Nazi party officials into the city to participate tonight in a torchlight procession ten miles long and to carry 21,000 flags past Reichsleader Adolf Hitler.

These figures give some idea of the truly colossal dimensions of the party's congress, which is intended by its huge size to prove again that enthusiasm for the Nazi idea has not waned.

Speeches Made.

Fuel for the enthusiasm is being poured out in many hours of speeches by party leaders and today Walter Darre, minister of agriculture, assured the congress that Germany's new crops would suffice for the food needs of the population without calling on foreign countries.

Darre reiterated that it is the Nazi intention to make Germany economically independent and to put her in a position where "if for any reason the outside world is unwilling to put its resources at our disposal" Germany could get along without them.

Darre cited figures showing that food imports under the Nazis have sunk to a fraction of their pre-war value.

He used this as proof of the success of Nazi economic policies, thus, however, making a virtue of a necessity since the fact that Germany's exports have sunk to such a low figure that all imports, including food, had to dwindle whether it was desirable or not.

Whatever the popular enthusiasm for Nazi economic policies may be, popular enthusiasm for Hitler remains at the boiling point. His ap-

President Ponders Johnson-Richberg N.R.A. Controversy

By EWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—NRA reorganization claimed the thoughts of President Roosevelt today as he prepared for a day of callers and a restful week-end.

Early next week, if the schedule agreed upon by the president and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson before Mr. Roosevelt left the capital is carried out, the NRA chieftain will come here for a conference.

Controversy To Be Threshed Out.

Just what will be threshed out in this conference was a mystery but it was certain that it would concern the now long-standing controversy between the NRA chief and NRA counsel, Donald P. Richberg. Long before the president left the White House in Washington, it was made plain that the recovery chief, although he would remain titular head of the NRA, was through as an actual head of that organization—which is the core of Mr. Roosevelt's recovery program.

At the same time it was equally apparent that the star of Richberg was rising. Just two days before the president left, both Johnson and Richberg flatly asserted their differences were minor. Yet the fact remained that Mr. Roosevelt, when he saw them both, saw each separately.

Real Answer Soon.

Today, while there were other callers, Mr. Roosevelt gave thought to

Knitting Plant Will Be Used For Relief Quarters

Relief Agencies To Be Quartered In Building After Remodelling

Approval was received today by Director George Mudehart of the RWD of the remodeling of the old New Castle Knitting plant for relief headquarters. Requisitions for labor were immediately made out and sent to the placement office and by Saturday it is thought everything will be in readiness to start.

For several months it has been apparent that the present relief headquarters on South Jefferson street were too small and with the work program in the process of formation it will be necessary to have more space for the administrative corps. After some consideration the old knitting mill plant was selected and will be fitted up as offices.

In the plan of remodeling the offices will be laid out so that each department has ample space for its requirements but they will be arranged so that they all lead the offices of the relief administrator. The work of rearranging the floors of the plant will be rushed and it is anticipated that inside of three weeks the transfer of offices and equipment can be made.

(International News Service)

Eyes of the nation turned on Washington today as the possibility loomed that both sides in the great textile war, which thus far has claimed ten lives and sent unnumbered scores hospitals, would seek the aid of federal troops.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the general strike committee, announced in Washington that protection of the regular army would be asked for strikers in areas where national guardsmen and special police have been employed by governors "to break this strike."

At the same time George A. Sloan head of the cotton textile institution, strongly intimated that mill owners would bid for the service of the government in protecting the "sacred American right of the individual to work."

Board Starts Work

Meantime the special mediation board appointed by the president to try to end the strike, was holding its first session in Washington, meeting with Secretary of Labor Perkins, Harry A. Millis and Edwin S. Smith of the National Labor relations board; Charles Wyzanski, solicitor for the department of labor, and A. J. Altmeyre, second assistant secretary of labor.

Interpreted variously as the calm before the storm and the death knell of the strike, quiet settled over the South, while fear of violence shifted to New England where a huge picket army was reported

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 7.—One unidentified man was dead and damage totaled thousands of dollars as recurring giant waves brought new peril to Southern California beaches today.

The strange avalanche of water continued to pound the coast from Malibu, home of wealthy movie stars, southward to Newport, as scientists attempted to wrest from the sea an explanation of the phenomenon.

The waves pounded a 40-foot hole through famed Rainbow pier that encircles Long Beach's new $1,000,000 auditorium.

I'll miss the sunny, torrid days, when winter comes again and there are other things I'll miss and every now and then I jot them down to see the list for when the summer's gone I'll miss a lot except this one, the mowing of the lawn. I'll miss the roses in the yard, the fruit upon the trees, the hedge of althea bright with bloom that brought us lots of bees. I'll miss the early morning dew that shimmered on the grass, but as for mowing I'm content to let the matter pass. For I confess I can't indulge in poems on the hay that comes from cutting lawns and yards, it's eighty-one today.

These figures give some idea of the truly colossal dimensions of the party's congress, which is intended by its huge size to prove again that enthusiasm for the Nazi idea has not waned.

Speeches Made.

Fuel for the enthusiasm is being poured out in many hours of speeches by party leaders and today Walter Darre, minister of agriculture, assured the congress that Germany's new crops would suffice for the food needs of the population without calling on foreign countries.

Darre reiterated that it is the Nazi intention to make Germany economically independent and to put her in a position where "if for any reason the outside world is unwilling to put its resources at our disposal" Germany could get along without them.

Darre cited figures showing that food imports under the Nazis have sunk to a fraction of their pre-war value.

He used this as proof of the success of Nazi economic policies, thus, however, making a virtue of a necessity since the fact that Germany's exports have sunk to such a low figure that all imports, including food, had to dwindle whether it was desirable or not.

Whatever the popular enthusiasm for Nazi economic policies may be, popular enthusiasm for Hitler remains at the boiling point. His ap-

Knitting Plant Will Be Used For Relief Quarters

Relief Agencies To Be Quartered In Building After Remodelling

Approval was received today by Director George Mudehart of the RWD of the remodeling of the old New Castle Knitting plant for relief headquarters. Requisitions for labor were immediately made out and sent to the placement office and by Saturday it is thought everything will be in readiness to start.

For several months it has been apparent that the present relief headquarters on South Jefferson street were too small and with the work program in the process of formation it will be necessary to have more space for the administrative corps. After some consideration the old knitting mill plant was selected and will be fitted up as offices.

In the plan of remodeling the offices will be laid out so that each department has ample space for its requirements but they will be arranged so that they all lead the offices of the relief administrator. The work of rearranging the floors of the plant will be rushed and it is anticipated that inside of three weeks the transfer of offices and equipment can be made.

Outbreaks In South Quieted Down Today; Fear More Trouble

(International News Service)

Eyes of the nation turned on Washington today as the possibility loomed that both sides in the great textile war, which thus far has claimed ten lives and sent unnumbered scores hospitals, would seek the aid of federal troops.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the general strike committee, announced in Washington that protection of the regular army would be asked for strikers in areas where national guardsmen and special police have been employed by governors "to break this strike."

At the same time George A. Sloan head of the cotton textile institution, strongly intimated that mill owners would bid for the service of the government in protecting the "sacred American right of the individual to work."

Board Starts Work

Meantime the special mediation board appointed by the president to try to end the strike, was holding its first session in Washington, meeting with Secretary of Labor Perkins, Harry A. Millis and Edwin S. Smith of the National Labor relations board: Charles Wyzanski, solicitor for the department of labor, and A. J. Althmyre, second assistant secretary of labor.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—NRA reorganization claimed the thoughts of President Roosevelt today as he prepared for a day of callers and a restful week-end.

Early next week, if the schedule agreed upon by the president and Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson before Mr. Roosevelt left the capital is carried out, the NRA chieftain will come here for a conference.

Controversy To Be Threshed Out.

Just what will be threshed out in this conference was a mystery but it was certain that it would concern the now long-standing controversy between the NRA chief and NRA counsel, Donald P. Richberg. Long before the president left the White House in Washington, it was made plain that the recovery chief, although he would remain titular head of the NRA, was through as an actual head of that organization—which is the core of Mr. Roosevelt's recovery program.

At the same time it was equally apparent that the star of Richberg was rising. Just two days before the president left, both Johnson and Richberg flatly asserted their differences were minor. Yet the fact remained that Mr. Roosevelt, when he saw them both, saw each separately.

SPECIAL SESSION CALL STILL DELAYED

Governor Pinchot Not Decided On Scope Of Call For Legislative Session

International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7.—While continuance of direct relief for 1,500,000 needy Pennsylvanians was assured through September, speculation over the scope of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's call for the special Legislative session to finance relief was but whetted by delay today.

The state emergency relief board at its monthly meeting acted to keep the state's vast jobless aid machinery functioning in high gear by pouring out $11,253,951—all but $57,729 of its available funds to meet demands for the month.

Pinchot Non-Committal

Governor Pinchot, however, continued his non-committal attitude over the scope of his proclamation calling the legislature into session next Wednesday at noon. The Assembly must meet the relief crisis brought about by refusal of the federal government to continue furnishing the state money for relief without matching appropriation by the commonwealth. The belief gained ground that the call will be delayed until Monday.

It was reported from sources close to the executive offices that Governor Pinchot will not decide finally whether to limit the special session to the subject of raising money for relief or throw its deliberations open to a variety of social legislative topics until after the Republican state campaign platform is adopted Saturday.

The same sources explained that if the Governor was satisfied with the G. O. P. platform he probably would issue a limited call; that if he was not satisfied he would keep his promise of July to hold a "wide open" session.

Emergency Sum Set

A flat sum of $1,320,000 was earmarked by the relief board out of its allocations of $11,253,951 to meet possible emergencies of increased relief rolls or to provide a reserve to carry needy aid into October if an agreement has not been reached by the legislature at that time.

The board appropriated $6,852,779

City Plans Purchase Of Old Hospital Building

Members of city council met Thursday afternoon in the city building and introduced an ordinance authorizing Councilmen Hoyland and Alexander to submit a bid for the purchase of the Shenango Valley hospital building and contents. The ordinance was sent to committee, given consideration and reported out favorably. Pending final passage it was sent to the printing office.

After council adjourned the two councilmen placed a bid of $1,825 for the building and materials. It was the high bid, it is reported. It is likely that definite action will be taken by the owners of the building as soon as counsel for both parties approve the matter.

It was stated yesterday that should the city's bid be accepted the city will use the materials from the building for not only a recreation house in Dean park but also a new toolhouse to be constructed on city owned ground next to the central fire station, South Jefferson street. RWD labor will be used.

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 7.—Neal Myers took the witness stand in his own behalf today at his trial for murder to tell the story of his illicit love affair with Marian Mills, 19-year-old University of Oklahoma beauty queen, which ended in the girl's unexpected death here the afternoon of July 10.

It was there that he met Mrs. Hazel Brown, a cook, in whose home the girl died, purportedly from shock resulting from an attempt to thwart motherhood.

Philadelphia Detectives Arrest Four Men In Slaying Of Patrolman In Holdup

CONFESSIONS ARE REPORTED MADE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Philadelphia's police department, with all the pomp and ceremony at its command, today will lay to rest the flag-draped casket containing the body of their buddy, Patrolman William G. Wilson, slain by young desperados in defense of a motion picture theatre's Labor Day receipts.

Less than a mile from the sorrowful funeral scene, the four purported killers, captured by brilliant sleuthing await trials.

From each of the four suspects, detectives said, they obtained complete confessions. The homicide squad considers the slaying "completely cleared up," proving true once again the oft-repeated underworld axiom—"you can't kill a Philadelphia cop and get away with it."

Good Sleuthing

Less than 60 hours after the cold-blooded murder, the suspects were taken into custody. The first arrest, accomplished by two "dumb dicks," was made in Yonkers, N. Y., where the detectives had trailed the alleged ring-leader of the holdup gang.

The prisoners, accused of the slaying are:

Walter Mika, 24, who has a record of five previous arrests here; William Talerico, 21, Peter Talerico, 18, William's brother, and John Costello, 19, all of this city.

The first captured in yesterday's swift "clean-up" of the crime was Mika. He was arrested in Yonkers by two Philadelphia detectives. His confession, police said, led to the arrests and subsequent alleged confessions of the other three prisoners in this city.

Flying Squadrons Active

The main bodies of flying squadrons of pickets were reported moving in the Fall river and New Bedford areas of Massachusetts in long lines of motor cars. Others were seen near Lowell, Mass., and Manchester, N. H.

Both sides were prepared for violence. Some towns were described as armed camps. One hundred imported guards from New York manned parapets thrown up in streets leading to mills in Dighton, Mass.

While Salem authorities, saying loyal workers had been threatened with bombing in their homes, authorized police to "meet violence with violence," Horace A. Riviere, United Textile workers vice president was declaring at Fall River, Mass.

"If we are shot at we will shoot back. If we stick together three days we will close every mill in the country."

Claim 355,000 Out

It was estimated more than 355,000 were on strike in the nation. To this number Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the general strike committee, threatened to add 165,000 from industries allied with textiles.

Faced with the threat of a strike that would affect from 125,000 to 175,000 workers, cotton garment manufacturers nevertheless demanded revocation of the presidential order to cut down working hours from 40 to 36 hours a week.

The demand was telegraphed to the NRA by the cotton garment authority. At the same time the international garment workers union in New York voted to go on strike October 1.

Troops Mobilized

While violence in the Carolinas where eight were killed yesterday, six of them at Honea Path, S. C. had abated today, mobilization of the national guard and deputization of loyal workers continued. In North Carolina 1,400 troops were under arms. Thirteen companies of guardsmen were stationed at Greenville alone in South Carolina.

The American Legion and the Lions Club of South Carolina sent demands for a declaration of martial law to Governor Blackwood.

Strike leaders at Washington described the killings in Georgia and the Carolinas as "slaughter" and an "outrage against civilization."

The president's board of inquiry meeting for the first time in Washington in its efforts to end the strike began the study of the following three big problems confronting it:

Problems For Board

1.—Adjustment of hours and wages for the 750,000 workers.

2.—Finding of the "reasonable point" in the "stretch-out" system in the industry.

3.—Fixing of working conditions arising from use of new "labor-saving devices.

Two thousand "flying squadron" tickets were halted by solid walls of state police and special deputies at the American thread company mills at Willimantic, Conn., early today while 1,800 employes continued at work. Feeling ran high but the strikers drew off without violence.

Operators of dye plants in Paterson, N. J., appealed to their 10,000 workers to stay on the job in full page newspaper advertisements. The 13,000 striking silk workers are trying to call out the dye plant employes.

Today his handsome vice-chief of the party, Rudolph Hess, received embarrassing proof that he shares the popularity of his chief to an uncomfortable degree.

As he returned from the congress to his hotel, a large crowd of young women broke a cordon of storm troops guarding his automobile and rushed toward Hess, attempting to touch and embrace him.

Hess, blushing and unwilling to be rude and unable to defend himself, was rescued when the storm troops forcibly drove the women back to the sidewalks.

Max Schmeling, however, almost stole the Nazi show.

Schmeling appeared before the Wuertemberger Hof and in a trice several thousand storm troopers had surrounded and marked him for autographs.

He fled inside the hotel, and there, too, was almost suffocated and compelled to use his pugilistic ability to rescue himself.

He finally broke and ran with hundreds of storm troopers chasing him.

the impending meeting with Johnson who, at the president's instance, had been vacationing in Delaware. At that meeting, presumably, the real answer will come—the answer that will tell whether Johnson or Richberg will head a reorganized NRA. Mr. Roosevelt has already revealed that there will be a real shake-up in the organization.

In spite of this impending conference, however, the president did not let up in his comparatively heavy schedule of engagements. Today's visitors were headed by California's Democratic senator, William Gibbs McAdoo. What he intended to take up was, apparently, as much a mystery to the president as is the Einstein theory, which he has never professed to understand. There were reports that the California senator might not get here until later—perhaps not until next week.

SLAYERS OF PHILADELPHIA OFFICER TAKEN

Four Held For Killing Officer

Philadelphia Detectives Arrest Four Men In Slaying Of Patrolman In Holdup

CONFESSIONS ARE REPORTED MADE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Philadelphia's police department, with all the pomp and ceremony at its command, today will lay to rest the flag-draped casket containing the body of their buddy, Patrolman William G. Wilson, slain by young desperados in defense of a motion picture theatre's Labor Day receipts.

Less than a mile from the sorrowful funeral scene, the four purported killers, captured by brilliant sleuthing, await trials.

From each of the four suspects, detectives said, they obtained complete confessions. The homicide squad considers the slaying "completely cleared up," proving true once again the oft-repeated underworld axiom—"you can't kill a Philadelphia cop and get away with it."

Good Sleuthing

Less than 60 hours after the cold-blooded murder, the suspects were taken into custody. The first arrest, accomplished by two "dumb dicks," was made in Yonkers, N. Y., where the detectives had trailed the alleged ring-leader of the holdup gang.

The prisoners, accused of the slaying are:

Walter Mika, 24, who has a record of five previous arrests here; William Talerico, 21, Peter Talerico, 18, William's brother, and John Costello, 19, all of this city.

The first captured in yesterday's swift "clean-up" of the crime was Mika. He was arrested in Yonkers by two Philadelphia detectives. His confession, police said, led to the arrests and subsequent alleged confessions of the other three prisoners in this city.

Hess Embarrassed.

Today his handsome vice-chief of the party, Rudolph Hess, received embarrassing proof that he shares the popularity of his chief to an uncomfortable degree.

As he returned from the congress to his hotel, a large crowd of young women broke a cordon of storm troops guarding his automobile and rushed toward Hess, attempting to touch and embrace him.

Hess, blushing and unwilling to be rude and unable to defend himself, was rescued when the storm troops forcibly drove the women back to the sidewalks.

Schmeling Present.

Max Schmeling, however, almost stole the Nazi show.

Schmeling appeared before the Wuertemberger Hof and in a trice several thousand storm troopers had surrounded and marked him for autographs.

He fled inside the hotel, and there, too, was almost suffocated and compelled to use his pugilistic ability to rescue himself.

He finally broke and ran with hundreds of storm troopers chasing him.

the impending meeting with Johnson who, at the president's instance, had been vacationing in Delaware. At that meeting, presumably, the real answer will come—the answer that will tell whether Johnson or Richberg will head a reorganized NRA. Mr. Roosevelt has already revealed that there will be a real shake-up in the organization.

In spite of this impending conference, however, the president did not let up in his comparatively heavy schedule of engagements. Today's visitors were headed by California's Democratic senator, William Gibbs McAdoo. What he intended to take up was, apparently, as much a mystery to the president as is the Einstein theory, which he has never professed to understand. There were reports that the California senator might not get here until later—perhaps not until next week.

SLAYERS OF PHILADELPHIA OFFICER TAKEN

CONFESSIONS ARE REPORTED MADE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Philadelphia's police department, with all the pomp and ceremony at its command, today will lay to rest the flag-draped casket containing the body of their buddy, Patrolman William G. Wilson, slain by young desperados in defense of a motion picture theatre's Labor Day receipts.

Less than a mile from the sorrowful funeral scene, the four purported killers, captured by brilliant sleuthing, await trials.

From each of the four suspects, detectives said, they obtained complete confessions. The homicide squad considers the slaying "completely cleared up," proving true once again the oft-repeated underworld axiom—"you can't kill a Philadelphia cop and get away with it."

Good Sleuthing

Less than 60 hours after the cold-blooded murder, the suspects were taken into custody. The first arrest, accomplished by two "dumb dicks," was made in Yonkers, N. Y., where the detectives had trailed the alleged ring-leader of the holdup gang.

The prisoners, accused of the slaying are:

Walter Mika, 24, who has a record of five previous arrests here; William Talerico, 21, Peter Talerico, 18, William's brother, and John Costello, 19, all of this city.

The first captured in yesterday's swift "clean-up" of the crime was Mika. He was arrested in Yonkers by two Philadelphia detectives. His confession, police said, led to the arrests and subsequent alleged confessions of the other three prisoners in this city.

MAY ASK USE OF FEDERAL TROOPS IN TEXTILE STRIKE

moving forward in its drive to close all mills.

Flying Squadrons Active

The main bodies of flying squadrons of pickets were reported moving in the Fall river and New Bedford areas of Massachusetts in long lines of motor cars. Others were seen near Lowell, Mass., and Manchester, N. H.

Both sides were prepared for violence. Some towns were described as armed camps. One hundred imported guards from New York manned parapets thrown up in streets leading to mills in Dighton, Mass.

While Salem authorities, saying loyal workers had been threatened with bombing in their homes, authorized police to "meet violence with violence," Horace A. Riviere, United Textile workers vice president was declaring at Fall River, Mass.

"If we are shot at we will shoot back. If we stick together three days we will close every mill in the country."

Claim 355,000 Out

It was estimated more than 355,000 were on strike in the nation. To this number Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the general strike committee, threatened to add 165,000 from industries allied with textiles.

Faced with the threat of a strike that would affect from 125,000 to 175,000 workers, cotton garment manufacturers nevertheless demanded revocation of the presidential order to cut down working hours from 40 to 36 hours a week.

The demand was telegraphed to the NRA by the cotton garment authority. At the same time the international garment workers union in New York voted to go on strike October 1.

Troops Mobilized

While violence in the Carolinas where eight were killed yesterday, six of them at Honea Path, S. C. had abated today, mobilization of the national guard and deputization of loyal workers continued. In North Carolina 1,400 troops were under arms. Thirteen companies of guardsmen were stationed at Greenville alone in South Carolina.

The American Legion and the Lions Club of South Carolina sent demands for a declaration of martial law to Governor Blackwood.

Strike leaders at Washington described the killings in Georgia and the Carolinas as "slaughter" and an "outrage against civilization."

The president's board of inquiry meeting for the first time in Washington in its efforts to end the strike began the study of the following three big problems confronting it:

Problems For Board

1.—Adjustment of hours and wages for the 750,000 workers.

2.—Finding of the "reasonable point" in the "stretch-out" system in the industry.

3.—Fixing of working conditions arising from use of new "labor-saving devices.

Two thousand "flying squadron" tickets were halted by solid walls of state police and special deputies at the American thread company mills at Willimantic, Conn., early today while 1,800 employes continued at work. Feeling ran high but the strikers drew off without violence.

Operators of dye plants in Paterson, N. J., appealed to their 10,000 workers to stay on the job in full page newspaper advertisements. The 13,000 striking silk workers are trying to call out the dye plant employes.

Relief Boards Of 3 Counties Are Merged

Lawrence, Mercer And Butler Counties Are In One District

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7.—County emergency relief boards of Butler, Lawrence and Mercer counties have been consolidated, it was announced today by the State Emergency Relief board.

An official of the board said the individual county boards consolidated their activities two months ago and that the State Emergency Relief board merely ratified the action at its meeting here yesterday.

It was previously announced from the office of Eric H. Biddle, state emergency relief director, that the consolidation had not been acted upon at yesterday's meeting, but another official of the board said the action had been taken but the board did not deem it necessary to issue a public notice.

The county boards have been consolidated under the head of an executive board comprised of T. Payne Nixon, of Butler, James K. Love, of New Castle and Frank A. Conner, Greenville. Love is chairman. The board will be known as the executive Board of Relief Area No. 10.

E. K. Robinson, of New Castle, was named executive director of the board at a salary of $250 a month by Biddle. The appointment was effective as of September 6 but all officials of the board did not profess to know whether his appointment was ratified at yesterday's meeting.

Nine such consolidations have been established by the board to reduce overhead and increase efficiency, it was explained.

Conner's resignation as chairman and member of the Mercer County Relief Board was accepted by the State Board yesterday. The resignation of L. Linwood Eisenberg, of Slippery Rock, as chairman and a member of the Butler County board, was accepted at the same time.

Take that "Question Mark" look out of your eyes. You can afford these Fall prices.

How on earth could we expect to do a record breaking business this Fall if even 25% of the men in New Castle couldn't afford our prices?

Why would we pay good money for newspaper space if the advertisements that went into your home were over your head?

We've raved about the styles . . . enthused over the patterns . . . acted a little daffy over the colorings . . . and now we're telling you that all this richness isn't too rich for your blood.

Yes, you can afford to pay Winter's price tickets on Fall clothing, hats and furnishings for the very good reason that we'd be in a pretty pickle if you couldn't!

Solemn high mass marked the wedding of Miss Nancy T. Ross, 502 South Jefferson street, daughter of Mrs. Antoinetta Ross, to Angelo Monsey, 826 Chestnut street, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Monsey.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Joseph Doerr in St. Joseph's church, Tuesday morning at 8:30, before a large number of guests who came from Mercer, Franklin, Ellwood City and East Palestine.

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Marie Felasco, and the groom was attended by the bride's brother-in-law, Mike Felasco.

The bride was beautifully attired in a black and white satin suit with which she wore a corsage of red roses, which were procured at the World's fair in Chicago. Her attendant wore a brown crepe ensemble with a corsage of tea roses.

After the ceremony, a sumptuous dinner was served in the bride's home for many members of the immediate families and a few invited guests.

After an extended trip through Ohio, Michigan and parts of Canada, Mr. Monsey and his bride will be at home to their friends at 1602 Huron avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Monsey are well known in New Castle, the former being the present Professional at the New Castle Field club.

Corn-Wiener Roast

An enjoyable time was had by a group of young people Wednesday evening, who were entertained at a corn and wiener roast at the home of Mrs. Emil Smolik on High street.

Cards, dancing and games were the diversions with prizes going to Emil Smolik and Edna Bigley, the affair being given in honor of the latter. Miss Sophian Jaworski rendered a beautiful solo entitled "Love In Bloom".

Lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Frank Jaworski.

Birthday Surprise.

Mrs. Leroy Rice, 806 Etna street, was much surprised Wednesday evening when several club associates gathered at her home. Many lovely gifts were presented her in honor of her birthday.

Games were pleasant diversions during the evening followed by lunch.

ASSISTING VOTERS

THE voters' assistance law, enacted in the administration of Governor Fisher and at his earnest insistence after a rather bitter battle, is a good law but is much more honored in the breach than in its enforcement.

The law provides that assistance shall be given only when the voter is unable to see or physically unable to mark his ballot. The voter asking for assistance must state his disability under oath and a record must be kept on blanks provided of the voter assisted, the reason for assistance and the name of the one assisting him.

Severe penalties, including imprisonment, are provided in the law with mandatory prison sentences for election officers who permit any persons to receive assistance without complying with the terms of the act. The record of assisted voters is a part of the official records of the election and are to be filed with the prothonotary by the judge of election when the official returns are made. These records may be opened for inspection on order of court.

New forms for these records to be used in this fall's election have been prepared by the election bureau of the department of the commonwealth with definite instructions to members of election boards regarding the law and its enforcement. The law, it is stated, will be strictly enforced this fall.

CONFLICTING PLANS

To those who put implicit faith in the efficacy of a "planned economy," complexities that arise are often disturbing.

Every effort is intended to serve as a stimulant to normal business operations. Certainly no brakes are needed, but when efforts are applied in opposite directions, the effect is the same as the application of a brake on the wheels of progress.

Take, for instance, the government plans to stimulate building and reconditioning of homes. Easy credit is being made available for persons of small income, so that they may enjoy the luxury of independence in comfortable quarters.

On the other hand, N. R. A. codes are held responsible for a trend toward higher prices of lumber and other building materials, though there has been no revival of trade as the usual concomitant. Also, to increase buying power, higher wages are decreed in the building crafts. These things have a tendency to raise building costs. In spite of the drive now being started by the Federal Housing Administration, and the easy credit terms being arranged for the benefit of home owners, the higher prices may serve as a deterrent. Prices are not yet excessive, as compared with pre-depression days, but they do show this upward trend.—Minneapolis Journal.

TREASURE HUNTING

Treasure hunters are frequently in the news these days. In a single week the newspapers reported the death of a man who once hunted pirate treasure, the lifting from the ocean floor of one treasure shop and the finding of another wreck supposed to have a full bullion room.

There is more treasure hunting today than in the romantic days of old because science has provided better equipment. Diving bells, submarine tools for cutting steel and salvage ships now make it possible for man to reach ships lying on the ocean floor.

From the wrecked liner Egypt a salvage crew has recovered 1033 bars of pure gold, bars of silver and thousands of British sovereigns, marking up one score in favor of the treasure hunters. Deep-sea divers are now breaking into the bullion room of another wreck, and several expeditions treasure-bent have been organized in the last year or two.

Discovery or recovery of a room full of gold bars is especially profitable today with gold commanding a high price and in great demand. A few yellow bars will play a treasure hunter a handsome profit.

Hunting buried or lost treasure is still the world's biggest gamble, with the odds against the gambler. It is a dangerous, expensive business in which the seeker pays a high price for the "easy money."

OMEN OF LONG WINTER?

Montana, where winter is winter, comes forth with the first weather sign for the approaching unpleasantness; a sign in which goosebone prophets read a prophecy which should make glad the hearts of winter resort magnates.

Deer returning earlier than usual to the plains and foothills from their summer feeding grounds in the mountains tell the mountain men that the winter will be early and hard. As to its length, some other weather sign must be found and interpreted.

This supposedly prophetic conduct of the Montana deer cannot be attributed to a scarcity of forage in the highlands, since it is known that the grazing is better in the uplands than in the lowlands. And knowing of nothing else to which to attribute it the weather prophets deduce that a hard winter is headed hellbent in their direction.

Perhaps the instinct of the deer has warned it, and then again an early breath of cold air out of the north may have deceived the animal instinct. It would not be the first time that migrating animals have departed too soon or remained behind too long.

PUBLICITY FOR WAR PENSIONS

The commander of the American Veterans Association has proposed that Congress enact a law requiring that all persons receiving a pension for war service be "publicly posted for a period of not less than 30 consecutive days during each calendar year with a statement of the annual amount received."

The secrecy that often covers up its beneficiaries is one of the abuses of the Federal pension system.

As a matter of fact and principle, the pension list should be a roll of honor on which every pension veteran should be willing and proud to see his name inscribed.

Publicity could serve the purpose of exposing unworthy recipients of the Government's favor as well as to deter others from pressing for a donation they do not deserve.

The old-timers had good air-conditioners in their homes, too. They were called cracks.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE TERMITES WITHIN US

The termite is a small insect, more like a coackroach than anything else, that loves the dark. He makes his home in wool and eats away until at last the timber—which may be a fencepost in the middle of the desert, but may be one of the timbers that support a home—becomes an almost hollow shell that collapses when any sudden pressure is put upon it. . . . Then the termite moves out or dies. . . . In the lands where the termite lives and flourishes men fight him constantly because he is their enemy. . . . But some men have termites even more dangerous within their own characters. Little termites of envy, callousness, selfishness, carelessness that can make a shell of a man, even though he seems as solid as ever.

When a man suddenly collapses sometimes people say, "What a hypocrite he was! He was like that all the time and we didn't know it." . . But that need not be true, it almost always is not true. . . A better remark might be, "The termites have been eating away in that man's character. He gave way little by little to them, not knowing how weak he had become, and then he succumbed to sudden pressure. Perhaps the termites that betrayed him are working in us, too."

Perhaps they are. But if they are it is possible for us to acquire some knowledge of their inroads into our character. . . . We know our own temptations and our failure fairly well. We have a general idea of the difference between the human being we were five years ago and the one we are now. We do not carry that knowledge in the foreground of our minds all the time. But in the flashes of self realization that come to everybody occasionally we see the difference plainly. We see that in some ways we are worse, in some ways we are better. We may not know just when the termites of destruction invaded us, but we know how to feel and that awareness ought to be enough to give us a clue to the changes that have taken place in our character. . . . The only wise thing is for a man to look sharply, challengingly, at himself occasionally to see what he is truly like. And then to do something about it. . . But not to take this inventory too often. Because we have plenty of other things to do.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK.

There's a reason for skepticism when a person boasts of his virtues.

Generally this is done to hide a tendency in the opposite direction.

The person who possesses virtues has neither need nor desire to allude to them.

Confident of their existence he sees no occasion to emphasize the fact.

But the person who is devoid of good points, wishes to creatae the impression that he is far better than he knows himself to be.

Like the person who has always possessed money, he takes it as a matter of course not something which should be discussed.

Money to him is something that is exchanged for some other possession which is needed or desired.

But to others money is looked upon as important, and they talk about their investments, their bonds, and the rise and fall of the market and other financial matters in general.

Many such persons are found in the washrooms of Pullman cars.

And what tiresome bluffers they are.

Sometime you will learn not to be boastful.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NEAT AND CONVENIENT.

The world admires a clever gadget wherever found, and one was recently discovered in the mutual water company's office, of a small town in California. In the office is a huge desk with a glass top, and under the glass is a map.

This is nothing unusual so far, but just press the button. The map disappears, rolling up on a hidden spindle, and another map takes its place. There are fifty-eight feet of maps, plans and drawings glued to a long strip of cloth.

By stopping the electric motor at the right spot, there can be seen any desired detail of the water company's territory or works right under the glass.

"It saves lot of handling," says the company's superintendent, who invented the map machine several years ago.

ARE 1,300 WORDS ENOUGH?

Can you express all you want to say in 1,300 words? Suppose you were out with a beautiful girl on a moonlight night. Can you limit yourself to 1,300 adjectives to tell her how irresistable she was? Of course a lot of folk's vocabularies are limited to less than 1,300 words and they get along. They never have any trouble making people understand them. And that is the way Dr. Michael West, of the Ontario College of Education, feels about it. He thinks 1,300 words are enough for any language. He believes high schools, colleges and universities try to teach their students too many words. Especially does he think it so in the case of foreign languages where, as a result, the students become confused and "obtain neither reading nor speaking ability."

One of them said: "George, you have completed your studies, what are you going to choose as an occupation?" He thought a moment and then responded: "Damfino, preach, I suppose."

THIS IS A BIG ONE

We were so struck by the similarity between the story William E. Read of Winterthur, Del. sent us and what actually happened to the snake editor a short while ago that we can vouch for the absolute truth of this one.

An editor of a busy daily newspaper was presented with a very expensive fountain pen one day, but after less than a week of proud possession it disappeared. Days of search lengthened into weeks of speculation as to what could have become of that pen. After some months had passed the editor struck with an idea, pulled down the top of his right ear and sure enough there was the missing fountain pen. Not only that but with this pen 14 more came tumbling down. He identified most of them as having belonged to him at one time or another which had been lost periodically over a long span of years.

REQUISITES OF A HAPPY FAMILY

The one factor contributing the most toward making a happy home, it was found recently in a survey made by Cornell University, is the lack of friction between the parents and between the parents and the children. It was also found from the 200 accounts of the lives and homes of students, that the homes in which the parents had received more education had the tendency to be the happiest and the most harmonious ones. Domination of the home by either one of the parents it was learned, increased the tension and tended to detract from the happiness of the family. A general display of affection by all members for each other decreased any tension and contributed much toward harmony. Home council and the minimum of necessary discipline coupled with a common interest, love and affection, and the confidence of the parents in the children do much toward making the home smooth and happy.

A WAY TO ELIMINATE FEAR

Do you ever quake when you are in the presence of a dignitary? Some people are overwhelmed by the prestige that clothes or position give to a man.

A psychologist suggests a way to eliminate this fear: When a big man glares at you, and you tremble just look at him coolly for a moment and try to imagine him without clothes. No NRA For "White Collars" Socialists Disown Sinclair For And Against Strikers' Relief

Central Press,
New York Bureau,
235 E. 45th St.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—These are dramatic times. So swiftly is the world moving now that history is recorded in the day's news, in men's thoughts' in men's actions.

That which seemed normal a year ago is viewed as antedated, as inadequate. Evolutionary processes are sweeping us onward—with, however, many a serious reaction, many a loss of hard-fought liberties, much suffering and much clamor.

Glimpse this news, these thoughts, these chronicles of action, gathered at random, to vision the swiftly-moving scene.

* * *

WHITE COLLARS

White collar workers for steel companies, to the extent of 40,000, took a 10 per cent wage cut with hardly a remonstrance.

The NRA protects organized employes. The white collars are not organized. They took their cut in the face of higher living costs.

The steel companies are faced with large deficits because of a drop in business.

Critics assert the steel companies "must" take the "water" out of capitalization, otherwise they never will earn sufficiently in the future to be able to modernize "to keep up with the procession."

* * *

SOCIALISTS VS. SINCLAIR

Upton Sinclair, who captured the Democratic nomination for governor in California, is disowned by the Socialists.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, explains:

"It is an encouraging sign that there are so many decent people in California who are outraged by the way that state has been exploited by big business and made a kind of training ground for Fascist denial of civil liberty.

"Mr. Sinclair, however, is not running as a Socialist or on a Socialist platform. I very much fear that his election would prove a tragedy to himself and to the cause of radicalism.

"Without a party organization behind him he cannot put over his program, which, despite some merit, will not accomplish the abolition of poverty in California. It is too late in the day for Upton Sinclair's version of an unscientific Fabian approach to socialism to win."

* * *

RELIEF FOR STRIKERS

The New York Times publishes as the lead letter a communication from Louis Francis Budenz, who has led strikers. Says Budenz:

"In The Times editorial 'Relief for Strikers' this conclusion appears: 'If the rule were established that the government would feed and lodge every man out of work, even if plenty of work were waiting for him on conditions, the result would be a general laying down of tools until the government, too, would also lay its tools down and make a plea in bankruptcy.'

"If this statement is to be taken seriously it implies such a widespread series of abuses against American workers as to reflect profoundly upon the present political and economic set-up. From 20 years' experience in leading strikes I can testify that workers do not lay down their tools save after long and extreme provocation. The Declaration of Independence has recognized that trait in the mass of the people; they will suffer a long train of abuses before taking any drastic action. . . .

"There is too frequently the assumption that the workers as a rule go off on emotional sprees, forgetful of their wives and children. The very opposite is the case. The worker will consider for a long time whether he shall subject his family to immediate difficulties and privations in order to win a greater goal through strike action. An agitator, no matter how eloquent he may be, is of small consequence unless the objective situation makes for a showdown.

"As to relief for strikers: It should be said that the government at the present time has no option but to grant such relief. Several hundred thousand organized men without food do not present a pretty picture in a land which could flow with milk and honey through proper use of its immense resources. There are implications there that the government dare not face. . . ."

* * *

THE OTHER SIDE

Also in the New York Times is a letter from Thomas Conyngton of Upper Montclair, N. J., who remarks:

"I noted that in the textile strike the government is expected to feed the workers. . . .

"If government funds are being used to support men engaged in strikes, it accounts for the many strikes in all parts of the country. It is true that labor has suffered grievous wrongs and that many strikes are justified, but a strike is closely akin to war. . . . Is this crude method of redressing alleged wrongs to be encouraged by government?

"It would seem that if government is to interfere it should be by providing some sort of compulsory arbitration, in which both parties appear for orderly trial. All of us, masters, men and plain citizens, need deliverance from the useless damage and destruction wrought by strikes. To encourage strikes is to play with fire."

In regard to the allegations made in this letter, union leaders respond that the government did provide a means of arbitration, "in which both parties appear for orderly trial" — but that the mill owners refused, except on their own terms of bargaining, which the workers believed discriminated against them.

* * *

Republicans are not sure of Maine this year. (The election is on Sept. 10.)

Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, says that if Governor Louis J. Brann, Democrat, is re-elected, "the G. O. P. might as well close shop."

One of the leading Republicans of the state already has declared for Governor Brann. Alfred K. Ames, retired lumberman, is Governor Brann's antagonist.

Senator Hale himself is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, Democratic national committeeman.

* * *

ARMS' COST

Cutting the arms' bill of the world in half would, in 20 years, pay off the debt of the nations of the world, and reduce misery and trade stagnation.

That statement is adduced from the announcement of the League of Nations that the world spent four billion dollars on armament in 1933.

The bill will be much larger in 1934, the United States alone having tripled its armament expenditures.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

The World War Day-By-Day, Sept. 7, 1914—The Ourcy phase of the Battle of the Marne ended: the La Fere-Champenoise phase began.

Gen. Maunoury's attack had so far failed to have the effect sought and expected by the French commander-in-chief; still the force of the blow had dislocated the joints of the armies of Von Kluck and Von Bulow. The latter was falling back to keep its alignment with Von Kluck, which was withdrawing and fighting minor engagements right across the battlefields of the Napolenic campaigns of 1814. However, the German army was retreating unnecessarily.

There was a rumor immediately afterward in the French ranks that there appeared in the haze over the Marne a singular phenomenon, a cavalcade of heavenly archers who suddenly filled the skies and shot down upon the Germans a rain of deadly darts. This was long before the use of gas; but on the field, it was declared, there were hundreds of Germans, stone dead, immovable, who had fallen without an apparent cause. It was like the armies of the old Scriptures that "the breath of the Lord withered away."

Twenty years later a partial explanation which military historians were to be more ready to accept, was to be offered for the sudden German retreat across the Marne.

The French pressure on Von Kluck's flank, the exhaustion of the Germans from their rapid advance, the inability of their service supplies to keep pace with their forward movements, were factors. But the real reason was a false order emanating from Lieut. Col. Hentsch, of the general staff!

On September 7, Lieut. Col Hentsch arrived at field headquarters of the armies in France and delivered an order purporting to come from the general staff for a retreat.

Lieut. Col. Hentsch died soon after—whether he was a suicide or was executed is not established—and Gen. Von Moltke died 21 months later. Their explanations are not available. A war ministry statement tells us:

"It is known that the retreat was the idea of Lieut. Col. Hentsch alone, but his reason for giving such an order never has been cleared up and never can be. He was not actuated by dishonorable or criminal motives."

COURTROOM INCIDENT

Out of the window the grave judge stared
As the verdict was read,
And this for the boy for whom nobody cared:
"Guilty!" they said.

And nobody guessed why the judge gazed so
Where was nothing to see,
For the vanished scenes of the long ago
Never plain can be.

But the judge looked back at a maiden fair
Near a garden gate
With the moonlight kissing her golden hair
As she promised to wait.

And the judge remembered the word that came:
"I'm another man's bride.
Forget and forgive," with the self-same name
Of the boy just tried!

When I questioned: "Why did you falter so
As the law you read?"
"Well, I knew his mother long years ago!"
Was all he said.

ASSISTING VOTERS

THE voters' assistance law, enacted in the administration of Governor Fisher and at his earnest insistence after a rather bitter battle, is a good law but is much more honored in the breach than in its enforcement.

The law provides that assistance shall be given only when the voter is unable to see or physically unable to mark his ballot. The voter asking for assistance must state his disability under oath and a record must be kept on blanks provided of the voter assisted, the reason for assistance and the name of the one assisting him.

Severe penalties, including imprisonment, are provided in the law with mandatory prison sentences for election officers who permit any persons to receive assistance without complying with the terms of the act. The record of assisted voters is a part of the official records of the election and are to be filed with the prothonotary by the judge of election when the official returns are made. These records may be opened for inspection on order of court.

New forms for these records to be used in this fall's election have been prepared by the election bureau of the department of the commonwealth with definite instructions to members of election boards regarding the law and its enforcement. The law, it is stated, will be strictly enforced this fall.

CONFLICTING PLANS

To those who put implicit faith in the efficacy of a "planned economy," complexities that arise are often disturbing.

Every effort is intended to serve as a stimulant to normal business operations. Certainly no brakes are needed, but when efforts are applied in opposite directions, the effect is the same as the application of a brake on the wheels of progress.

Take, for instance, the government plans to stimulate building and reconditioning of homes. Easy credit is being made available for persons of small income, so that they may enjoy the luxury of independence in comfortable quarters.

On the other hand, N. R. A. codes are held responsible for a trend toward higher prices of lumber and other building materials, though there has been no revival of trade as the usual concomitant. Also, to increase buying power, higher wages are decreed in the building crafts. These things have a tendency to raise building costs. In spite of the drive now being started by the Federal Housing Administration, and the easy credit terms being arranged for the benefit of home owners, the higher prices may serve as a deterrent. Prices are not yet excessive, as compared with pre-depression days, but they do show this upward trend.—Minneapolis Journal.

TREASURE HUNTING

Treasure hunters are frequently in the news these days. In a single week the newspapers reported the death of a man who once hunted pirate treasure, the lifting from the ocean floor of one treasure shop and the finding of another wreck supposed to have a full bullion room.

There is more treasure hunting today than in the romantic days of old because science has provided better equipment. Diving bells, submarine tools for cutting steel and salvage ships now make it possible for man to reach ships lying on the ocean floor.

From the wrecked liner Egypt a salvage crew has recovered 1033 bars of pure gold, bars of silver and thousands of British sovereigns, marking up one score in favor of the treasure hunters. Deep-sea divers are now breaking into the bullion room of another wreck, and several expeditions treasure-bent have been organized in the last year or two.

Discovery or recovery of a room full of gold bars is especially profitable today with gold commanding a high price and in great demand. A few yellow bars will play a treasure hunter a handsome profit.

Hunting buried or lost treasure is still the world's biggest gamble, with the odds against the gambler. It is a dangerous, expensive business in which the seeker pays a high price for the "easy money."

OMEN OF LONG WINTER?

Montana, where winter is winter, comes forth with the first weather sign for the approaching unpleasantness: a sign in which goosebone prophets read a prophecy which should make glad the hearts of winter resort magnates.

Deer returning earlier than usual to the plains and foothills from their summer feeding grounds in the mountains tell the mountain men that the winter will be early and hard. As to its length, some other weather sign must be found and interpreted.

This supposedly prophetic conduct of the Montana deer cannot be attributed to a scarcity of forage in the highlands, since it is known that the grazing is better in the uplands than in the lowlands. And knowing of nothing else to which to attribute it the weather prophets deduce that a hard winter is headed hellbent in their direction.

Perhaps the instinct of the deer has warned it, and then again an early breath of cold air out of the north may have deceived the animal instinct. It would not be the first time that migrating animals have departed too soon or remained behind too long.

PUBLICITY FOR WAR PENSIONS

The commander of the American Veterans Association has proposed that Congress enact a law requiring that all persons receiving a pension for war service be "publicly posted for a period of not less than 30 consecutive days during each calendar year with a statement of the annual amount received."

The secrecy that often covers up its beneficiaries is one of the abuses of the Federal pension system.

As a matter of fact and principle, the pension list should be a roll of honor on which every pension veteran should be willing and proud to see his name inscribed.

Publicity could serve the purpose of exposing unworthy recipients of the Government's favor as well as to deter others from pressing for a donation they do not deserve.

The old-timers had good air-conditioners in their homes, too. They were called cracks.

THE TERMITES WITHIN US

The termite is a small insect, more like a coackroach than anything else, that loves the dark. He makes his home in wool and eats away until at last the timber—which may be a fencepost in the middle of the desert, but may be one of the timbers that support a home—becomes an almost hollow shell that collapses when any sudden pressure is put upon it. . . . Then the termite moves out or dies. . . . In the lands where the termite lives and flourishes men fight him constantly because he is their enemy. . . . But some men have termites even more dangerous within their own characters. Little termites of envy, callousness, selfishness, carelessness that can make a shell of a man, even though he seems as solid as ever.

When a man suddenly collapses sometimes people say, "What a hypocrite he was! He was like that all the time and we didn't know it." . . . But that need not be true, it almost always is not true. . . A better remark might be, "The termites have been eating away in that man's character. He gave way little by little to them, not knowing how weak he had become, and then he succumbed to sudden pressure. Perhaps the termites that betrayed him are working in us, too."

Perhaps they are. But if they are it is possible for us to acquire some knowledge of their inroads into our character. . . . We know our own temptations and our failure fairly well. We have a general idea of the difference between the human being we were five years ago and the one we are now. We do not carry that knowledge in the foreground of our minds all the time. But in the flashes of self realization that come to everybody occasionally we see the difference plainly. We see that in some ways we are worse, in some ways we are better. We may not know just when the termites of destruction invaded us, but we know how to feel and that awareness ought to be enough to give us a clue to the changes that have taken place in our character. . . . The only wise thing is for a man to look sharply, challengingly, at himself occasionally to see what he is truly like. And then to do something about it. . . But not to take this inventory too often. Because we have plenty of other things to do.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK.

There's a reason for skepticism when a person boasts of his virtues.

Generally this is done to hide a tendency in the opposite direction.

The person who possesses virtues has neither need nor desire to allude to them.

Confident of their existence he sees no occasion to emphasize the fact.

But the person who is devoid of good points, wishes to create the impression that he is far better than he knows himself to be.

Like the person who has always possessed money, he takes it as a matter of course not something which should be discussed.

Money to him is something that is exchanged for some other possession which is needed or desired.

But to others money is looked upon as important, and they talk about their investments, their bonds, and the rise and fall of the market and other financial matters in general.

Many such persons are found in the washrooms of Pullman cars.

And what tiresome bluffers they are.

NEAT AND CONVENIENT.

The world admires a clever gadget wherever found, and one was recently discovered in the mutual water company's office, of a small town in California. In the office is a huge desk with a glass top, and under the glass is a map.

This is nothing unusual so far, but just press the button. The map disappears, rolling up on a hidden spindle, and another map takes its place. There are fifty-eight feet of maps, plans and drawings glued to a long strip of cloth.

By stopping the electric motor at the right spot, there can be seen any desired detail of the water company's territory or works right under the glass.

"It saves lot of handling," says the company's superintendent, who invented the map machine several years ago.

ARE 1,300 WORDS ENOUGH?

Can you express all you want to say in 1,300 words? Suppose you were out with a beautiful girl on a moonlight night. Can you limit yourself to 1,300 adjectives to tell her how irresistable she was? Of course a lot of folk's vocabularies are limited to less than 1,300 words and they get along. They never have any trouble making people understand them. And that is the way Dr. Michael West, of the Ontario College of Education, feels about it. He thinks 1,300 words are enough for any language. He believes high schools, colleges and universities try to teach their students too many words. Especially does he think it so in the case of foreign languages where, as a result, the students become confused and "obtain neither reading nor speaking ability."

We were so struck by the similarity between the story William E. Read of Winterthur, Del. sent us and what actually happened to the snake editor a short while ago that we can vouch for the absolute truth of this one.

An editor of a busy daily newspaper was presented with a very expensive fountain pen one day, but after less than a week of proud possession it disappeared. Days of search lengthened into weeks of speculation as to what could have become of that pen. After some months had passed the editor struck with an idea, pulled down the top of his right ear and sure enough there was the missing fountain pen. Not only that but with this pen 14 more came tumbling down. He identified most of them as having belonged to him at one time or another which had been lost periodically over a long span of years.

REQUISITES OF A HAPPY FAMILY

The one factor contributing the most toward making a happy home, it was found recently in a survey made by Cornell University, is the lack of friction between the parents and between the parents and the children. It was also found from the 200 accounts of the lives and homes of students, that the homes in which the parents had received more education had the tendency to be the happiest and the most harmonious ones. Domination of the home by either one of the parents it was learned, increased the tension and tended to detract from the happiness of the family. A general display of affection by all members for each other decreased any tension and contributed much toward harmony. Home council and the minimum of necessary discipline coupled with a common interest, love and affection, and the confidence of the parents in the children do much toward making the home smooth and happy.

No NRA For "White Collars" Socialists Disown Sinclair For And Against Strikers' Relief

Central Press,
New York Bureau,

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—These are dramatic times. So swiftly is the world moving now that history is recorded in the day's news, in men's thoughts' in men's actions.

That which seemed normal a year ago is viewed as antedated, as inadequate. Evolutionary processes are sweeping us onward—with, however, many a serious reaction, many a loss of hard-fought liberties, much suffering and much clamor.

Glimpse this news, these thoughts, these chronicles of action, gathered at random, to vision the swiftly-moving scene.

* * *

WHITE COLLARS

White collar workers for steel companies, to the extent of 40,000, took a 10 per cent wage cut with hardly a remonstrance.

The NRA protects organized employes. The white collars are not organized. They took their cut in the face of higher living costs.

The steel companies are faced with large deficits because of a drop in business.

Critics assert the steel companies "must" take the "water" out of capitalization, otherwise they never will earn sufficiently in the future to be able to modernize "to keep up with the procession."

* * *

SOCIALISTS VS. SINCLAIR

Upton Sinclair, who captured the Democratic nomination for governor in California, is disowned by the Socialists.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, explains:

"It is an encouraging sign that there are so many decent people in California who are outraged by the way that state has been exploited by big business and made a kind of training ground for Fascist denial of civil liberty.

"Mr. Sinclair, however, is not running as a Socialist or on a Socialist platform. I very much fear that his election would prove a tragedy to himself and to the cause of radicalism.

"Without a party organization behind him he cannot put over his program, which, despite some merit, will not accomplish the abolition of poverty in California. It is too late in the day for Upton Sinclair's version of an unscientific Fabian approach to socialism to win."

* * *

RELIEF FOR STRIKERS

The New York Times publishes as the lead letter a communication from Louis Francis Budenz, who has led strikers. Says Budenz:

"In The Times editorial 'Relief for Strikers' this conclusion appears: 'If the rule were established that the government would feed and lodge every man out of work, even if plenty of work were waiting for him on conditions, the result would be a general laying down of tools until the government, too, would also lay its tools down and make a plea in bankruptcy.'

"If this statement is to be taken seriously it implies such a widespread series of abuses against American workers as to reflect profoundly upon the present political and economic set-up. From 20 years' experience in leading strikes I can testify that workers do not lay down their tools save after long and extreme provocation. The Declaration of Independence has recognized that trait in the mass of the people; they will suffer a long train of abuses before taking any drastic action. . . .

"There is too frequently the assumption that the workers as a rule go off on emotional sprees, forgetful of their wives and children. The very opposite is the case. The worker will consider for a long time whether he shall subject his family to immediate difficulties and privations in order to win a greater goal through strike action. An agitator, no matter how eloquent he may be, is of small consequence unless the objective situation makes for a showdown.

"As to relief for strikers: It should be said that the government at the present time has no option but to grant such relief. Several hundred thousand organized men without food do not present a pretty picture in a land which could flow with milk and honey through proper use of its immense resources. There are implications there that the government dare not face. . . ."

* * *

THE OTHER SIDE

Also in the New York Times is a letter from Thomas Conyngton of Upper Montclair, N. J., who remarks:

"I noted that in the textile strike the government is expected to feed the workers. . . .

"If government funds are being used to support men engaged in strikes, it accounts for the many strikes in all parts of the country. It is true that labor has suffered grievous wrongs and that many strikes are justified, but a strike is closely akin to war. . . . Is this crude method of redressing alleged wrongs to be encouraged by government?

"It would seem that if government is to interfere it should be by providing some sort of compulsory arbitration, in which both parties appear for orderly trial. All of us, masters, men and plain citizens, need deliverance from the useless damage and destruction wrought by strikes. To encourage strikes is to play with fire."

In regard to the allegations made in this letter, union leaders respond that the government did provide a means of arbitration, "in which both parties appear for orderly trial" — but that the mill owners refused, except on their own terms of bargaining, which the workers believed discriminated against them.

* * *

Republicans are not sure of Maine this year. (The election is on Sept. 10.)

Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, says that if Governor Louis J. Brann, Democrat, is re-elected, "the G. O. P. might as well close shop."

One of the leading Republicans of the state already has declared for Governor Brann. Alfred K. Ames, retired lumberman, is Governor Brann's antagonist.

Senator Hale himself is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, Democratic national committeeman.

* * *

ARMS' COST

Cutting the arms' bill of the world in half would, in 20 years, pay off the debt of the nations of the world, and reduce misery and trade stagnation.

That statement is adduced from the announcement of the League of Nations that the world spent four billion dollars on armament in 1933.

The bill will be much larger in 1934, the United States alone having tripled its armament expenditures.

TODAY Is The Day

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

The World War Day-By-Day, Sept. 7, 1914—The Ourcy phase of the Battle of the Marne ended; the La Fere-Champenoise phase began.

Gen. Maunoury's attack had so far failed to have the effect sought and expected by the French commander-in-chief; still the force of the blow had dislocated the joints of the armies of Von Kluck and Von Bulow. The latter was falling back to keep its alignment with Von Kluck, which was withdrawing and fighting minor engagements right across the battlefields of the Napolenic campaigns of 1814. However, the German army was retreating unnecessarily.

There was a rumor immediately afterward in the French ranks that there appeared in the haze over the Marne a singular phenomenon, a cavalcade of heavenly archers who suddenly filled the skies and shot down upon the Germans a rain of deadly darts. This was long before the use of gas; but on the field, it was declared, there were hundreds of Germans, stone dead, immovable, who had fallen without an apparent cause. It was like the armies of the old Scriptures that "the breath of the Lord withered away."

Twenty years later a partial explanation which military historians were to be more ready to accept, was to be offered for the sudden German retreat across the Marne.

The French pressure on Von Kluck's flank, the exhaustion of the Germans from their rapid advance, the inability of their service supplies to keep pace with their forward movements, were factors. But the real reason was a false order emanating from Lieut. Col. Hentsch, of the general staff!

On September 7, Lieut. Col. Hentsch arrived at field headquarters of the armies in France and delivered an order purporting to come from the general staff for a retreat.

Lieut. Col. Hentsch died soon after—whether he was a suicide or was executed is not established—and Gen. Von Moltke died 21 months later. Their explanations are not available. A war ministry statement tells us:

"It is known that the retreat was the idea of Lieut. Col. Hentsch alone, but his reason for giving such an order never has been cleared up and never can be. He was not actuated by dishonorable or criminal motives."

ASSISTING VOTERS

THE voters' assistance law, enacted in the administration of Governor Fisher and at his earnest insistence after a rather bitter battle, is a good law but is much more honored in the breach than in its enforcement.

The law provides that assistance shall be given only when the voter is unable to see or physically unable to mark his ballot. The voter asking for assistance must state his disability under oath and a record must be kept on blanks provided of the voter assisted, the reason for assistance and the name of the one assisting him.

Severe penalties, including imprisonment, are provided in the law with mandatory prison sentences for election officers who permit any persons to receive assistance without complying with the terms of the act. The record of assisted voters is a part of the official records of the election and are to be filed with the prothonotary by the judge of election when the official returns are made. These records may be opened for inspection on order of court.

New forms for these records to be used in this fall's election have been prepared by the election bureau of the department of the commonwealth with definite instructions to members of election boards regarding the law and its enforcement. The law, it is stated, will be strictly enforced this fall.

CONFLICTING PLANS

To those who put implicit faith in the efficacy of a "planned economy," complexities that arise are often disturbing.

Every effort is intended to serve as a stimulant to normal business operations. Certainly no brakes are needed, but when efforts are applied in opposite directions, the effect is the same as the application of a brake on the wheels of progress.

Take, for instance, the government plans to stimulate building and reconditioning of homes. Easy credit is being made available for persons of small income, so that they may enjoy the luxury of independence in comfortable quarters.

On the other hand, N. R. A. codes are held responsible for a trend toward higher prices of lumber and other building materials, though there has been no revival of trade as the usual concomitant. Also, to increase buying power, higher wages are decreed in the building crafts. These things have a tendency to raise building costs. In spite of the drive now being started by the Federal Housing Administration, and the easy credit terms being arranged for the benefit of home owners, the higher prices may serve as a deterrent. Prices are not yet excessive, as compared with pre-depression days, but they do show this upward trend.—Minneapolis Journal.

TREASURE HUNTING

Treasure hunters are frequently in the news these days. In a single week the newspapers reported the death of a man who once hunted pirate treasure, the lifting from the ocean floor of one treasure shop and the finding of another wreck supposed to have a full bullion room.

There is more treasure hunting today than in the romantic days of old because science has provided better equipment. Diving bells, submarine tools for cutting steel and salvage ships now make it possible for man to reach ships lying on the ocean floor.

From the wrecked liner Egypt a salvage crew has recovered 1033 bars of pure gold, bars of silver and thousands of British sovereigns, marking up one score in favor of the treasure hunters. Deep-sea divers are now breaking into the bullion room of another wreck, and several expeditions treasure-bent have been organized in the last year or two.

Discovery or recovery of a room full of gold bars is especially profitable today with gold commanding a high price and in great demand. A few yellow bars will play a treasure hunter a handsome profit.

Hunting buried or lost treasure is still the world's biggest gamble, with the odds against the gambler. It is a dangerous, expensive business in which the seeker pays a high price for the "easy money."

OMEN OF LONG WINTER?

Montana, where winter is winter, comes forth with the first weather sign for the approaching unpleasantness; a sign in which goosebone prophets read a prophecy which should make glad the hearts of winter resort magnates.

Deer returning earlier than usual to the plains and foothills from their summer feeding grounds in the mountains tell the mountain men that the winter will be early and hard. As to its length, some other weather sign must be found and interpreted.

This supposedly prophetic conduct of the Montana deer cannot be attributed to a scarcity of forage in the highlands, since it is known that the grazing is better in the uplands than in the lowlands. And knowing of nothing else to which to attribute it the weather prophets deduce that a hard winter is headed hellbent in their direction.

Perhaps the instinct of the deer has warned it, and then again an early breath of cold air out of the north may have deceived the animal instinct. It would not be the first time that migrating animals have departed too soon or remained behind too long.

PUBLICITY FOR WAR PENSIONS

The commander of the American Veterans Association has proposed that Congress enact a law requiring that all persons receiving a pension for war service be "publicly posted for a period of not less than 30 consecutive days during each calendar year with a statement of the annual amount received."

The secrecy that often covers up its beneficiaries is one of the abuses of the Federal pension system.

As a matter of fact and principle, the pension list should be a roll of honor on which every pension veteran should be willing and proud to see his name inscribed.

Publicity could serve the purpose of exposing unworthy recipients of the Government's favor as well as to deter others from pressing for a donation they do not deserve.

THE TERMITES WITHIN US

The termite is a small insect, more like a coackroach than anything else, that loves the dark. He makes his home in wool and eats away until at last the timber—which may be a fencepost in the middle of the desert, but may be one of the timbers that support a home—becomes an almost hollow shell that collapses when any sudden pressure is put upon it. . . . Then the termite moves out or dies. . . . In the lands where the termite lives and flourishes men fight him constantly because he is their enemy. . . . But some men have termites even more dangerous within their own characters. Little termites of envy, callousness, selfishness, carelessness that can make a shell of a man, even though he seems as solid as ever.

When a man suddenly collapses sometimes people say, "What a hypocrite he was! He was like that all the time and we didn't know it." . . . But that need not be true, it almost always is not true . . . A better remark might be, "The termites have been eating away in that man's character. He gave way little by little to them, not knowing how weak he had become, and then he succumbed to sudden pressure. Perhaps the termites that betrayed him are working in us, too."

Perhaps they are. But if they are it is possible for us to acquire some knowledge of their inroads into our character. . . . We know our own temptations and our failure fairly well. We have a general idea of the difference between the human being we were five years ago and the one we are now. We do not carry that knowledge in the foreground of our minds all the time. But in the flashes of self realization that come to everybody occasionally we see the difference plainly. We see that in some ways we are worse, in some ways we are better. We may not know just when the termites of destruction invaded us, but we know how to feel and that awareness ought to be enough to give us a clue to the changes that have taken place in our character. . . . The only wise thing is for a man to look sharply, challengingly, at himself occasionally to see what he is truly like. And then to do something about it . . . But not to take this inventory too often. Because we have plenty of other things to do.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK.

There's a reason for skepticism when a person boasts of his virtues.

Generally this is done to hide a tendency in the opposite direction.

The person who possesses virtues has neither need nor desire to allude to them.

Confident of their existence he sees no occasion to emphasize the fact.

But the person who is devoid of good points, wishes to createe the impression that he is far better than he knows himself to be.

Like the person who has always possessed money, he takes it as a matter of course not something which should be discussed.

Money to him is something that is exchanged for some other possession which is needed or desired.

But to others money is looked upon as important, and they talk about their investments, their bonds, and the rise and fall of the market and other financial matters in general.

Many such persons are found in the washrooms of Pullman cars.

And what tiresome bluffers they are.

NEAT AND CONVENIENT.

The world admires a clever gadget wherever found, and one was recently discovered in the mutual water company's office, of a small town in California. In the office is a huge desk with a glass top, and under the glass is a map.

This is nothing unusual so far, but just press the button. The map disappears, rolling up on a hidden spindle, and another map takes its place. There are fifty-eight feet of maps, plans and drawings glued to a long strip of cloth.

By stopping the electric motor at the right spot, there can be seen any desired detail of the water company's territory or works right under the glass.

"It saves lot of handling," says the company's superintendent, who invented the map machine several years ago.

Can you express all you want to say in 1,300 words? Suppose you were out with a beautiful girl on a moonlight night. Can you limit yourself to 1,300 adjectives to tell her how irresistable she was? Of course a lot of folk's vocabularies are limited to less than 1,300 words and they get along. They never have any trouble making people understand them. And that is the way Dr. Michael West, of the Ontario College of Education, feels about it. He thinks 1,300 words are enough for any language. He believes high schools, colleges and universities try to teach their students too many words. Especially does he think it so in the case of foreign languages where, as a result, the students become confused and "obtain neither reading nor speaking ability."

We were so struck by the similarity between the story William E. Read of Winterthur, Del. sent us and what actually happened to the snake editor a short while ago that we can vouch for the absolute truth of this one.

An editor of a busy daily newspaper was presented with a very expensive fountain pen one day, but after less than a week of proud possession it disappeared. Days of search lengthened into weeks of speculation as to what could have become of that pen. After some months had passed the editor struck with an idea, pulled down the top of his right ear and sure enough there was the missing fountain pen. Not only that but with this pen 14 more came tumbling down. He identified most of them as having belonged to him at one time or another which had been lost periodically over a long span of years.

REQUISITES OF A HAPPY FAMILY

The one factor contributing the most toward making a happy home, it was found recently in a survey made by Cornell University, is the lack of friction between the parents and between the parents and the children. It was also found from the 200 accounts of the lives and homes of students, that the homes in which the parents had received more education had the tendency to be the happiest and the most harmonious ones. Domination of the home by either one of the parents it was learned, increased the tension and tended to detract from the happiness of the family. A general display of affection by all members for each other decreased any tension and contributed much toward harmony. Home council and the minimum of necessary discipline coupled with a common interest, love and affection, and the confidence of the parents in the children do much toward making the home smooth and happy.

Do you ever quake when you are in the presence of a dignitary? Some people are overwhelmed by the prestige that clothes or position give to a man.

A psychologist suggests a way to eliminate this fear: When a big man glares at you, and you tremble just look at him coolly for a moment and try to imagine him without clothes. No NRA For "White Collars" Socialists Disown Sinclair For And Against Strikers' Relief

Central Press,

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—These are dramatic times. So swiftly is the world moving now that history is recorded in the day's news, in men's thoughts' in men's actions.

That which seemed normal a year ago is viewed as antedated, as inadequate. Evolutionary processes are sweeping us onward—with, however, many a serious reaction, many a loss of hard-fought liberties, much suffering and much clamor.

Glimpse this news, these thoughts, these chronicles of action, gathered at random, to vision the swiftly-moving scene.

WHITE COLLARS

White collar workers for steel companies, to the extent of 40,000, took a 10 per cent wage cut with hardly a remonstrance.

The NRA protects organized employes. The white collars are not organized. They took their cut in the face of higher living costs.

The steel companies are faced with large deficits because of a drop in business.

Critics assert the steel companies "must" take the "water" out of capitalization, otherwise they never will earn sufficiently in the future to be able to modernize "to keep up with the procession."

SOCIALISTS VS. SINCLAIR

Upton Sinclair, who captured the Democratic nomination for governor in California, is disowned by the Socialists.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, explains:

"It is an encouraging sign that there are so many decent people in California who are outraged by the way that state has been exploited by big business and made a kind of training ground for Fascist denial of civil liberty.

"Mr. Sinclair, however, is not running as a Socialist or on a Socialist platform. I very much fear that his election would prove a tragedy to himself and to the cause of radicalism.

"Without a party organization behind him he cannot put over his program, which, despite some merit, will not accomplish the abolition of poverty in California. It is too late in the day for Upton Sinclair's version of an unscientific Fabian approach to socialism to win."

RELIEF FOR STRIKERS

The New York Times publishes as the lead letter a communication from Louis Francis Budenz, who has led strikers. Says Budenz:

"In The Times editorial 'Relief for Strikers' this conclusion appears: 'If the rule were established that the government would feed and lodge every man out of work, even if plenty of work were waiting for him on conditions, the result would be a general laying down of tools until the government, too, would also lay its tools down and make a plea in bankruptcy.'

"If this statement is to be taken seriously it implies such a widespread series of abuses against American workers as to reflect profoundly upon the present political and economic set-up. From 20 years' experience in leading strikes I can testify that workers do not lay down their tools save after long and extreme provocation. The Declaration of Independence has recognized that trait in the mass of the people; they will suffer a long train of abuses before taking any drastic action. . . .

"There is too frequently the assumption that the workers as a rule go off on emotional sprees, forgetful of their wives and children. The very opposite is the case. The worker will consider for a long time whether he shall subject his family to immediate difficulties and privations in order to win a greater goal through strike action. An agitator, no matter how eloquent he may be, is of small consequence unless the objective situation makes for a showdown.

"As to relief for strikers: It should be said that the government at the present time has no option but to grant such relief. Several hundred thousand organized men without food do not present a pretty picture in a land which could flow with milk and honey through proper use of its immense resources. There are implications there that the government dare not face. . . ."

* * *

THE OTHER SIDE

Also in the New York Times is a letter from Thomas Conyngton of Upper Montclair, N. J., who remarks:

"I noted that in the textile strike the government is expected to feed the workers. . . .

"If government funds are being used to support men engaged in strikes, it accounts for the many strikes in all parts of the country. It is true that labor has suffered grievous wrongs and that many strikes are justified, but a strike is closely akin to war. . . . Is this crude method of redressing alleged wrongs to be encouraged by government?

"It would seem that if government is to interfere it should be by providing some sort of compulsory arbitration, in which both parties appear for orderly trial. All of us, masters, men and plain citizens, need deliverance from the useless damage and destruction wrought by strikes. To encourage strikes is to play with fire."

In regard to the allegations made in this letter, union leaders respond that the government did provide a means of arbitration, "in which both parties appear for orderly trial" — but that the mill owners refured, except on their own terms of bargaining, which the workers believed discriminated against them.

MAINE ELECTION

Republicans are not sure of Maine this year. (The election is on Sept. 10.)

Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, says that if Governor Louis J. Brann, Democrat, is re-elected, "the G. O. P. might as well close shop."

One of the leading Republicans of the state already has declared for Governor Brann. Alfred K. Ames, retired lumberman, is Governor Brann's antagonist.

Senator Hale himself is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, Democratic national committeeman.

ARMS' COST

Cutting the arms' bill of the world in half would, in 20 years, pay off the debt of the nations of the world, and reduce misery and trade stagnation.

That statement is adduced from the announcement of the League of Nations that the world spent four billion dollars on armament in 1933.

The bill will be much larger in 1934, the United States alone having tripled its armament expenditures.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7.

The World War Day-By-Day, Sept. 7, 1914—The Ourcy phase of the Battle of the Marne ended; the La Fere-Champenoise phase began.

Gen. Maunoury's attack had so far failed to have the effect sought and expected by the French commander-in-chief; still the force of the blow had dislocated the joints of the armies of Von Kluck and Von Bulow. The latter was falling back to keep its alignment with Von Kluck, which was withdrawing and fighting minor engagements right across the battlefields of the Napolenic campaigns of 1814. However, the German army was retreating unnecessarily.

There was a rumor immediately afterward in the French ranks that there appeared in the haze over the Marne a singular phenomenon, a cavalcade of heavenly archers who suddenly filled the skies and shot down upon the Germans a rain of deadly darts. This was long before the use of gas; but on the field, it was declared, there were hundreds of Germans, stone dead, immovable, who had fallen without an apparent cause. It was like the armies of the old Scriptures that "the breath of the Lord withered away."

Twenty years later a partial explanation which military historians were to be more ready to accept, was to be offered for the sudden German retreat across the Marne.

The French pressure on Von Kluck's flank, the exhaustion of the Germans from their rapid advance, the inability of their service supplies to keep pace with their forward movements, were factors. But the real reason was a false order emanating from Lieut. Col. Hentsch, of the general staff!

On September 7, Lieut. Col. Hentsch arrived at field headquarters of the armies in France and delivered an order purporting to come from the general staff for a retreat.

Lieut. Col. Hentsch died soon after—whether he was a suicide or was executed is not established—and Gen. Von Moltke died 21 months later. Their explanations are not available. A war ministry statement tells us:

"It is known that the retreat was the idea of Lieut. Col. Hentsch alone, but his reason for giving such an order never has been cleared up and never can be. He was not actuated by dishonorable or criminal motives."

COURTROOM INCIDENT

Out of the window the grave judge stared
As the verdict was read.
And this for the boy for whom nobody cared:
"Guilty!" they said.

And nobody guessed why the judge gazed so
Where was nothing to see.
For the vanished scenes of the long ago
Never plain can be.

But the judge looked back at a maiden fair
Near a garden gate
With the moonlight kissing her golden hair
As she promised to wait.

And the judge remembered the word that came:
"I'm another man's bride.
Forget and forgive," with the self-same name
Of the boy just tried!

When I questioned: "Why did you falter so
As the law you read?"
"Well, I knew his mother long years ago!"
Was all he said.

Cotton Garment Firms Protest

Seek Revocation Of NRA Order On Wages And Hours To Prevent Strike

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Confronted with the threat of a strike that would affect from 125,000 to 175,000 workers in New York, Pennsylvania and the middle west, cotton garment manufacturers today awaited a reply to their telegram demanding revocation of the presidential order to cut down working hours and maintain wages.

The wire, which denounced the order as arbitrary and destructive of self-government in the industry, was sent to the NRA by the cotton garment authority.

At the same time, the International garment workers union in Nek York voted financial aid for the striking textile workers and called a strike of its own, effective October 1.

Announcement of the strike which has been brewing for some time, was made simultaneously with announcement of an immediate walkout of 2,800 textile yarn workers.

Sept. 7, 1892—When the bell signalled the 21st round of the first world's heavyweight championship fight under Queensbury rules, John L. Sullivan came up O. K. again after the beating from the previous round. He led with a weak left. Corbett was watching for an opening. The house filled with men who had come a long way to New Orleans to this fight, was now all Corbett.

John sparred for him, but Jim jabbed him as he pleased. Fiercely Corbett fought the almost helpless champion to the rope and banged with rights and lefts at will.

Sullivan fell three times. He tried to get up and fell supinely back again, clearly knocked out. Blood was pouring from his mouth and nose as he was lifted into his corner.

James J. Corbett stood in the centre of the ring—the new champion of the world, without a scratch on him. The fight had lasted one hour, 23 minutes.

When John arose, Corbett crossed quickly over and shook hands with him. Sullivan tried to address the crowd. His voice was hoarse:

"Gentlemen, all I have to say is that I stayed once too long in the ring, and that I am glad America has so good a new champion."

Corbett took the entire purse of $45,000. It was Sullivan's last professional appearance in the ring. One satisfaction was left to him; he was never beaten under the London Prize Ring rules.

(On the second anniversary of his victory, Corbett appeared in the first motion picture of a fight ever made. Thomas Edison wanted to submit his new device called the motion picture to a sporting test. He engaged Corbett to fight one Peter Courtney in a stuffy, blacklines box at his studio in South Orange, N. J. Corbett knocked out his man in the 6th round for purpose of the movie.)

Cotton Garment Firms Protest

Seek Revocation Of NRA Order On Wages And Hours To Prevent Strike

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Confronted with the threat of a strike that would affect from 125,000 to 175,000 workers in New York, Pennsylvania and the middle west, cotton garment manufacturers today awaited a reply to their telegram demanding revocation of the presidential order to cut down working hours and maintain wages.

The wire, which denounced the order as arbitrary and destructive of self-government in the industry, was sent to the NRA by the cotton garment authority.

At the same time, the International garment workers union in Nek York voted financial aid for the striking textile workers and called a strike of its own, effective October 1.

Announcement of the strike which has been brewing for some time, was made simultaneously with announcement of an immediate walkout of 2,800 textile yarn workers.

ond offensive along the Lower Drina begun on the 7th by Potiorek, the general whose carelessness in guarding Archduke Franz Ferdinand on his visit to Bosnia provided the opportunity for his assassination at Sarajevo and the excuse for the war. The Montenegran army joined the Serbs in endeavoring to break the force of the attack.

Great Days, Sept. 7, 1533—Elizabeth Tudor, destined to rule England during its golden age, was born to Anne Bolyn less than enough months after Anne became the 2nd of the 6 wives of Henry VIII; and was declared illegitimate.

Nevertheless, after a half-brother by Henry's 3rd queen and a half-sister by Henry's 1st queen had ruled 11 years, Elizabeth became the occupant of the throne for 44 years. During those 44 years the English colonies were planted in America.

Sept. 7, 1867.—Same day that President Andrew Johnson proclaimed general amnesty and pardon for all who had borne any part in the rebellion. John Pierpont Morgan was born at Irvington, N. Y. His father believed in astrology and planned that Junior should be born when the stars were favorable!

Sept. 7, 1892—When the bell signalled the 21st round of the first world's heavyweight championship fight under Queensbury rules, John L. Sullivan came up O. K. again after the beating from the previous round. He led with a weak left. Corbett was watching for an opening. The house filled with men who had come a long way to New Orleans to this fight, was now all Corbett.

John sparred for him, but Jim jabbed him as he pleased. Fiercely Corbett fought the almost helpless champion to the rope and banged with rights and lefts at will.

Sullivan fell three times. He tried to get up and fell supinely back again, clearly knocked out. Blood was pouring from his mouth and nose as he was lifted into his corner.

James J. Corbett stood in the centre of the ring—the new champion of the world, without a scratch on him. The fight had lasted one hour, 23 minutes.

When John arose, Corbett crossed quickly over and shook hands with him. Sullivan tried to address the crowd. His voice was hoarse:

"Gentlemen, all I have to say is that I stayed once too long in the ring, and that I am glad America has so good a new champion."

Corbett took the entire purse of $45,000. It was Sullivan's last professional appearance in the ring. One satisfaction was left to him; he was never beaten under the London Prize Ring rules.

(On the second anniversary of his victory, Corbett appeared in the first motion picture of a fight ever made. Thomas Edison wanted to submit his new device called the motion picture to a sporting test. He engaged Corbett to fight one Peter Courtney in a stuffy, blacklines box at his studio in South Orange, N. J. Corbett knocked out his man in the 6th round for purpose of the movie.)

Colletta Is Sweet On Grove City Boy, May Trip To Altar

However, Sammy Puntureri, Son Of Night Club Owner, Says "I Don't Love Colletta"

Miss Mulvihill Hopes Tommy Creen Gets Nice Girl And Settles Down To Happiness

EDITORS NOTE—The following article was written especially for International News Service by Collette Mulvihill, Pennsylvania girl who told of her plans of obtaining an annulment of her marriage to Tom Creen, 21-year-old truck driver, in order that she may wed Sam Puntureri, son of the proprietor of a night club near Grove City, Pa.

By COLLETTE MULVIHILL
(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—I want the people who read this article to know that I am not as irresponsible as the papers have painted me.

Tommy is a very fine man and one worthy of a very fine wife, and I sincerely hope he wins the girl he really loves.

Tom really deserves happiness and I hope he finds it.

Sammy has tried to protect me from publicity and therefore I think his love is sincere, and I hope that some day I may be his wife and deserving of his love.

Sammy Is Head Man

My life has been entirely happy as long as I stayed with my mother. I know that she has faith in me and would never fail me. I sincerely hope that Sammy meets with her approval because I am sure that he would love her as much as I do.

Mom has never questioned my judgment and if I really love him, which I do, she will be my matron of honor and wish me all the happiness in the world. That is a real mother.

My marriage to Tom was done purely through spite. Sammy and I had quarreled and I agreed to marry Tom thinking it would hurt the man I really loved.

Wants To Be Free

I think the fair thing to do is to have my marriage annulled and come back to Sammy and be free to marry in the church to which we both belong.

My trip to San Francisco may cause trouble, but I refuse to live with Tom when in my own mind I love and belong to another man.

A Different Tune

Grove City, Pa., Sept. 6.—Collette Mulvihill's latest "lover"—Sam Puntureri of this city—doesn't share her love!

Reached by telephone this afternoon, he told International News Service when asked whether Collette was going to marry him:

"Not that I know of."

"Do you know Miss Mulvihill?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Well, she claims that she loves you and that you love her. Do you?

"I don't love her. I've never been out with her. We never had a date."

Examinations Are Arranged

Will Enable Liquor Store Employes To Get Promotions Through Tests

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Civil service examinations to enable liquor store employes to seek promotions to better jobs probably will be held late in the fall, William A. Sponsler secretary of the state liquor control board, said today.

The tests likely will be held on a legal holiday when the state liquor stores are closed or on a designated date when most stores will be closed by order of the board for the examinations he said. Vacancies will be filled at the same time, Sponsler said.

Under a ruling of the department of justice liquor board employes cannot be legally promoted until they have qualified by a civil service examination.

Canadian Dog Has 17 Pups

(International News Service)

SUDBURY, Ont., Sept. 7.—This section of Northern Ontario which presented a surprised world with the Dionne quintuplets had a new claim to fame today.

At a road camp near here Jessie, a half Collie and St. Bernard dog, gave birth to a litter of seventeen pups which veterinarians claim is a world's record.

Frank Racicot, the dog's owner, thought 17 pups were too many to have around, so 11 were drowned.

Colletta Is Sweet On Grove City Boy, May Trip To Altar

However, Sammy Puntureri, Son Of Night Club Owner, Says "I Don't Love Colletta"

Miss Mulvihill Hopes Tommy Creen Gets Nice Girl And Settles Down To Happiness

EDITORS NOTE—The following article was written especially for International News Service by Collette Mulvihill, Pennsylvania girl who told of her plans of obtaining an annulment of her marriage to Tom Creen, 21-year-old truck driver, in order that she may wed Sam Puntureri, son of the proprietor of a night club near Grove City, Pa.

By COLLETTE MULVIHILL
(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—I want the people who read this article to know that I am not as irresponsible as the papers have painted me.

Tommy is a very fine man and one worthy of a very fine wife, and I sincerely hope he wins the girl he really loves.

Tom really deserves happiness and I hope he finds it.

Sammy has tried to protect me from publicity and therefore I think his love is sincere, and I hope that some day I may be his wife and deserving of his love.

Sammy Is Head Man

My life has been entirely happy as long as I stayed with my mother. I know that she has faith in me and would never fail me. I sincerely hope that Sammy meets with her approval because I am sure that he would love her as much as I do.

Mom has never questioned my judgment and if I really love him, which I do, she will be my matron of honor and wish me all the happiness in the world. That is a real mother.

My marriage to Tom was done purely through spite. Sammy and I had quarreled and I agreed to marry Tom thinking it would hurt the man I really loved.

Wants To Be Free

I think the fair thing to do is to have my marriage annulled and come back to Sammy and be free to marry in the church to which we both belong.

My trip to San Francisco may cause trouble, but I refuse to live with Tom when in my own mind I love and belong to another man.

A Different Tune

Grove City, Pa., Sept. 6.—Collette Mulvihill's latest "lover"—Sam Puntureri of this city—doesn't share her love!

Reached by telephone this afternoon, he told International News Service when asked whether Collette was going tc marry him:

"Not that I know of."

"Do you know Miss Mulvihill?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Well, she claims that she loves you and that you love her. Do you?

"I don't love her. I've never been out with her. We never had a date."

Examinations Are Arranged

Will Enable Liquor Store Employes To Get Promotions Through Tests

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Civil service examinations to enable liquor store employes to seek promotions to better jobs probably will be held late in the fall, William A. Sponsler secretary of the state liquor control board, said today.

The tests likely will be held on a legal holiday when the state liquor stores are closed or on a designated date when most stores will be closed by order of the board for the examinations he said. Vacancies will be filled at the same time, Sponsler said.

Under a ruling of the department of justice liquor board employes cannot be legally promoted until they have qualified by a civil service examination.

Canadian Dog Has 17 Pups

(International News Service)

At a road camp near here Jessie, a half Collie and St. Bernard dog, gave birth to a litter of seventeen pups which veterinarians claim is a world's record.

Colletta Is Sweet On Grove City Boy, May Trip To Altar

However, Sammy Puntureri, Son Of Night Club Owner, Says "I Don't Love Colletta"

Miss Mulvihill Hopes Tommy Creen Gets Nice Girl And Settles Down To Happiness

EDITORS NOTE—The following article was written especially for International News Service by Collette Mulvihill, Pennsylvania girl who told of her plans of obtaining an annulment of her marriage to Tom Creen, 21-year-old truck driver, in order that she may wed Sam Puntureri, son of the proprietor of a night club near Grove City, Pa.

By COLLETTE MULVIHILL
(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—I want the people who read this article to know that I am not as irresponsible as the papers have painted me.

Tommy is a very fine man and one worthy of a very fine wife, and I sincerely hope he wins the girl he really loves.

Tom really deserves happiness and I hope he finds it.

Sammy has tried to protect me from publicity and therefore I think his love is sincere, and I hope that some day I may be his wife and deserving of his love.

Sammy Is Head Man

My life has been entirely happy as long as I stayed with my mother. I know that she has faith in me and would never fail me. I sincerely hope that Sammy meets with her approval because I am sure that he would love her as much as I do.

Mom has never questioned my judgment and if I really love him, which I do, she will be my matron of honor and wish me all the happiness in the world. That is a real mother.

My marriage to Tom was done purely through spite. Sammy and I had quarreled and I agreed to marry Tom thinking it would hurt the man I really loved.

Wants To Be Free

I think the fair thing to do is to have my marriage annulled and come back to Sammy and be free to marry in the church to which we both belong.

My trip to San Francisco may cause trouble, but I refuse to live with Tom when in my own mind I love and belong to another man.

A Different Tune

Grove City, Pa., Sept. 6.—Collette Mulvihill's latest "lover"—Sam Puntureri of this city—doesn't share her love!

Reached by telephone this afternoon, he told International News Service when asked whether Collette was going to marry him:

"Not that I know of."

"Do you know Miss Mulvihill?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Well, she claims that she loves you and that you love her. Do you?

"I don't love her. I've never been out with her. We never had a date."

Examinations Are Arranged

Will Enable Liquor Store Employes To Get Promotions Through Tests

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Civil service examinations to enable liquor store employes to seek promotions to better jobs probably will be held late in the fall, William A. Sponsler secretary of the state liquor control board, said today.

The tests likely will be held on a legal holiday when the state liquor stores are closed or on a designated date when most stores will be closed by order of the board for the examinations he said. Vacancies will be filled at the same time, Sponsler said.

Under a ruling of the department of justice liquor board employes cannot be legally promoted until they have qualified by a civil service examination.

Militia Force In New Orleans For Big Cleanup

Long's State Militia Force Enters New Orleans For Vice Cleanup

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The mailed fist of United States Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's dictator by act of a legislature bent to his will, crashed down on the city of New Orleans today.

An army of 2,200 men, the state's entire militia force, mobilized thruout the night in 17 cities and towns in Louisiana under secret orders from Adjt. Gen. Raymond Fleming and began a hurried march to this city.

The object of the state-wide troop movement was shrouded in official secrecy. Gov. Oscar K. "Okay Huey" Allen, fresh from a star chamber "citizens" meeting attended only by some 50 persons whom he summoned to confer on alleged vice conditions in New Orleans, refused to discuss the matter. Gen. Fleming was tight-lipped. Commanding officers of the units said no explanation was given in the mobilization orders.

Conspiracy Afoot.

Senator Long, in a tirade against the city administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, voiced over the radio from the militia-guarded star chamber hearing of the legislative committee conducting an investigation of alleged municipal corrption, yesterday, however, was believed to have given the cue.

Long, prosecutor-in-chief of the inquiry, charged the committee's witnesses had been intimidated by New Orleans police under the direction of Mayor Walmsley.

"There seems to be a conspiracy afoot to force the governor to put the police of this town under the militia," the senator shouted.

Fail To Identify Body Of Woman Found In Lake

Headless Body Found Near Cleveland, Is Not Identified

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7.—Virtually against a stone wall in their efforts to solve the mystery murder of the woman whose headless, dismembered body was found on the shore of Lake Erie here Wednesday, police continued today to scan missing person reports for a possible clew.

Although giving scant credence to the possibility of a link between the two cases, police checked available records of the missing Agnes Tufverson, Detroit lawyer and wife of Captain Ivan Poderjay, continental adventurer.

Coroner A. J. Pearse last night handed in his official report to Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody. It merely stated:

"The body was that of a woman apparently about five feet six inches in height and weighing about 115 pounds. The legs were gone at the knees. Part of the spinal column had been hacked away. The head and shoulders were missing. The only identifying mark was an abdominal scar, indicating a recent operation. The woman had been dead about six months."

Militia Force In New Orleans For Big Cleanup

Long's State Militia Force Enters New Orleans For Vice Cleanup

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The mailed fist of United States Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's dictator by act of a legislature bent to his will, crashed down on the city of New Orleans today.

An army of 2,200 men, the state's entire militia force, mobilized thruout the night in 17 cities and towns in Louisiana under secret orders from Adjt. Gen. Raymond Fleming and began a hurried march to this city.

The object of the state-wide troop movement was shrouded in official secrecy. Gov. Oscar K. "Okay Huey" Allen, fresh from a star chamber "citizens" meeting attended only by some 50 persons whom he summoned to confer on alleged vice conditions in New Orleans, refused to discuss the matter. Gen. Fleming was tight-lipped. Commanding officers of the units said no explanation was given in the mobilization orders.

Conspiracy Afoot.

Senator Long, in a tirade against the city administration of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, voiced over the radio from the militia-guarded star chamber hearing of the legislative committee conducting an investigation of alleged municipal corrption, yesterday, however, was believed to have given the cue.

Long, prosecutor-in-chief of the inquiry, charged the committee's witnesses had been intimidated by New Orleans police under the direction of Mayor Walmsley.

"There seems to be a conspiracy afoot to force the governor to put the police of this town under the militia," the senator shouted.

Coroner A. J. Pearse last night handed in his official report to Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody. It merely stated:

"The body was that of a woman apparently about five feet six inches in height and weighing about 115 pounds. The legs were gone at the knees. Part of the spinal column had been hacked away. The head and shoulders were missing. The only identifying mark was an abdominal scar, indicating a recent operation. The woman had been dead about six months."

Corn Cutting This Year Tests Muscles Of Husky Farmers

Heavy Stalks And Ears Make It A Man Sized Job To Wielder Of Knife

When farmers who are now cutting their corn come to the end of the day they are ready for a good night's rest. This is because the corn this year in Lawrence county is exceptionally large. Not only are the stalks heavier and taller, but the ears of corn are considerably above the average.

When the farmer grasps the stalks in a hill of corn and wields his faithful knife the severed stalks are heavy enough to try his muscle and test his power of endurance. If he holds out until evening, it is little wonder that he is ready to hit the hay.

Corn cutting has come unusually early this fall. Some farmers, with small fields, have already finished, but the great bulk of the corn is yet to be cut. Rains and hot weather just at the right time helped the corn to mature rapidly. As most fields are ready or almost ready to cut, there is little doubt but that it can be harvested before the frost comes. Frost injures the value of the fodder.

Indications are that Lawrence county farmers will harvest one of the largest corn crops on record. As prices have been going up steadily on account of the drouth in the corn growing states of the west, it will help farmers out materially. The big crop is especially welcome, since there was a very short hay crop.

Potatoes are another crop that will be good this fall. Fields are still looking green, and it is reported that the tubers promise to turn out well.

RESULT OF STEEL VOTE ANNOUNCED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Employes of the West Virginia Rail Co., of Huntington, W. Va., chose the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an A. F. of L. unit, as their collective bargaining agency in an election held yesterday under supervision of the National Steel Labor Relations Board, it was announced today at the department of labor.

Weekly Health Talk

"Now that the summer vacation period is past for most of us it might be well to pause and reckon its results. To many it will bring painful memories of sunburn. For still another large class it will acutely emphasize that their physical condition, under par when the sojourn began, was made definitely worse by excesses. And to a comparatively small number it will have very consciously increased their vitality and sent them back home with a new zest for life and work. No one can doubt the good fortune of the last mentioned group," states Dr. Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health.

"Of course, it is not to be expected that the average person, particularly if young, approaches a vacation solely from the health standpoint. 'To have a good time' is naturally the predominant note. And there is no fault to find with such a motive. On the other hand, many so-called 'good times' are in reality bad times—bad on the nerves, bad on the entire body, with little good and no health benefits to be found in them.

"It follows that a summer vacation, the end results of which are less vitality and more deliberation than previously existed, is not justified no matter how many thrills and how much excitement were involved in the experience.

"However, with the vacation over the question is what to do about it? For those sensible persons who derived noticeable physical benefit from their two weeks, nothing need be said. They will in all probability continue to be sensible in their habits and methods of living.

"The other groups also need not have real regrets. For, though the splendid opportunity to store up energy through the vacation is gone for another year, the autumn with its cool breezes and invigorating atmosphere is practically here. It has the power in a very big way to do all that the most thoughtful kind of a vacation could do, and a great deal more as well.

"To obtain regularly the quota of refreshing sleep one needs, (for the average person this means eight hours nightly), to eat sufficiently of all types of food, to eliminate excessive use of stimulants, to take a daily walk of a mile or more rain or shine, in short to live the kind of life that nature dictates, will effectively cure any of the bad results of a hectic vacation and at the same time store up vitality for the winter's grind. It is surprising what reasonable daily attention to one's bodily needs will do in terms of vigor and joy of living.

"Therefore, if one has failed to cash in on the summer sojourn, cash in on autumn. It will pay amazing dividends. Make this autumn your autumn."

And there is no fault to find with such a motive. On the other hand, many so-called 'good times' are in reality bad times—bad on the nerves, bad on the entire body, with little good and no health benefits to be found in them.

"It follows that a summer vacation, the end results of which are less vitality and more deliberation than previously existed, is not justified no matter how many thrills and how much excitement were involved in the experience.

"However, with the vacation over the question is what to do about it? For those sensible persons who derived noticeable physical benefit from their two weeks, nothing need be said. They will in all probability continue to be sensible in their habits and methods of living.

"The other groups also need not have real regrets. For, though the splendid opportunity to store up energy through the vacation is gone for another year, the autumn with its cool breezes and invigorating atmosphere is practically here. It has the power in a very big way to do all that the most thoughtful kind of a vacation could do, and a great deal more as well.

"To obtain regularly the quota of refreshing sleep one needs, (for the average person this means eight hours nightly), to eat sufficiently of all types of food, to eliminate excessive use of stimulants, to take a daily walk of a mile or more rain or shine, in short to live the kind of life that nature dictates, will effectively cure any of the bad results of a hectic vacation and at the same time store up vitality for the winter's grind. It is surprising what reasonable daily attention to one's bodily needs will do in terms of vigor and joy of living.

"Therefore, if one has failed to cash in on the summer sojourn, cash in on autumn. It will pay amazing dividends. Make this autumn your autumn."

Amber is a fossil resin of vegetable origin, usually of a pale-yellow color.

No Comment From President Regarding General Strike And Violence

(International News Service)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Reports of violence and unrest in connection with the general strike failed to get a verbal rise from President Roosevelt here today.

Mr. Roosevelt felt that the present was no time for him to step in. He has already named a special mediation board. He continued to keep himself informed as to every move made, but further than this, he would not go.

"Ohio Plan" For Relief Brings Heated Protest

Business Interests Protest That Government Is Entering Competitive Business

UPTON SINCLAIR HAS SIMILAR PLAN

New National Relief Policy May Be Created Out Of System Now In Use

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A large-scale experiment in direct manufacture and production by relief agencies with federal funds—known as the "Ohio Plan"—was being closely followed by administration officials today because it may produce a new national relief policy.

While manufacture of mattresses and similar products by the jobless has been carried on in many states, federal relief officials see in the "Ohio Plan" an experiment of first magnitude.

Opposition has already developed from business interests on the ground the federal government, through relief agencies, is embarking into direct competition with private business. This is emphatically denied here.

Differences Shown

Fresh attention was centered on the Ohio experiment after it was explained to Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor in California, who has his own "epic" plan.

While Sinclair declared he had been called a Bolshevist in California for advocating the same thing, officials noted considerable difference in the "Ohio Plan" and Sinclair proposal to set up a huge, separate system of society conducted by the jobless.

Are Producing Goods

"The Ohio state relief administration is producing goods by the unemployed for the unemployed," explained an FERA official. "They pay cash wages to the unemployed, take the products and distribute them to other unemployed. It is work relief.

"That is being done in other states, but the Ohio plan has attracted attention because they worked out a big program."

Under the direct manufacturing plans, which are approved by the FERA, shoes may be made, food produced, clothes and other articles manufactured and used for the jobless.

Thousands Employed

Thousands of jobless are being employed in canning surplus products purchased by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation. Most of its products have been processed by private business.

FERA engineers have worked out plans for small factories, urging the self-help groups to use the latest and best mechanical equipment instead of hand-labor.

Working procedure on 44 products has been evolved. These include knit underwear, men's and boy's shoes, dresses, bakeries, canning centers, woolen cloth, rayon and cotton underwear, carpets and rugs, automobile repair and a commodity bank.

Both Russia and Germany assume that political activity can determine man's entire being, which assumption leads to the grossest tyranny.

Mayor To Have Mike "Shadowed"

Plans To Find Out Where Mike's Speakeasy Friend Is Doing Business

Mike Mozasky received a severe lecture from Mayor Mayne in city police court today after having been incarcerated in the city jail last night on a charge of drunkenness. However Mike was not fined.

He lives in a shanty in Pennsylvania avenue and guards a garden. Recently he has been drinking and has been annoying persons in the neighborhood. Yesterday a woman to whom he proved obnoxious called police.

The mayor found that Mike is on relief yet has been able to get enough booze to make him drunk. Mike claims a friend gave him the liquor.

Mayor Mayne did not believe his story and said he was going to have Mazasky "shadowed" so police could raid the speakeasy in which he has been obtaining booze.

Ship Building Probe Seen In Great Britain

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng., Sept. 7.—Revelation during the munitions investigation in Washington of sharp practices in connection with naval ship-building contracts will probably result in a searching inquiry along the same lines by the House of Commons, International News Service was informed today.

Keen resentment was expressed on all sides at Newcastle, where many of Britain's warships have been constructed.

Parliamentarians and local political leaders alike are determined to get to the bottom of the situation so far as Britain is concerned, regardless of whether the inquiry results in a clean bill of health or a verdict of condemnation.

Strike Situation Is Threatening In Eastern Penna.

Spotted Disorders Mark Textile Strike Conflict In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.— Although spotted disorders, marking the progress of the textile strike in Eastern Pennsylvania, have reached a threatening point, the industrial walkout today was still free of bloodshed in Pennsylvania.

The disorders reached a climax late yesterday near the James Lees and Sons company woolen mills, at Bridgeport, when an American flag was thrown into a ditch. The flag had been stretched across a railroad track by strikers who sought to prevent railroad employes from moving loaded freight cars from the Lees Company's yards.

With the situation becoming more menacing, railroad officials sent orders to the engine crew to leave the scene. The loaded cars were still in the Lees yard this morning.

The nearest thing to an open battle in Philadelphia was thwarted in the Kensington mill district by the timely arrival of police riot squads. The disorder was quelled without injury to anyone. Two girl pickets were arrested.

Strike Situation Is Threatening In Eastern Penna.

Spotted Disorders Mark Textile Strike Conflict In Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.— Although spotted disorders, marking the progress of the textile strike in Eastern Pennsylvania, have reached a threatening point, the industrial walkout today was still free of bloodshed in Pennsylvania.

The disorders reached a climax late yesterday near the James Lees and Sons company woolen mills, at Bridgeport, when an American flag was thrown into a ditch. The flag had been stretched across a railroad track by strikers who sought to prevent railroad employes from moving loaded freight cars from the Lees Company's yards.

With the situation becoming more menacing, railroad officials sent orders to the engine crew to leave the scene. The loaded cars were still in the Lees yard this morning.

The nearest thing to an open battle in Philadelphia was thwarted in the Kensington mill district by the timely arrival of police riot squads. The disorder was quelled without injury to anyone. Two girl pickets were arrested.

"Ohio Plan" For Relief Brings Heated Protest

UPTON SINCLAIR HAS SIMILAR PLAN

New National Relief Policy May Be Created Out Of System Now In Use

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A large-scale experiment in direct manufacture and production by relief agencies with federal funds—known as the "Ohio Plan"—was being closely followed by administration officials today because it may produce a new national relief policy.

While manufacture of mattresses and similar products by the jobless has been carried on in many states, federal relief officials see in the "Ohio Plan" an experiment of first magnitude.

Opposition has already developed from business interests on the ground the federal government, through relief agencies, is embarking into direct competition with private business. This is emphatically denied here.

Differences Shown

Fresh attention was centered on the Ohio experiment after it was explained to Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor in California, who has his own "epic" plan.

While Sinclair declared he had been called a Bolshevist in California for advocating the same thing, officials noted considerable difference in the "Ohio Plan" and Sinclair proposal to set up a huge, separate system of society conducted by the jobless.

Are Producing Goods

"The Ohio state relief administration is producing goods by the unemployed for the unemployed," explained an FERA official. "They pay cash wages to the unemployed, take the products and distribute them to other unemployed. It is work relief.

"That is being done in other states, but the Ohio plan has attracted attention because they worked out a big program."

Under the direct manufacturing plans, which are approved by the FERA, shoes may be made, food produced, clothes and other articles manufactured and used for the jobless.

Thousands Employed

Thousands of jobless are being employed in canning surplus products purchased by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation. Most of its products have been processed by private business.

FERA engineers have worked out plans for small factories, urging the self-help groups to use the latest and best mechanical equipment instead of hand-labor.

Working procedure on 44 products has been evolved. These include knit underwear, men's and boy's shoes, dresses, bakeries, canning centers, woolen cloth, rayon and cotton underwear, carpets and rugs, automobile repair and a commodity bank.

Both Russia and Germany assume that political activity can determine man's entire being, which assumption leads to the grossest tyranny.

Put little snap fasteners on your collar and cuff sets of your dresses. They are much easier to remove and launder than when basted on.

Mayor To Have Mike "Shadowed"

Plans To Find Out Where Mike's Speakeasy Friend Is Doing Business

Mike Mozasky received a severe lecture from Mayor Mayne in city police court today after having been incarcerated in the city jail last night on a charge of drunkenness. However Mike was not fined.

He lives in a shanty in Pennsylvania avenue and guards a garden. Recently he has been drinking and has been annoying persons in the neighborhoor. Yesterday a woman to whom he proved obnoxious called police.

The mayor found that Mike is on relief yet has been able to get enough booze to make him drunk. Mike claims a friend gave him the liquor.

Mayor Mayne did not believe his story and said he was going to have Mazasky "shadowed' so police could raid the speakeasy in which he has been obtaining booze.

Ship Building Probe Seen In Great Britain

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Eng., Sept. 7.—Revelation during the munitions investigation in Washington of sharp practices in connection with naval ship-building contracts will probably result in a searching inquiry along the same lines by the House of Commons, International News Service was informed today.

Keen resentment was expressed on all sides at Newcastle, where many of Britain's warships have been constructed.

Parliamentarians and local political leaders alike are determined to get to the bottom of the situation so far as Britain is concerned, regardless of whether the inquiry results in a clean bill of health or a verdict of condemnation.

BEAVER COUNTY JUSTICES STRUCK BY GRAND JURY

Five Are Ordered To Pay Costs Of Cases Before Grand Jury

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 7—A blow at the minor judiciary was struck by the grand jury today when it ignored five bills of indictment and placed the costs of the cases for payment on five justices of the peace of Beaver county. The justices who were ordered to pay the costs were: C. J. Weber and J. Vincent Lewis, of Ambridge, R. A. Nagel of Big Beaver township, Samuel McCaw of Fredom and H. H. Davis of Conway.

These justices had held defendants for the grand jury for indictment. The informations had listed others as the prosecutors but the grand jury, in making its returns, named the justices as the "real prosecutors."

School Enrollment Total Will About Equal Last Year

Post Graduate Classes To Be Added To Attendance Next Week

Enrollment totals of the various public schools in New Castle for the first day of the new school year, show a decrease of 234 over the enrollment total of last year according to the report of Superintendent C. C. Green. The total this year is 10,571, while last year it was 10,805.

At first sight this seems like a school shrinkage but is accounted for by the fact that the post-graduate students have not yet been admitted to the senior high school while last year they were on the first day. There is some shrinkage in the grade school totals however that is not affected by the PG enrollment in the high school.

The totals for the various schools of the city follow.

Post Graduate Classes To Be Added To Attendance Next Week

Enrollment totals of the various public schools in New Castle for the first day of the new school year, show a decrease of 234 over the enrollment total of last year according to the report of Superintendent C. C. Green. The total this year is 10,571, while last year it was 10,805.

At first sight this seems like a school shrinkage but is accounted for by the fact that the post-graduate students have not yet been admitted to the senior high school while last year they were on the first day. There is some shrinkage in the grade school totals however that is not affected by the PG enrollment in the high school.

Move For Road Safety Part Of National Plan

Other Phases Embrace Industry, Homes, For Three Month Period

SEEK REDUCTION OF AUTO CRASHES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Participating in a nation wide movement to make September a "highway accident reduction month" Pennsylvania is beginning a three month general safety drive with emphasis placed upon highway safety.

Throughout September, October, and November, the Department of Revenue is co-operating with the Departments of Labor and Industry, Mines, Highways and Public Instruction in a concerted effort to reduce materially accidents on the roads at work in the schools and at home. Motor clubs, service clubs, civic organizations, parent teachers' associations and various other clubs have enlisted in campaign to curtail the unnecessary loss of life and limb which accidents taken annually in the Commonwealth.

The Department of Revenue, in co-ordinating the three-month drive with the annual national highway accident reduction campaign in September, has established definite objectives for each of the next four weeks.

Special Periods

They are:

September 3 to 9—"No accident Week" dedicated to enlisting every highway user to make a determined personal effort to continue through at least seven days without an accident of any sort. During this period will be launched with renewed vigor the general educational and enforcement drive which continues throughout the three month period and has as its object a material reduction in all types of accidents which have contributed to the 29,510 aggregate for the first seven months of this year.

September 10 to 16—"Pedestrian No Accident Week" with emphasis on the various dangerous habits by which pedestrians retain their proinent place among the causes of highway mishaps. The goal for this week will be an appreciable interruption in the rising trend which thus far this year has produced 7,465 pedestrian accident in which 603 persons were killed and 6,862 were injured.

September 17 to 23—"Child Week" with emphasis on maintaining and extending gains which have been made through school boy patrols and other safety educational movements at home, and at school. This phase of the campaign is directed at the record of 243 deaths and 5028 injuries which stands as the seven-month toll taken by motor vehicle accident among children under 15 years of age.

September 24 to 30—"Traffic Courtesy Week" during which stress will be put upon the numerous bad manners by which thoughtless and inconsiderate drivers swell the monthly accident statistics. Cutting in and out of traffic lines, intruding on other's right by driving on the wrong side of the road speeding and passing at places where the safety of others is endangered and failing to signal intentions to turn or stop are among the leading accident causes which will be emphasized during this time.

Seek Co-Operation

In appealing for widespread co-operation in this campaign the Department of Revenue points out that motor vehicle accident in Pennsylvania had increased nearly 25 per cent. above last year by the end of July. Reports to the Division of Safety disclose 1203 deaths, 28,687 injuries and proverty damage aggregating $3,502,000.

By combining the safety educational program with the intensive law enforcement campaign which has been waged throughout the year the department hopes to reduce to the levels of last year the ultimate highway accident toll for 1934.

Boys Predominate In August Births

Almost Double The Number Of Girls Born In Month, Figures Reveal

Almost twice as many boy babies as girls, were born here during the month of August, a review of the birth column in The News reveals. This is unusual, as the girls as a rule, outnumber the boys.

Of the 96 birth recorded in the column during the month, 62 were boys and but 34 were girls.

At the Jameson Memorial hospital, the number of boys born during the month was 19 and the number of girls was 10.

Maybe it was due to the influence of the month, August having been named after a man.

Move For Road Safety Part Of National Plan

Other Phases Embrace Industry, Homes, For Three Month Period

SEE REDUCTION OF AUTO CRASHES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Participating in a nation wide movement to make September a "highway accident reduction month" Pennsylvania is beginning a three month general safety drive with emphasis placed upon highway safety.

Throughout September, October, and November, the Department of Revenue is co-operating with the Departments of Labor and Industry, Mines, Highways and Public Instruction in a concerted effort to reduce materially accidents on the roads at work in the schools and at home. Motor clubs, service clubs, civic organizations, parent teachers' associations and various other clubs have enlisted in campaign to curtail the unnecessary loss of life and limb which accidents taken annually in the Commonwealth.

The Department of Revenue, in co-ordinating the three-month drive with the annual national highway accident reduction campaign in September, has established definite objectives for each of the next four weeks.

Special Periods

They are:

September 3 to 9—"No accident Week" dedicated to enlisting every highway user to make a determined personal effort to continue through at least seven days without an accident of any sort. During this period will be launched with renewed vigor the general educational and enforcement drive which continues throughout the three month period and has as its object a material reduction in all types of accidents which have contributed to the 29,510 aggregate for the first seven months of this year.

September 10 to 16—"Pedestrian No Accident Week" with emphasis on the various dangerous habits by which pedestrians retain their proiment place among the causes of highway mishaps. The goal for this week will be an appreciable interruption in the rising trend which thus far this year has produced 7,465 pedestrian accident in which 603 persons were killed and 6,862 were injured.

September 17 to 23—"Child Week" with emphasis on maintaining and extending gains which have been made through school boy patrols and other safety educational movements at home, and at school. This phase of the campaign is directed at the record of 243 deaths and 5028 injuries which stands as the seven-month toll taken by motor vehicle accident among children under 15 years of age.

September 24 to 30—"Traffic Courtesy Week" during which stress will be put upon the numerous bad manners by which thoughtless and inconsiderate drivers swell the monthly accident statistics. Cutting in and out of traffic lines, intruding on other's right by driving on the wrong side of the road speeding and passing at places where the safety of others is endangered and failing to signal intentions to turn or stop are among the leading accident causes which will be emphasized during this time.

Seek Co-Operation

In appealing for widespread co-operation in this campaign the Department of Revenue points out that motor vehicle accident in Pennsylvania had increased nearly 25 per cent, above last year by the end of July. Reports to the Division of Safety disclose 1203 deaths, 28,687 injuries and proverty damage aggregating $3,502,000.

By combining the safety educational program with the intensive law enforcement campaign which has been waged throughout the year the department hopes to reduce to the levels of last year the ultimate highway accident toll for 1934.

Mr. Sinclair Has A Talk.
He Sends A Wire.
Mr. McAdoo Wonders.
When A Woman President?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, Democratic nominee for Governor of California, called upon the President at Hyde Park, and the talk that followed, according to Mr. Sinclair's interview with reporters, was most interesting. The interview was extended, by the President's wish, from one hour, as originally arranged, to two hours.

Mr. Sinclair believes that he and the President are not far apart in their views. What the president thinks had not been reported at this writing.

THERE IS understood to be at least one difference between the mental operations of Mr. Sinclair and the President. Upton Sinclair knows, and has always known, just how to rid the human race of all its troubles. The President, less positive, tells the public, frankly, that he is experimenting, and will change if he finds that he has made a mistake. Also, the President worries about this particular emergency, not seeking to change humanity and abolish its weaknesses all at one swoop.

MR. SINCLAIR'S statement that he, as Governor, "will end starvation in California," surprised this writer, who had seen anxiety and lack of employment in California, as elsewhere, but no actual starvation.

A telegram from Mr. Sinclair begins, "For shame, for shame, Arthur Brisbane," and goes on to say that people in California really are starving.

"I have talked with thousands of them, gaunt, hungry men, who cried: 'Mr. Sinclair, the relief people will do nothing for us, and we don't know where we are going to get food for our families tomorrow.' What good to mention that eggs are twenty cents a dozen, when men can't get the twenty cents? And what did you ever know about me to lead you to think that I would hide the truth, to oblige the chambers of commerce?
"UPTON SINCLAIR."

IT WOULD be difficult to imagine Mr. Sinclair hiding the truth. Such conduct on the part of a professional truthbearer has never been suggested here. It was suggested that Mr. Sinclair, advertising California as a land of starvation, is out of step with California Chambers of Commerce that advertise the rosy side.

Mr. Sinclair and the chambers are both good advertisers of their wares, and better teamwork would seem desirable.

UNDOUBTEDLY, in his long talk with the President, Mr. Sinclair told about the hungry men and the delinquent "relief people."

The President would want to know about that, and will attend to it, for he has said, "No man shall starve in this country."

There is plenty of money in the Treasury to feed all, and the President means to use it. Mr. Sinclair will have good news for those who appealed to him.

SENATOR M'ADOO of California, a Democrat, home from Europe, is not sure what he thinks of Upton Sinclair as Democratic candidate for Governor, but thinks he may be an expensive Governor if his plans go through.

California's biggest bdget thus far has been $216,000,000 in a year. One of Mr. Sinclair's plans, creditable to his kind heart, would have the state pay fifty dollars a month for life to every three-year resident of California aged sixty or older. This plan alone, Mr. McAdoo says, would cost California taxpayers $300,000,000 a year, or $84,000,000 more than present total expenses.

THERE IS another movement on foot with a big following to pay every American in old age a government pension of $200 a month. That, according to Mr. McAdoo's figures for California, would cost the taxpayers, who ultimately pay all bills, about twenty-eight billion dollars a year, more than the total national debt. It might be difficult to do that in these hard times.

But a country that punishes a man for letting an old horse starve should be ashamed to let any worked-out old man or woman die in misery. Old age pensions, long established in Europe, will come here.

Mr. Green, for the American Federation of Labor, demands a thirty-hour working week, five days of six hours. The Fur Workers Industrial Union of New York does better, 4,000 strikers having settled with the employers for a twenty-five-hour week.

Judge Gary, now in his grave, and probably glad of it, was wondering some years ago whether the twelve-hour day could be abolished completely in the steel industry. New conditions move rapidly.

ASKED WHEN she thought a woman would be President, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt said she hoped "not soon," not that she doubts woman's ability, but rather man's willingness to be ruled by a woman's judgment.

Wise men would worry not about the woman's president's judgment, but about that of the man controlling decisions. Mrs. Roosevelt herself would make an excellent President, so would Miss Frances Perkins, who has a better mind and character than 99 out of 100 able men. And General Johnson's assistant, Miss Frances M. Robinson, as President, would create a great demand for cabinet places, only she is nowhere near the legal age, thirty-five, and her cabinet would find it hard to keep its mind on dull routine.

RUSSIA WILL be invited into the League of Nations, proposed for membership by France, we fuss because Russia owes American financiers a few millions lent when any child might have known better.

Russia owes the French, in good hard gold francs, more than six thousand million dollars, but France wisely looks ahead, wants Russia's friendship and help in case of trouble with Germany, and will have it, as before. The French are logical.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that young Prince Otto, good looking young man of 22, heir to the Hapsburgs, will marry the Italain princess, Maria. This arrangement would be made only with Mussolini's approval, and may mean another Hapsburg on the Austrian throne.

You would think that Austria had had trouble enough with the other Hapsburgs, but Mussolini may have some workable plan, including, of course, his own indirect dictatorship.

SECRETARY ICKES replied to former President Hoover's attack on the Roosevelt administration, saying the liberty that interests Mr. Hoover is "the liberty of the exploiter." Liberty of privilege is what they (Mr. Hoover) wants," says Mr. Ickes.

Turning from Mr. Hoover to Senator Borah, who said liberty is fast disappearing, Mr. Ickes asks, "Who has lost his liberty?"

The President referees a baseball match at his home, and seems not to worry. Happy the man, with such a job, who can keep cool.

Mr. Sinclair Has A Talk. He Sends A Wire. Mr. McAdoo Wonders. When A Woman President?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, Democratic nominee for Governor of California, called upon the President at Hyde Park, and the talk that followed, according to Mr. Sinclair's interview with reporters, was most interesting. The interview was extended, by the President's wish, from one hour, as originally arranged, to two hours.

Mr. Sinclair believes that he and the President are not far apart in their views. What the president thinks had not been reported at this writing.

THERE IS understood to be at least one difference between the mental operations of Mr. Sinclair and the President. Upton Sinclair knows, and has always known, just how to rid the human race of all its troubles. The President, less positive, tells the public, frankly, that he is experimenting, and will change if he finds that he has made a mistake. Also, the President worries about this particular emergency, not seeking to change humanity and abolish its weaknesses all at one swoop.

MR. SINCLAIR'S statement that he, as Governor, "will end starvation in California," surprised this writer, who had seen anxiety and lack of emloyment in California, as elsewhere, but no actual starvation.

A telegram from Mr. Sinclair begins, "For shame, for shame, Arthur Brisbane," and goes on to say that people in California really are starving.

"I have talked with thousands of them, gaunt, hungry men, who cried: 'Mr. Sinclair, the relief people will do nothing for us, and we don't know where we are going to get food for our families tomorrow.' What good to mention that eggs are twenty cents a dozen, when men can't get the twenty cents? And what did you ever know about me to lead you to think that I would hide the truth, to oblige the chambers of commerce?
"UPTON SINCLAIR."

IT WOULD be difficult to imagine Mr. Sinclair hiding the truth. Such conduct on the part of a professional truthbearer has never been suggested here. It was suggested that Mr. Sinclair, advertising California as a land of starvation, is out of step with California Chambers of Commerce that advertise the rosy side.

Mr. Sinclair and the chambers are both good advertisers of their wares, and better teamwork would seem desirable.

UNDOUBTEDLY, in his long talk with the President, Mr. Sinclair told about the hungry men and the delinquent "relief people."

The President would want to know about that, and will attend to it, for he has said, "No man shall starve in this country."

There is plenty of money in the Treasury to feed all, and the President means to use it. Mr. Sinclair will have good news for those who appealed to him.

SENATOR M'ADOO of California, a Democrat, home from Europe, is not sure what he thinks of Upton Sinclair as Democratic candidate for Governor, but thinks he may be an expensive Governor if his plans go through.

California's biggest bdget thus far has been $216,000,000 in a year. One of Mr. Sinclair's plans, creditable to his kind heart, would have the state pay fifty dollars a month for life to every three-year resident of California aged sixty or older. This plan alone, Mr. McAdoo says, would cost California taxpayers $300,000,000 a year, or $84,000,000 more than present total expenses.

THERE IS another movement on foot with a big following to pay every American in old age a government pension of $200 a month. That, according to Mr. McAdoo's figures for California, would cost the taxpayers, who ultimately pay all bills, about twenty-eight billion dollars a year, more than the total national debt. It might be difficult to do that in these hard times.

But a country that punishes a man for letting an old horse starve should be ashamed to let any worked-out old man or woman die in misery. Old age pensions, long established in Europe, will come here.

Mr. Green, for the American Federation of Labor, demands a thirty-hour working week, five days of six hours. The Fur Workers Industrial Union of New York does better, 4,000 strikers having settled with the employers for a twenty-five-hour week.

Judge Gary, now in his grave, and probably glad of it, was wondering some years ago whether the twelve-hour day could be abolished completely in the steel industry. New conditions move rapidly.

ASKED WHEN she thought a woman would be President, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt said she hoped "not soon," not that she doubts woman's ability, but rather man's willingness to be ruled by a woman's judgment.

Wise men would worry not about the woman's president's judgment, but about that of the man controlling decisions. Mrs. Roosevelt herself would make an excellent President, so would Miss Frances Perkins, who has a better mind and character than 99 out of 100 able men. And General Johnson's assistant, Miss Frances M. Robinson, as President, would create a great demand for cabinet places, only she is nowhere near the legal age, thirty-five, and her cabinet would find it hard to keep its mind on dull routine.

RUSSIA WILL be invited into the League of Nations, proposed for membership by France, we fuss because Russia owes American financiers a few millions lent when any child might have known better.

Russia owes the French, in good hard gold francs, more than six thousand million dollars, but France wisely looks ahead, wants Russia's friendship and help in case of trouble with Germany, and will have it, as before. The French are logical.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that young Prince Otto, good looking young man of 22, heir to the Hapsburgs, will marry the Italain princess, Maria. This arrangement would be made only with Mussolini's approval, and may mean another Hapsburg on the Austrian throne.

You would think that Austria had had trouble enough with the other Hapsburgs, but Mussolini may have some workable plan, including, of course, his own indirect dictatorship.

SECRETARY ICKES replied to former President Hoover's attack on the Roosevelt administration, saying the liberty that interests Mr. Hoover is "the liberty of the exploiter." Liberty of privilege is what they (Mr. Hoover) wants," says Mr. Ickes.

Turning from Mr. Hoover to Senator Borah, who said liberty is fast disappearing, Mr. Ickes asks, "Who has lost his liberty?"

The President referees a baseball match at his home, and seems not to worry. Happy the man, with such a job, who can keep cool.

Move For Road Safety Part Of National Plan

Other Phases Embrace Industry, Homes, For Three Month Period

SEEK REDUCTION OF AUTO CRASHES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7—Participating in a nation wide movement to make September a "highway accident reduction month" Pennsylvania is beginning a three month general safety drive with emphasis placed upon highway safety.

Throughout September, October, and November, the Department of Revenue is co-operating with the Departments of Labor and Industry, Mines, Highways and Public Instruction in a concerted effort to reduce materially accidents on the roads at work in the schools and at home. Motor clubs, service clubs, civic organizations, parent teachers' associations and various other clubs have enlisted in campaign to curtail the unnecessary loss of life and limb which accidents taken annually in the Commonwealth.

The Department of Revenue, in co-ordinating the three-month drive with the annual national highway accident reduction campaign in September, has established definite objectives for each of the next four weeks.

Special Periods

They are:

September 3 to 9—"No accident Week" dedicated to enlisting every highway user to make a determined personal effort to continue through at least seven days without an accident of any sort. During this period will be launched with renewed vigor the general educational and enforcement drive which continues throughout the three month period and has as its object a material reduction in all types of accidents which have contributed to the 29,510 aggregate for the first seven months of this year.

September 10 to 16—"Pedestrian No Accident Week" with emphasis on the various dangerous habits by which pedestrians retain their prominent place among the causes of highway mishaps. The goal for this week will be an appreciable interruption in the rising trend which thus far this year has produced 7,465 pedestrian accident in which 603 persons were killed and 6,862 were injured.

September 17 to 23—"Child Week" with emphasis on maintaining and extending gains which have been made through school boy patrols and other safety educational movements at home, and at school. This phase of the campaign is directed at the record of 243 deaths and 5028 injuries which stands as the seven-month toll taken by motor vehicle accident among children under 15 years of age.

September 24 to 30—"Traffic Courtesy Week" during which stress will be put upon the numerous bad manners by which thoughtless and inconsiderate drivers swell the monthly accident statistics. Cutting in and out of traffic lines, intruding on other's right by driving on the wrong side of the road speeding and passing at places where the safety of others is endangered and failing to signal intentions to turn or stop are among the leading accident causes which will be emphasized during this time.

Seek Co-Operation

In appealing for widespread co-operation in this campaign the Department of Revenue points out that motor vehicle accident in Pennsylvania had increased nearly 25 per cent, above last year by the end of July. Reports to the Division of Safety disclose 1203 deaths, 23,687 injuries and proverty damage aggregating $3,502,000.

By combining the safety educational program with the intensive law enforcement campaign which has been waged throughout the year the department hopes to reduce to the levels of last year the ultimate highway accident toll for 1934.

Boys Predominate In August Births

Almost Double The Number Of Girls Born In Month, Figures Reveal

Almost twice as many boy babies as girls, were born here during the month of August, a review of the birth column in The News reveals. This is unusual, as the girls as a rule, outnumber the boys.

Of the 96 birth recorded in the column during the month, 62 were boys and but 34 were girls.

At the Jameson Memorial hospital, the number of boys born during the month was 19 and the number of girls was 11.

Maybe it was due to the influence of the month August having been named after a man.

"Papa" Mulvihill Says Colletta Is Tall Story Teller

Pittsburgh Oil Executive Refuses To Believe In Shanghai Wedding

Tommy Creen, Goes On Driving Truck And Trying To Forget About "Butterflies"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Thomas J. Mulvihill, Pittsburgh oil executive, was startled this afternoon when informed by International News Service that his daughter, Collette, 15, admitted she was married in Shanghai before her recent elopement and marriage to a Pittsburgh truck driver.

Mulvihill, who confessed he knew nothing about the Shanghai marriage, apparently puts little faith in what his blonde daughter says. He instructed his interviewer to check carefully everything she says.

Was In China.

When informed Collette admitted marrying Felice Alberta five months before she dashed to Wellsburg, W. Va., to become the bride of 21-year-old Tommy Creen, Mulvihill replied:

"She may have been. She was in China at that time and arrived in this country on May 5. Whether or not she was married while there I do not know."

"But," he added, "If she says so I would advise you to check the story pretty carefully. She seems to change her stories a lot."

Meanwhile, Tommy, the forgotten bridegroom of three weeks, could not be reached for comment. Apparently unconcerned about the activities of the girl he married but never lived with, he remained at his truck driving job. Tommy apparently was determined to stick with his promise of being through with "butterflies and love."

"Human Sponge" Is Drowning Victim

(International News Service)

VLADAYA, Bulgaria, Sept. 7.—Tavern keepers of this village are mourning the loss of their best customer, Gheorgieff Sando, the town's "human sponge" and probably the best two-fisted drinker in all Bulgaria.

Gheorgieff died the victim of his own grim jest. He used to shout, as he banged his glass on the bar, that if he ever drank water it would kill him. It did, although the water was forced down his throat against his will. He was drowned.

Gheorgieff in search of a drink was the nearest thing to perpetual motion ever seen here. They thought the fellow had hollow legs. If the day seemed propitious for drinking, and it frequently did! He would shuffle into the tavern as soon as it opened and stay at the bar until they started piling the chairs on the tables late at night.

51 Bottles Of Wine.

The other day Gheorgieff consumed 51 bottles of red wine to win a bet. He was just working up a respectable thirst when they closed the tavern, so he staggered to the basement of his shop and went to work on his private stock.

A few hours later a torrential rainstorm flooded the streets and basements of the village. Gheorgieff was drowned—but he died with his boots on. When they found the body in the morning, one arm was flung around a cask of wine in a last fond farewell.

Word has come from Oakland, Cal., that the great union Welshman, John W. Williams, had passed away last Monday, Labor Day, at the Oakland hospital, after a month of illness. He was a former president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Tin Workers but at the time of his death he was a member of the Federal Mediation board. He was known to the Welsh people of this city and of Pittsburgh where he made his home for years.

"Papa" Mulvihill Says Colletta Is Tall Story Teller

Pittsburgh Oil Executive Refuses To Believe In Shanghai Wedding

Tommy Creen, Goes On Driving Truck And Trying To Forget About "Butterflies"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Thomas J. Mulvihill, Pittsburgh oil executive, was startled this afternoon when informed by International News Service that his daughter, Collette, 15, admitted she was married in Shanghai before her recent elopement and marriage to a Pittsburgh truck driver.

Mulvihill, who confessed he knew nothing about the Shanghai marriage, apparently puts ltitle faith in what his blonde daughter says. He instructed his interviewer to check carefully everything she says.

Was In China.

When informed Collette admitted marrying Felice Alberta five months before she dashed to Wellsburg, W. Va., to become the bride of 21-year-old Tommy Creen, Mulvihill replied: "She may have been. She was in China at that time and arrived in this country on May 5. Whether or not she was married while there I do not know."

"But," he added, "If she says so I would advise you to check the story pretty carefully. She seems to change her stories a lot."

Meanwhile, Tommy, the forgotten bridegroom of three weeks, could not be reached for comment. Apparently unconcerned about the activities of the girl he married but never lived with, he remained at his truck driving job. Tommy apparently was determined to stick with his promise of being through with "butterflies and love."

"Human Sponge" Is Drowning Victim

(International News Service)

VLADAYA, Bulgaria, Sept. 7.—Tavern keepers of this village are mourning the loss of their best customer, Gheorgieff Sando, the town's "human sponge" and probably the best two-fisted drinker in all Bulgaria.

Gheorgieff died the victim of his own grim jest. He used to shout, as he banged his glass on the bar, that if he ever drank water it would kill him. It did, although the water was forced down his throat against his will. He was drowned.

Gheorgieff in search of a drink was the nearest thing to perpetual motion ever seen here. They thought the fellow had hollow legs. If the day seemed propitious for drinking, and it frequently did! He would shuffle into the tavern as soon as it opened and stay at the bar until they started piling the chairs on the tables late at night.

51 Bottles Of Wine.

The other day Gheorgieff consumed 51 bottles of red wine to win a bet. He was just working up a respectable thirst when they closed the tavern, so he staggered to the basement of his shop and went to work on his private stock.

A few hours later a torrential rainstorm flooded the streets and basements of the village. Gheorgieff was drowned—but he died with his boots on. When they found the body in the morning, one arm was flung around a cask of wine in a last fond farewell.

Mr. Sinclair Has A Talk. He Sends A Wire. Mr. McAdoo Wonders. When A Woman President?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, Democratic nominee for Governor of California, called upon the President at Hyde Park, and the talk that followed, according to Mr. Sinclair's interview with reporters, was most interesting. The interview was extended, by the President's wish, from one hour, as originally arranged, to two hours.

Mr. Sinclair believes that he and the President are not far apart in their views. What the president thinks had not been reported at this writing.

THERE IS understood to be at least one difference between the mental operations of Mr. Sinclair and the President. Upton Sinclair knows, and has always known, just how to rid the human race of all its troubles. The President, less positive, tells the public, frankly, that he is experimenting, and will change if he finds that he has made a mistake. Also, the President worries about this particular emergency, not seeking to change humanity and abolish its weaknesses all at one swoop.

MR. SINCLAIR'S statement that he, as Governor, "will end starvation in California," surprised this writer, who had seen anxiety and lack of emloyment in California, as elsewhere, but no actual starvation.

A telegram from Mr. Sinclair begins, "For shame, for shame, Arthur Brisbane," and goes on to say that people in California really are starving.

"I have talked with thousands of them, gaunt, hungry men, who cried: 'Mr. Sinclair, the relief people will do nothing for us, and we don't know where we are going to get food for our families tomorrow.' What good to mention that eggs are twenty cents a dozen, when men can't get the twenty cents? And what did you ever know about me to lead you to think that I would hide the truth, to oblige the chambers of commerce?

"UPTON SINCLAIR."

IT WOULD be difficult to imagine Mr. Sinclair hiding the truth. Such conduct on the part of a professional truthbearer has never been suggested here. It was suggested that Mr. Sinclair, advertising California as a land of starvation, is out of step with California Chambers of Commerce that advertise the rosy side.

Mr. Sinclair and the chambers are both good advertisers of their wares, and better teamwork would seem desirable.

UNDOUBTEDLY, in his long talk with the President, Mr. Sinclair told about the hungry men and the delinquent "relief people."

The President would want to know about that, and will attend to it, for he has said, "No man shall starve in this country."

There is plenty of money in the Treasury to feed all, and the President means to use it. Mr. Sinclair will have good news for those who appealed to him.

SENATOR M'ADOO of California, a Democrat, home from Europe, is not sure what he thinks of Upton Sinclair as Democratic candidate for Governor, but thinks he may be an expensive Governor if his plans go through.

California's biggest bdget thus far has been $216,000,000 in a year. One of Mr. Sinclair's plans, creditable to his kind heart, would have the state pay fifty dollars a month for life to every three-year resident of California aged sixty or older. This plan alone, Mr. McAdoo says, would cost California taxpayers $300,000,000 a year, or $84,000,000 more than present total expenses.

THERE IS another movement on foot with a big following to pay every American in old age a government pension of $200 a month. That, according to Mr. McAdoo's figures for California, would cost the taxpayers, who ultimately pay all bills, about twenty-eight billion dollars a year, more than the total national debt. It might be difficult to do that in these hard times.

But a country that punishes a man for letting an old horse starve should be ashamed to let any worked-out old man or woman die in misery. Old age pensions, long established in Europe, will come here.

Mr. Green, for the American Federation of Labor, demands a thirty-hour working week, five days of six hours. The Fur Workers Industrial Union of New York does better, 4,000 strikers having settled with the employers for a twenty-five-hour week.

Judge Gary, now in his grave, and probably glad of it, was wondering some years ago whether the twelve-hour day could be abolished completely in the steel industry. New conditions move rapidly.

ASKED WHEN she thought a woman would be President, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt said she hoped "not soon," not that she doubts woman's ability, but rather man's willingness to be ruled by a woman's judgment.

Wise men would worry not about the woman's president's judgment, but about that of the man controlling decisions. Mrs. Roosevelt herself would make an excellent President, so would Miss Frances Perkins, who has a better mind and character than 99 out of 100 able men. And General Johnson's assistant, Miss Frances M. Robinson, as President, would create a great demand for cabinet places, only she is nowhere near the legal age, thirty-five, and her cabinet would find it hard to keep its mind on dull routine.

RUSSIA WILL be invited into the League of Nations, proposed for membership by France, we fuss because Russia owes American financiers a few millions lent when any child might have known better.

Russia owes the French, in good hard gold francs, more than six thousand million dollars, but France wisely looks ahead, wants Russia's friendship and help in case of trouble with Germany, and will have it, as before. The French are logical.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that young Prince Otto, good looking young man of 22, heir to the Hapsburgs, will marry the Italain princess, Maria. This arrangement would be made only with Mussolini's approval, and may mean another Hapsburg on the Austrian throne.

You would think that Austria had had trouble enough with the other Hapsburgs, but Mussolini may have some workable plan, including, of course, his own indirect dictatorship.

SECRETARY ICKES replied to former President Hoover's attack on the Roosevelt administration, saying the liberty that interests Mr. Hoover is "the liberty of the exploiter." Liberty of privilege is what they (Mr. Hoover) wants," says Mr. Ickes.

Turning from Mr. Hoover to Senator Borah, who said liberty is fast disappearing, Mr. Ickes asks, "Who has lost his liberty?"

The President referees a baseball match at his home, and seems not to worry. Happy the man, with such a job, who can keep cool.

Sheriff Sale Is Stayed By Action Under Recent Law

E. M. Underwood Is Appointed Conciliation Commissioner In Acher Case

Sale of the personal property of H. A. Acher, of near Enon Valley, which was scheduled by Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard for yesterday was stayed when Attorney Harry Frank, representing Acher, asked for an adjudication of his indebtedness under the new farmer's bankrupt act.

The case is the first of the kind in Lawrence county since the act became operative last July, and so far as known there has only been three similar cases in this end of the state. The act provides that where farmers are in financial difficulties, they may ask for the appointment of a Conciliation Commissioners, whose duty it is to try to make a composition with creditors.

Referee in Bankruptcy E. M. Underwood, was appointed Conciliation Commissioners in this case and will probably act in that capacity in future cases, as it appears to be the policy to appoint the bankrupt referees to this petition.

The next procedure will be to have a meeting of the creditors before Conciliator Underwood, at which the creditors may present their claims. The execution upon which the sheriff had advertised the property for sale was issued by Wm. L. Kuhn. The property levied upon consisted of household goods, farm machinery, and live stock. It is understood that there is also a mortgage involved. Whether the mortgage figures in the efforts for a composition with creditors, is a question which has not been decided, as the wording of the act does not appear to make this point clear.

The act is intended to give farmers an opportunity to secure composition with creditors, or at least a chance to secure an extension of time to meet their obligations, where it appears that they might have a chance of working out.

Registration Is Light Thursday

While no totals are available on the registration of Thursday, September 6, it is estimated that not more than 2000 registered in the city. While this is a light registration it is felt that the second and third days will bring the total up to the usual number, and possibly exceed it due to the removal of the tax qualification.

The next registration day in September 18 and the last day is October 6. No tax receipts are necessary for a voter to register, this being made possible by the passage of an amendment to the State Constitution.

Medical Society Meets Thursday

Something a little off the regular line of procedure was enjoyed Thursday evening by members of the Lawrence County Medical society, when motion pictures of the "Science and Art of Obstetrics" were shown in the Castleton hotel.

It was the regular meeting night of the society with the president, Dr. James D. Crawford, presiding. Preceding the pictures Dr. Frederick Taylor addressed the society on Vitamin D milk, one of the recent advances in the production of certified milk. His talk was instructive to the physicians and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Hit Car Carrying State Highway Patrolmen—Officers Capture Hurlers

Ted Thompson, 16 years old, and Paul Cameron, same age, both of Edenburg R. D. 2, were arrested last night by State Highway Patrol Corporal Lawton and Patrolman Stoopes on a charge of throwing missiles at automobiles. They will be given a hearing before Alderman Coates in Edenburg in the near future.

According to the corporal and patrolman, they were patrolling the Edenburg section in an automobile when an ear of corn struck the side of the car. They stopped, gave pursuit and captured the boys who confessed to having thrown the missile.

There has been considerable throwing of missiles at automobiles in that section, according to the officers, and they visited the section last night. Last summer a girl riding in an auto was injured by a missile, they reported.

BARTENDERS BAFFLED BY LIPSTICK ON MUGS

PORTLAND, Ore.—The face on the barroom floor didn't cause half the trouble brought about nowadays by lipstick on barroom beer mugs.

It all grows out of the fact that "kiss proof" lipstick is not "beer proof" and milady who sips her suds leaves a tell-tale tinge of carmine on the lip of the mug which refuses to disappear in the ordinary beer parlor rinsing.

This, the city health department declares, should not be since the city ordinance requires strict cleanliness in all places which dispense beer.

Commissioner Riley went even farther and promised arrests whenever the city sanitary division finds glasses have not been properly washed and lipstick removed.

"Dunking" of beer glasses in water with a chemical cleaner and disinfecting material is not sufficient unless the glasses are allowed to remain there long enough to get thoroughly cleansed, said Mr. Riley.

"Papa" Mulvihill Says Colletta Is Tall Story Teller

Pittsburgh Oil Executive Refuses To Believe In Shanghai Wedding

Tommy Creer, Goes On Driving Truck And Trying To Forget About "Butterflies"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH Sept. 7.—Thomas J. Mulvihill, Pittsburgh oil executive, was startled this afternoon when informed by International News Service that his daughter, Collette, 15, admitted she was married in Shanghai before her recent elopement and marriage to a Pittsburgh truck driver.

Mulvihill, who confessed he knew nothing about the Shanghai marriage, apparently puts little faith in what his blonde daughter says. He instructed his interviewer to check carefully everything she says.

Was In China.

When informed Collette admitted marrying Felice Alberta five months before she dashed to Wellsburg, W. Va., to become the bride of 21-year-old Tommy Creer, Mulvihill replied:

"She may have been. She was in China at that time and arrived in this country on May 5. Whether or not she was married while there I do not know."

"But," he added, "If she says so I would advise you to check the story pretty carefully. She seems to change her stories a lot."

Meanwhile, Tommy, the forgotten bridegroom of three weeks, could not be reached for comment. Apparently unconcerned about the activities of the girl he married but never lived with, he remained at his truck driving job. Tommy apparently was determined to stick with his promise of being through with "butterflies and love."

"Human Sponge" Is Drowning Victim

(International News Service)

VLADAYA, Bulgaria, Sept. 7.—Tavern keepers of this village are mourning the loss of their best customer, Gheorgieff Sando, the town's "human sponge" and probably the best two-fisted drinker in all Bulgaria.

Gheorgieff died the victim of his own grim jest. He used to shout, as he banged his glass on the bar, that if he ever drank water it would kill him. It did, although the water was forced down his throat against his will. He was drowned.

Gheorgieff in search of a drink was the nearest thing to perpetual motion ever seen here. They thought the fellow had hollow legs. If the day seemed propitious for drinking, and it frequently did! He would shuffle into the tavern as soon as it opened and stay at the bar until they started piling the chairs on the tables late at night.

51 Bottles Of Wine.

The other day Gheorgieff consumed 51 bottles of red wine to win a bet. He was just working up a respectable thirst when they closed the tavern, so he staggered to the basement of his shop and went to work on his private stock.

A few hours later a torrential rainstorm flooded the streets and basements of the village. Gheorgieff was drowned—but he died with his boots on. When they found the body in the morning, one arm was flung around a cask of wine in a last fond farewell.

While government expenses were greater, so were revenues. The gross revenue amounted to $553,550,000, as compared with $370,409,000 last year.

Hezekiah Leads The People To God

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

II Chronicles 30:9—"God is gracious and merciful."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 9 is II Chronicles, chapter 30, especially verses 1-9, 13, the Golden Text being verse 9, "God is gracious and merciful".)

It must be to Abijah, daughter of Zechariah, the mother of King Hezekiah, that we owe the good and godly character of this good King of Judah. For his father, Ahaz, was everything a father should not be, an idoloter, plunderer of God's temple, patron of the hideous Moloch, into whose fiery arms he probably cast his own son, Hezekiah's brother, in human sacrifice, and at his death was deemed unfit even to be buried with the kings.

Hezekiah Cleanses the Temple

Hezekiah's first official act upon ascending the throne at the age of twenty-five was to cleanse the temple of the defilements that had desecrated it during the reigns of his fathers. The need of cleansing is apparent in the fact that it required an army of priests and Levites sixteen days to rid it of its filth and bring order out of chaos, after which a solemn service of rededication was conducted under the young king's direction.

Healing Breach of Secession

Having cleaned the temple and restored its pure worship, Hezekiah planned a great nation-wide observance of the ancient Passover Supper, and he planned it not only for the tribes of his own southern kingdom of Judah, but also for the tribes of the northern kingdom of Israel who had seceded 250 years before and left a breach for whose healing little had been attempted by any of the kings on either side of the line. But Hezekiah was optimist enough to believe that the old wounds could be healed if only both sides could be brought together about their ancient paschal meal to "read the same Bible and pray to the same God." So he sent urgent invitations to all the twelve tribes beginning with his nearest neighbors in the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh and extending away up to Asher and Zebulun in the extreme north. It was more than a gesture of good will. He made a passionate and eloquent plea that they renounce their idolotry and return to the true God, whom he was generous enough to call not the God of Judah but of Israel: "Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, that he may return to the remnant of you that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria . . . Be not like your fathers, but yield yourselves unto the Lord, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified forever." Despite the sins of the past 250 years of their estrangement from God and his house Hezekiah assured them: "the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto them". The result was as with every gospel appeal to sinners, some "laughed them to scorn, and mocked them", while others "humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem" and "the hand of God gave them one heart".

The Joy Worship Brings

The result of the king's conciliatory and reformatory efforts was that "the Lord hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people. And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness . . . So there was great joy in Jerusalem . . . And their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy habitation, even unto heaven."

Telephone Operator Shocked By Murder

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 7—The telephone operator at the Kingston exchange froze at her switchboard as a shrill cry of "murder" burst into her head-set.

Her impromptu thrill proved short-lived, however.

A hasty police check up disclosed that a husband, returning home with but a partial pay in his pockets, found it extremely difficult to dodge a skillet wielded by his ired spouse.

During the melee, one of their children grabbed the telephone, dialed the operator and screamed the single word "murder."

Hezekiah Leads The People To God

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

II Chronicles 30:9—"God is gracious and merciful."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 9 is II Chronicles, chapter 30, especially verses 1-9, 13, the Golden Text being verse 9, "God is gracious and merciful".)

It must be to Abijah, daughter of Zechariah, the mother of King Hezekiah, that we owe the good and godly character of this good King of Judah. For his father, Ahaz, was everything a father should not be, an idoloter, plunderer of God's temple, patron of the hideous Moloch, into whose fiery arms he probably cast his own son, Hezekiah's brother, in human sacrifice, and at his death was deemed unfit even to be buried with the kings.

Hezekiah Cleanses the Temple

Hezekiah's first official act upon ascending the throne at the age of twenty-five was to cleanse the temple of the defilements that had desecrated it during the reigns of his fathers. The need of cleansing is apparent in the fact that it required an army of priests and Levites sixteen days to rid it of its filth and bring order out of chaos, after which a solemn service of rededication was conducted under the young king's direction.

Healing Breach of Secession

Having cleaned the temple and restored its pure worship, Hezekiah planned a great nation-wide observance of the ancient Passover Supper, and he planned it not only for the tribes of his own southern kingdom of Judah, but also for the tribes of the northern kingdom of Israel who had seceded 250 years before and left a breach for whose healing little had been attempted by any of the kings on either side of the line. But Hezekiah was optimist enough to believe that the old wounds could be healed if only both sides could be brought together about their ancient paschal meal to "read the same Bible and pray to the same God." So he sent urgent invitations to all the twelve tribes beginning with his nearest neighbors in the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh and extending away up to Asher and Zebulun in the extreme north. It was more than a gesture of good will. He made a passionate and eloquent plea that they renounce their idolotry and return to the true God, whom he was generous enough to call not the God of Judah but of Israel: "Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, that he may return to the remnant of you that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria . . . Be not like your fathers, but yield yourselves unto the Lord, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified forever." Despite the sins of the past 250 years of their estrangement from God and his house Hezekiah assured them: "the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto them". The result was as with every gospel appeal to sinners, some "laughed them to scorn, and mocked them", while others "humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem" and "the hand of God gave them one heart".

The Joy Worship Brings

The result of the king's conciliatory and reformatory efforts was that "the Lord hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people. And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness . . . So there was great joy in Jerusalem . . . And their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy habitation, even unto heaven."

Telephone Operator Shocked By Murder

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 7—The telephone operator at the Kingston exchange froze at her switchboard as a shrill cry of "murder" burst into her head-set.

Her impromptu thrill proved short-lived, however.

A hasty police check up disclosed that a husband, returning home with but a partial pay in his pockets, found it extremely difficult to dodge a skillet wielded by his ired spouse.

During the melee, one of their children grabbed the telephone, dialed the operator and screamed the single word "murder."

MOTORIST KILLED

(International News Service)

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Sept. 7.—John Mantour, 22, of Irvona, was instantly killed when his car upset near Madera on his way to work in the mines there.

Henry Dotts, Glen Hope, was taken to Philipsburg State hospital where he was reported in serious condition.

State police said the car left the road and struck a tree.

E. M. Underwood Is Appointed Conciliation Commissioner In Acher Case

Sale of the personal property of H. A. Acher, of near Enon Valley, which was scheduled by Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard for yesterday was stayed when Attorney Harry Frank, representing Acher, asked for an adjudication of his indebtedness under the new farmer's bankrupt act.

The case is the first of the kind in Lawrence county since the act became operative last July, and so far as known there has only been three similar cases in this end of the state. The act provides that where farmers are in financial difficulties, they may ask for the appointment of a Conciliation Commissioners, whose duty it is to try to make a composition with creditors.

Referee in Bankruptcy E. M. Underwood, was appointed Conciliation Commissioners in this case and will probably act in that capacity in future cases, as it appears to be the policy to appoint the bankrupt referees to this petition.

The next procedure will be to have a meeting of the creditors before Conciliator Underwood, at which the creditors may present their claims. The execution upon which the sheriff had advertised the property for sale was issued by Wm. L. Kuhn. The property levied upon consisted of household goods, farm machinery, and live stock. It is understood that there is also a mortgage involved. Whether the mortgage figures in the efforts for a composition with creditors, is a question which has not been decided, as the wording of the act does not appear to make this point clear.

The act is intended to give farmers an opportunity to secure composition with creditors, or at least a chance to secure an extension of time to meet their obligations, where it appears that they might have a chance of working out.

Registration Is Light Thursday

While no totals are available on the registration of Thursday, September 6, it is estimated that not more than 2000 registered in the city. While this is a light registration it is felt that the second and third days will bring the total up to the usual number, and possibly exceed it due to the removal of the tax qualification.

The next registration day in September 18 and the last day is October 6. No tax receipts are necessary for a voter to register, this being made possible by the passage of an amendment to the State Constitution.

Medical Society Meets Thursday

Something a little off the regular line of procedure was enjoyed Thursday evening by members of the Lawrence County Medical society, when motion pictures of the "Science and Art of Obstetrics" were shown in the Castleton hotel.

It was the regular meeting night of the society with the president, Dr. James D. Crawford, presiding. Preceding the pictures Dr. Frederick Taylor addressed the society on Vitamin D milk, one of the recent advances in the production of certified milk. His talk was instructive to the physicians and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Hit Car Carrying State Highway Patrolmen—Officers Capture Hurlers

Ted Thompson, 16 years old, and Paul Cameron, same age, both of Edenburg R. D. 2, were arrested last night by State Highway Patrol Corporal Lawton and Patrolman Stoopes on a charge of throwing missiles at automobiles. They will be given a hearing before Alderman Coates in Edenburg in the near future.

According to the corporal and patrolman, they were patrolling the Edenburg section in an automobile when an ear of corn struck the side of the car. They stopped, gave pursuit and captured the boys who confessed to having thrown the missile.

There has been considerable throwing of missiles at automobiles in that section, according to the officers, and they visited the section last night. Last summer a girl riding in an auto was injured by a missile, they reported.

BARTENDERS BAFFLED BY LIPSTICK ON MUGS

PORTLAND, Ore.—The face on the barroom floor didn't cause half the trouble brought about nowadays by lipstick on barroom beer mugs.

It all grows out of the fact that "kiss proof" lipstick is not "beer proof" and milady who sips her suds leaves a tell-tale tinge of carmine on the lip of the mug which refuses to disappear in the ordinary beer parlor rinsing.

This, the city health department declares, should not be since the city ordinance requires strict cleanliness in all places which dispense beer.

Commissioner Riley went even farther and promised arrests whenever the city sanitary division finds glasses have not been properly washed and lipstick removed.

"Dunking" of beer glasses in water with a chemical cleaner and disinfecting material is not sufficient unless the glasses are allowed to remain there long enough to get thoroughly cleansed, said Mr. Riley.

Under relief work projects it has been suggested that bodies in the cemetary at the County Home be removed to another location. Don't give false information to obtain a hunter's license.

Don't fail to sign your hunter's license certificate.

Over Billion Is Spent By U. S. Past Quarter

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Federal expenditures increased rapidly in the three-month period, July 1-Sept. 4, crossing the billion dollar mark for the first time in the peacetime history of the country, treasury figures disclosed today.

Between July 1 and Sept. 4 the federal government spent $1,012,900,000, or some $459,422,000 more than it received in revenue.

Expenditures during the same period last year were only $592,000,000, and the deficit in that period was only $222,238,000.

Most of the expenditures came under the heading of emergency spending. Emergency purposes accounted for $558,869,000, as compared with $216,825,000 in the same period last year.

Of this emergency expenditure, the FERA alone received $267,841,000.

The RFC was the only governmental agency to show a credit during the three-month period. It received between July 1 and Sept. 4 a total of $115,391,000 in repaid loans.

While government expenses were greater, so were revenues. The gross revenue amounted to $553,550,000, as compared with $370,409,000 last year.

Hezekiah Leads The People To God

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

II Chronicles 30:9—"God is gracious and merciful."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 9 is II Chronicles, chapter 30, especially verses 1-9, 13, the Golden Text being verse 9, "God is gracious and merciful".)

It must be to Abijah, daughter of Zechariah, the mother of King Hezekiah, that we owe the good and godly character of this good King of Judah. For his father, Ahaz, was everything a father should not be, an idoloter, plunderer of God's temple, patron of the hideous Moloch, into whose fiery arms he probably cast his own son, Hezekiah's brother, in human sacrifice, and at his death was deemed unfit even to be buried with the kings.

Hezekiah Cleanses the Temple

Hezekiah's first official act upon ascending the throne at the age of twenty-five was to cleanse the temple of the defilements that had desecrated it during the reigns of his fathers. The need of cleansing is apparent in the fact that it required an army of priests and Levites sixteen days to rid it of its filth and bring order out of chaos, after which a solemn service of rededication was conducted under the young king's direction.

Healing Breach of Secession

Having cleaned the temple and restored its pure worship, Hezekiah planned a great n..tion-wide observance of the ancient Passover Supper, and he planned it not only for the tribes of his own southern kingdom of Judah, but also for the tribes of the northern kingdom of Israel who had seceded 250 years before and left a breach for whose healing little had been attempted by any of the kings on either side of the line. But Hezekiah was optimist enough to believe that the old wounds could be healed if only both sides could be brought together about their ancient paschal meal to "read the same Bible and pray to the same God." So he sent urgent invitations to all the twelve tribes beginning with his nearest neighbors in the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh and extending away up to Asher and Zebulun in the extreme north. It was more than a gesture of good will. He made a passionate and eloquent plea that they renounce their idolotry and return to the true God, whom he was generous enough to call not the God of Judah but of Israel: "Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, that he may return to the remnant of you that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria . . . Be not like your fathers, but yield yourselves unto the Lord, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified forever." Despite the sins of the past 250 years of their estrangement from God and his house Hezekiah assured them: "the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto them". The result was as with every gospel appeal to sinners, some "laughed them to scorn, and mocked them", while others "humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem" and "the hand of God gave them one heart".

The Joy Worship Brings

The result of the king's conciliatory and reformatory efforts was that "the Lord hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people. And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness . . . So there was great joy in Jerusalem . . . And their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy habitation, even unto heaven."

Telephone Operator Shocked By Murder

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 7—The telephone operator at the Kingston exchange froze at her switchboard as a shrill cry of "murder" burst into her head-set.

Her impromptu thrill proved short-lived, however.

A hasty police check up disclosed that a husband, returning home with but a partial pay in his pockets, found it extremely difficult to dodge a skillet wielded by his ired spouse.

During the melee, one of their children grabbed the telephone, dialed the operator and screamed the single word "murder."

Battle Lines In New Orleans Are Being Drawn Up

Mayor Walmsley Has Force Of Loyal Police Arrayed Against State Militia

GUARDSMEN AT CITY LIMITS

Battle Between Mayor And Huey Long Over Vice Conditions Acute

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The march on New Orleans of 2,200 state militiamen, mobilized in the dead of the night by United States Senator Huey P. Long's state administration, took on all the aspects of a state of siege today.

Through the night and on into the day khaki-clad combat troops, armed with war-time paraphernalia, converged on this harassed municipality from nearly 20 towns and cities throughout Louisiana.

By mid-morning approximately 1,000 troops had poured into the Jackson barracks national guard reservation on the outskirts of the city.

Prepare Defense.

None of the guardsmen entered the city where another heavily-armed force of 1,300 men, the loyal police department of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, prepared to defend the city against invasion.

Armaments of the police force rivaled those of the military. Fourteen modern sub-machine guns and nearly 200 automatic rifles, sawed off shotguns and gas grenades were in the police arsenal.

"We're well protected, but I am hoping there will be no trouble," Superintendent of Police George Reyer told International News Service. "Certainly no trouble will be precipitated by the New Orleans police force."

Police Not Afraid.

And Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, who once captained the Tulane football team, declared:

"No mobilization of troops will intimidate or stop the honest citizens of New Orleans from casting their ballots next Tuesday. They cannot be scared by this show of armed force."

Why the troops were so hastily summoned into this city in the largest military concentration in Louisiana since the world war remained an official mystery.

Governor Silent.

Governor Oscar Allen, on whose authority alone the troops could be mustered, refused to comment on or explain his action on the eve of the crucial September 11 congressional primary.

But it remained for Senator Long, whose dictatorial power over the destinies of this state became supreme at noon today, as usual, to speak unofficially for the governor.

The Kingfish in the role of moral crusader issued the following statement:

"The legislative committee and its witnesses are not going to be further molested, the open vice dens are going to close and New Orleans is going to have a peaceful election. That is all I know about anything.

Will Work Together

"The new laws say that no armed men of any kind shall be at the election polls on the day of election, except, where trouble is threatened, policemen may be ordered out by the arbitration committee, which has already been selected and which is composed of one from Tulane, one from Loyola, one from the Central Trades and Labor Council, and one selected by that four.

"The board of supervisors of elections, composed of the civil sheriff, the registrar of voters, and one appointed by the governor, has the right to call policemen where trouble is threatened, but since there is one member of that board on the arbitration committee. They will work together."

Harbors existed in the earliest stages of civilization, as soon as man began to venture onto the ocean.

In two states, Mississippi and South Carolina, Negroes outnumber the whites.

Spotlight on Zaharoff Hand in U. S. Navy Affairs

Mysterious figure of Sir Basil Zaharoff (left), British-knighted Russo-Greco-Franco professional "merchant of death," shadows inquiry of Senate committee headed by Gerald P. Nye (center) into relationship of American armaments concerns to the European combine which makes wars and munitions. He is revealed by testimony of Henry R. Carse, president, Electric Boat Co., to have received heavy payments from United States concern and to have used his influence in United States Navy matters. Under agreement between United States and British manufacturers engineered by Zaharoff, foreign governments get benefits of submarine devices developed by United States inventors. This British submarine utilizes them. (Central Press)

Crop Conferences Are Being Held

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Opening of a series of conferences between AAA officials and country production control units was seen today as the first test, on the scene, of public opinion on the subject of further crop control.

While the corn and hog program is to be the subject of the first conferences, the agricultural adjustment heads must consider other crops which in the past year have been placed on a control basis.

School Finances Will Be Discussed

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 7.—The executive committee of the State School Teachers' association decided today to list school finances at the top of the agenda for discussion at the organization's 1935 meeting to be held here February 6 and 7.

To prevent dresses slipping off the hangers, bend the top wire to within two inches of the lower wire.

Ulrich Zwingli was the leader of the Protestant Reformation in Switzerland.

Skies Clear In New York, Fight May Be Scheduled

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The sun broke through a grey sky at noon today, giving promise that the Ross-McLarnin fight for the welterweight championship of the world would be held in Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl tonight.

However, should the weather again turn threatening the fight might go over until tomorrow night.

The odds today still held at 9 to 5 on the Chicago boy to retain his title.

BRITISH TO EXPLORE CANADIAN ARCTIC

(International News Service)

LONDON—A British expedition which has this week received the approval and financial support of Oxford university and the Royal Geographical society will leave London soon to spend the year in Ellesmere Island in the Canadian Arctic.

A Norwegian scaler, the Signalhorn, has been chartered, and will sail as far north as possible through the ice at Smith Sound. The main objects of the expedition are to cross and explore Grant Land and to investigate the possibilities of development, particularly in relation to aviation.

The leader of the expedition will be Dr. Noel Humphreys, who was awarded the Murchison Grant by the Royal Geographical society.

KING GEORGE V REMEMBERS TWINS

(International News Service)

EDINBURGH—For years King George of England has had the reputation of possessing the most wonderful memory of any crowned head in the world.

He has just illustrated that at the age of 69 his memory still is as good as ever it was.

Visiting the gardens again recently, the king suddenly spotted Mrs. Witt with her two children.

Walking across to the woman, the king said:

"Ah! Here are the twins. How are they getting along?"

The king had remembered the mother's face after a single meeting three years ago.

"Good" is an adjective and must not be used as an adverb. Say "Do it well this time", not "Do it good this time".

Goose-Plane In Collision

(International News Service)

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Forced down by a collision with a goose was the story told today by the crew of the Nassau county police plane.

Enroute to Providence, R. I., to bring back a witness, the plane returned in three hours without the witness.

The pilot said the plane had struck a goose in flight and had killed the bird. The plane was jolted but undamaged.

Seek Federal Aid In Textile Strike

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Appeal to the federal government for aid in suppressing alleged terroristic tactics of textile strikers may be made George A. Sloan, head of the cotton textile institution, intimated today.

Sloan asserted thousands of willing workers were being forced to leave their jobs by intimidation from groups of invaders from outside communities.

Would Probe Drop In Smelting Stock

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—The securities and exchange commission today asked the New York Stock exchange to investigate a 15 point drop in U. S. smelting stocks yesterday.

It was explained by commission officials that section 9 of the act governing manipulation of stocks does not go into effect until Oct. 1 and therefore it has no jurisdiction at this time over cases of this kind.

Battle Lines In New Orleans Are Being Drawn Up

GUARDSMEN AT CITY LIMITS

Battle Between Mayor And Huey Long Over Vice Conditions Acute

International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The march on New Orleans of 2,200 state militiamen, mobilized in the dead of the night by United States Senator Huey P. Long's state administration, took on all the aspects of a state of siege today.

Through the night and on into the day khaki-clad combat troops, armed with war-time paraphernalia, converged on this harassed municipality from nearly 20 towns and cities throughout Louisiana.

By mid-morning approximately 1,000 troops had poured into the Jackson barracks national guard reservation on the outskirts of the city.

Prepare Defense.

None of the guardsmen entered the city where another heavily-armed force of 1,300 men, the loyal police department of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, prepared to defend the city against invasion.

Armaments of the police force rivaled those of the military. Fourteen modern sub-machine guns and nearly 200 automatic rifles, sawed off shotguns and gas grenades were in the police arsenal.

"We're well protected, but I am hoping there will be no trouble," Superintendent of Police George Reyer told International News Service. "Certainly no trouble will be precipitated by the New Orleans police force."

Police Not Afraid.

And Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, who once captained the Tulane football team, declared:

"No mobilization of troops will intimidate or stop the honest citizens of New Orleans from casting their ballots next Tuesday. They cannot be scared by this show of armed force."

Why the troops were so hastily summoned into this city in the largest military concentration in Louisiana since the world war remained an official mystery.

Governor Silent.

Governor Oscar Allen, on whose authority alone the troops could be mustered, refused to comment on or explain his action on the eve of the crucial September 11 congressional primary.

But it remained for Senator Long, whose dictatorial power over the destinies of this state became supreme at noon today, as usual, to speak unofficially for the governor.

The Kingfish in the role of moral crusader issued the following statement:

"The legislative committee and its witnesses are not going to be further molested, the open vice dens are going to close and New Orleans is going to have a peaceful election. That is all I know about anything.

Will Work Together

"The new laws say that no armed men of any kind shall be at the election polls on the day of election, except, where trouble is threatened, policemen may be ordered out by the arbitration committee, which has already been selected and which is composed of one from Tulane, one from Loyola, one from the Central Trades and Labor Council, and one selected by that four.

"The board of supervisors of elections, composed of the civil sheriff, the registrar of voters, and one appointed by the governor, has the right to call policemen where trouble is threatened, but since there is one member of that board on the arbitration committee. They will work together."

Harbors existed in the earliest stages of civilization, as soon as man began to venture onto the ocean.

In two states, Mississippi and South Carolina, Negroes outnumber the whites.

Spotlight on Zaharoff Hand in U. S. Navy Affairs

Mysterious figure of Sir Basil Zaharoff (left), British-knighted Russo-Greco-Franco professional "merchant of death," shadows inquiry of Senate committee headed by Gerald P. Nye (center) into relationship of American armaments concerns to the European combine which makes wars and munitions. He is revealed by testimony of Henry R. Carse, president, Electric Boat Co., to have received heavy payments from United States concern and to have used his influence in United States Navy matters. Under agreement between United States and British manufacturers engineered by Zaharoff, foreign governments get benefits of submarine devices developed by United States inventors. This British submarine utilizes them. (Central Press)

Under relief work projects it has been suggested that bodies in the cemetary at the County Home be removed to another location. Among the New Castle authors whose poems will appear in the book are Mrs. Fisher, wife of Dr. Grant E. Fisher of Adams street and Adeline E. Miller, a teacher of 227 East Lincoln avenue.

Don't hunt wild birds or wild animals of any kind without a license.

Don't hunt without displaying the license tag on your back, and without carrying your license certificate.

Don't give false information to obtain a hunter's license.

Don't fail to sign your hunter's license certificate.

Boys under 16 don't hunt with firearms on land other than those on which you live, without being accompanied by a person 21 years old or over.

Don't lend your hunter's license or tag to another.

PLANT COVER CROP TO IMPROVE GARDEN SOIL

Where vegetables have been harvested and the ground is bare the soil can be lightly cultivated and some rye sown as a cover crop. The rye can be broadcast and covered by raking in the small patch or harrowing in the larger garden.

Between the rows of late maturing crops rye also may be seeded if the operation does not injure foliage of the crops. When the first frost kills the tomatoes and beans the vines of these crops can be removed and rye sown there.

Rye planted September 1 will make a good fall growth which can be spaded or plowed under early in the spring. If the rye is not shown until about October 1, it will not make so much fall growth but if it can be allowed to stand longer in the spring a good growth will result before it is plowed or spaded under.

A cover crop or green manuring crop on the ground during the winter has many advantages. It prevents washing of the soil, takes up and holds the available fertility so that it does not leach away, and produces an abundance of organic matter which improves the water-holding capacity and working conditions of the soil.

Sometimes wheat is used instead of rye for the cover crop on the garden but it does not make as abundant growth usually nor start so early in the spring as rye.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS AND FARMERS TO SHOW STOCK

4-H club members of Butler, Crawford and Washington counties are feeding lambs which they will exhibit at the Pittsburgh livestock show in October, and club members of Mercer and Lawrence counties are fattening baby beeves for the same exposition.

John Shober of Garrett, Somerset county; Wesley Wrightsy, Meadville, and Dick Stevens, Homer City, are adult farmers who also are feeding lambs to be shown in Pittsburgh.

More than 200 lambs and between 15 and 20 baby beeves will be shown by the Pennsylvania exhibitors, according to W. B. Connell, in charge of animal husbandry extension for the Pennsylvania State college.

GOOD HENS LAY MORE EGGS WITH LATE MOLT

When and how a hen molts are good indications of her productive ability. If molt is to be considered in culling, one must be certain that the hens have been cared for properly. Moving the hens from one house to another or changing their feed will force them to molt. In fact, any slight change in management or environment will cause both good and poor hens to molt now, the natural time for molting.

If nothing is done to upset the birds, the good layers will continue to lay and will not molt until late summer or early fall. The poor producers will molt early and usually will take long vacations.

Tests made at the Missouri station indicate that the late molter not only lays more winter eggs, but lays more eggs the following year than the early molter.

The tests show that as a rule early molters are not profitable to keep. Their laying period is shortened considerably and they are most certain to be unprofitable birds the second year. Then, too, they are naturally slow molters and take long vacations. In many cases, the early molters also are capable of laying only about 15 eggs a month instead of 20 to 25 as usually is the figure for the late molters.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours nding at 3:30 p. m. September 6, five arrests on charges as follows: violating parking ordinance 2, suspicion 1, drunkenness 1 and drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

When the city is financially able to do so the council may purchase some rubber clothing so that when volunteer firemen turn out to help fight blazes they will be able to properly clothe themselves. It is reported that there is not much extra equipment of this kind at the various departments.

Councilman Albert Hoyland's building experience asserted itself yesterday when he placed himself on record as being opposed to using any old material on the reconstruction of a public library. He said the material which is in the Shenango Hospital building would be suitable for a Community recreation building and also a toolhouse. He estimated the materials worth $5,000. The city engineer, Harry Hoskins estimated the value at $6,000. None of the council were in favor of storing the material if the building and materials were bought. It is proposed to save the labor cost by using RWD employes. Council has introduced an ordinance authorizing the purchase at a cost not to exceed $2,000.

Sealer of weights and Inspector of measures A. R. English has reported to council that only one scale was found incorrect and had to be condemned during his August examinations. Only four even balance scales and nine computing scales had to be adjusted. This is considered an excellent record in view of more than 600 examinations of weights and measures in the city.

Harold Dunlap, inspector of plumbing, reported today quite a lot of inpsections are being made. He said that the plumbing is being installed in old buildings.....The eyes of Motorcycle Patrolman Ray Showalter will glisten like those of a child at a decorated Christmas tree when he sees the new motorcycle which has been bought for him to ride.

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, is holding his breath these days; in fact he is holding crossed fingers. There has been no contagious illness reported for some time and he is hopeful that with the resumption of school activities all persons will report any communicable immediately so that the city can do its share toward preventing any large number of cases. Toward the close of the school term for the summer vacation the town was "hard hit" by contagion. However, it disappeared almost entirely during the summer months.

Erected Tent To Protect A Spider

International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 7—Geo. Rynier, of suburban Paradise, is fond of his pet spider. In fact, he thinks so well of it that he has erected a tent to protect it from the inclement weather.

George's spider, it seems, is not of the ordinary type. This one, he avers, has literary talents.

Scores of persons have thronged into Rynier's yard to see a slogan, "America Win War" which the spider is reputed to have woven in its web.

Rynier erected a tent over the bush on which the spider has made its web to protect it from storms.

4-H club members of Butler, Crawford and Washington counties are feeding lambs which they will exhibit at the Pittsburgh livestock show in October, and club members of Mercer and Lawrence counties are fattening baby beeves for the same exposition.

John Shober of Garrett, Somerset county; Wesley Wrightsy, Meadville, and Dick Stevens, Homer City, are adult farmers who also are feeding lambs to be shown in Pittsburgh.

More than 200 lambs and between 15 and 20 baby beeves will be shown by the Pennsylvania exhibitors, according to W. B. Connell, in charge of animal husbandry extension for the Pennsylvania State college.

GOOD HENS LAY MORE EGGS WITH LATE MOLT

When and how a hen molts are good indications of her productive ability. If molt is to be considered in culling, one must be certain that the hens have been cared for properly. Moving the hens from one house to another or changing their feed will force them to molt. In fact, any slight change in management or environment will cause both good and poor hens to molt now, the natural time for molting.

If nothing is done to upset the birds, the good layers will continue to lay and will not molt until late summer or early fall. The poor producers will molt early and usually will take long vacations.

Tests made at the Missouri station indicate that the late molter not only lays more winter eggs, but lays more eggs the following year than the early molter.

The tests show that as a rule early molters are not profitable to keep. Their laying period is shortened considerably and they are most certain to be unprofitable birds the second year. Then, too, they are naturally slow molters and take long vacations. In many cases, the early molters also are capable of laying only about 15 eggs a month instead of 20 to 25 as usually is the figure for the late molters.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours nding at 3:30 p. m. September 6, five arrests on charges as follows: violating parking ordinance 2, suspicion 1, drunkenness 1 and drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

When the city is financially able to do so the council may purchase some rubber clothing so that when volunteer firemen turn out to help fight blazes they will be able to properly clothe themselves. It is reported that there is not much extra equipment of this kind at the various departments.

Councilman Albert Hoyland's building experience asserted itself yesterday when he placed himself on record as being opposed to using any old material on the reconstruction of a public library. He said the material which is in the Shenango Hospital building would be suitable for a Community recreation building and also a toolhouse. He estimated the materials worth $5,000. The city engineer, Harry Hoskins estimated the value at $6,000. None of the council were in favor of storing the material if the building and materials were bought. It is proposed to save the labor cost by using RWD employes. Council has introduced an ordinance authorizing the purchase at a cost not to exceed $2,000.

Sealer of weights and Inspector of measures A. R. English has reported to council that only one scale was found incorrect and had to be condemned during his August examinations. Only four even balance scales and nine computing scales had to be adjusted. This is considered an excellent record in view of more than 600 examinations of weights and measures in the city.

Harold Dunlap, inspector of plumbing, reported today quite a lot of inpesctions are being made. He said that the plumbing is being installed in old buildings.....The eyes of Motorcycle Patrolman Ray Showalter will glisten like those of a child at a decorated Christmas tree when he sees the new motorcycle which has been bought for him to ride.

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, is holding his breath these days; in fact he is holding crossed fingers. There has been no contagious illness reported for some time and he is hopeful that with the resumption of school activities all persons will report any communicable immediately so that the city can do its share toward preventing any large number of cases. Toward the close of the school term for the summer vacation the town was "hard hit" by contagion. However, it disappeared almost entirely during the summer months.

Erected Tent To Protect A Spider

International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 7—Geo. Rynier, of suburban Paradise, is fond of his pet spider. In fact, he thinks so well of it that he has erected a tent to protect it from the inclement weather.

George's spider, it seems, is not of the ordinary type. This one, he avers, has literary talents.

Scores of persons have thronged into Rynier's yard to see a slogan, "America Win War" which the spider is reputed to have woven in its web.

Rynier erected a tent over the bush on which the spider has made its web to protect it from storms.

Battle Lines In New Orleans Are Being Drawn Up

GUARDSMEN AT CITY LIMITS

Battle Between Mayor And Huey Long Over Vice Conditions Acute

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—The march on New Orleans of 2,200 state militiamen, mobilized in the dead of the night by United States Senator Huey P. Long's state administration, took on all the aspects of a state of siege today.

Through the night and on into the day khaki-clad combat troops, armed with war-time paraphernalia, converged on this harassed municipality from nearly 20 towns and cities throughout Louisiana.

By mid-morning approximately 1,000 troops had poured into the Jackson barracks national guard reservation on the outskirts of the city.

Prepare Defense.

None of the guardsmen entered the city where another heavily-armed force of 1,300 men, the loyal police department of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, prepared to defend the city against invasion.

Armaments of the police force rivaled those of the military. Fourteen modern sub-machine guns and nearly 200 automatic rifles, sawed off shotguns and gas grenades were in the police arsenal.

"We're well protected, but I am hoping there will be no trouble," Superintendent of Police George Reyer told International News Service. "Certainly no trouble will be precipitated by the New Orleans police force."

Police Not Afraid.

And Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, who once captained the Tulane football team, declared:

"No mobilization of troops will intimidate or stop the honest citizens of New Orleans from casting their ballots next Tuesday. They cannot be scared by this show of armed force."

Why the troops were so hastily summoned into this city in the largest military concentration in Louisiana since the world war remained an official mystery.

Governor Silent.

Governor Oscar Allen, on whose authority alone the troops could be mustered, refused to comment on or explain his action on the eve of the crucial September 11 congressional primary.

But it remained for Senator Long, whose dictatorial power over the destinies of this state became supreme at noon today, as usual, to speak unofficially for the governor.

The Kingfish in the role of moral crusader issued the following statement:

"The legislative committee and its witnesses are not going to be further molested, the open vice dens are going to close and New Orleans is going to have a peaceful election. That is all I know about anything.

Will Work Together

"The new laws say that no armed men of any kind shall be at the election polls on the day of election, except, where trouble is threatened, policemen may be ordered out by the arbitration committee, which has already been selected and which is composed of one from Tulane, one from Loyola, one from the Central Trades and Labor Council, and one selected by that four.

"The board of supervisors of elections, composed of the civil sheriff, the registrar of voters, and one appointed by the governor, has the right to call policemen where trouble is threatened, but since there is one member of that board on the arbitration committee. They will work together."

Harbors existed in the earliest stages of civilization, as soon as man began to venture onto the ocean.

In two states, Mississippi and South Carolina, Negroes outnumber the whites.

Spotlight on Zaharoff Hand in U. S. Navy Affairs

Crop Conferences Are Being Held

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Opening of a series of conferences between AAA officials and country production control units was seen today as the first test, on the scene, of public opinion on the subject of further crop control.

Skies Clear In New York, Fight May Be Scheduled

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The sun broke through a grey sky at noon today, giving promise that the Ross-McLarnin fight for the welterweight championship of the world would be held in Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl tonight.

However, should the weather again turn threatening the fight might go over until tomorrow night.

The odds today still held at 9 to 5 on the Chicago boy to retain his title.

KING GEORGE V REMEMBERS TWINS

(International News Service)

EDINBURGH—For years King George of England has had the reputation of possessing the most wonderful memory of any crowned head in the world.

He has just illustrated that at the age of 69 his memory still is as good as ever it was.

Visiting the gardens again recently, the king suddenly spotted Mrs. Witt with her two children.

Walking across to the woman, the king said:

"Ah! Here are the twins. How are they getting along?"

The king had remembered the mother's face after a single meeting three years ago.

"Good" is an adjective and must not be used as an adverb. Say "Do it well this time", not "Do it good this time".

Goose-Plane In Collision

(International News Service)

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Forced down by a collision with a goose was the story told today by the crew of the Nassau county police plane.

Enroute to Providence, R. I., to bring back a witness, the plane returned in three hours without the witness.

The pilot said the plane had struck a goose in flight and had killed the bird. The plane was jolted but undamaged.

Sloan asserted thousands of willing workers were being forced to leave their jobs by intimidation from groups of invaders from outside communities.

Would Probe Drop In Smelting Stock

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—The securities and exchange commission today asked the New York Stock exchange to investigate a 15 point drop in U. S. smelting stocks yesterday.

It was explained by commission officials that section 9 of the act governing manipulation of stocks does not go into effect until Oct. 1 and therefore it has no jurisdiction at this time over cases of this kind.

Tennis Unknown Beats Lott In Tourney Upset

Edward Feibleman Defeats George Lott In National Match; Meets Perry Today

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7—Edward William Feibleman blinked in an unaccustomed spotlight out at Forest Hills today.

After losing to obscure players of the calibre of Mel Partridge and Leonard Hartman all summer long, the veteran New Yorker was completely overwhelmed by the attention lavished upon him following his suppressing conquest of George Lott in the third round of the national tennis championship.

Feibleman grinned when an overoptimistic rooter quizzed him concerning his chances this afternoon against Fred Perry, the British Davis cup star in the feature match of the fourth-round schedule.

"Don't make me laugh."

Two unfinished matches left over from the third round vied in interest with the Perry-Feibleman clash. They found Bitsy Grant batting Donald Budge in the fifth set with Budge ready to open service in the first game, and Roderick Menzel opposing Greg Manglin with the Czech one up on the Newark bulldog.

Menzel crossed the experts by outplaying Mangin the first set, 7-5. The set was played almost continually through the rain. However, with better footing, Mangin was expected to do better against the Czech Giant.

North Park Next For Muny Golfers

Pittsburgh Team Will Appear Here Sunday With Galaxy Of Stars

With a team which will include some of best Municipal course golfers in the Pittsburgh district including several of the star players who represented them in the National Public links tournament held at Pittsburgh last month, the North Park team will be here Sunday afternoon for a match with the Muny Course team.

This match will rival in importance, the one staged last summer, when the Schenley Course team of Pittsburgh played an aggregation of local stars.

Those who like to see splendid golfers in action will have an opportunity on this occasion. The Muny team boasts several players who can shoot around par on any course, and of course the Pittsburghers will have men of the same calibre.

A big crowd is anticipated and a large gallery should follow the different stars as they make their way about the course.

Unions Will Be Back In Field

Union Brewery softball team will be back in the field in 1935 and "we expect to have a faster team than we had this year" according to Manager John Fair. The Unions are a little discouraged at the showing made against the Scarazzos, but are looking ahead to next year.

The Unions won 45 games this year and lost but 11 which is an excellent record, and one that the Unions can be justly proud of.

Bessemer Will Play All-Stars

The Lawrence County League All-Stars picked by Glitch and Coen will go to Bessemer Sunday afternoon to play the Bessemer championship team. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock. Glitch and Coen will announce the All-Star lineup Saturday. A fast game is anticipated.

GENEVA GRIDDERS WORKING HARD

Beede Is Moulding Team To Represent Covenanters This Fall

BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 7.—The Geneva college football squad is now in its second week of intensive training. Head Coach Dyke Beede has been putting his squad through two hard scrimmage sessions daily and is already setting up a starting lineup for his opening encounter with Carnegie Tech September 9. Although greatly handicapped this year by the absence of seasoned material, Beede is very hopeful that he will be able to round out a successful representative for the Covenanters.

As every position has been declared wide open, one is able to gain only an inkling into what will later develop into the varsity. At the end positions Beede will have Park and Begolly, reserves from last year's Tri-State Conference champions. Both are rangy and dependable for their respective terminal positions and should offer keen resistance to end runs. Most promising among the list of tackles are Ellis Nave, a last year reserve, and Belitchek, a freshman and former star at Struthers, O. Joe Paris and Jack Weickle, both regulars last season, are making things particularly tough for their competitors and should be in the thick of the opening battle. At center Joe Hlista appears to be filling the shoes vacated by Campbell, ace center of last season. The backfield is featuring Johnson, Jones, Wilson, Garda and Perricell.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

What effect squalls of rain may have had on Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin will be seen when they tangle tonight, their battle scheduled for last night on Long Island having been shunted back 24 hours. There is nothing more disrupting to a boxer than a postponement—especially if he must keep to a certain weight, which both Ross and McLarnin must do. McLarnin had a weight advantage on Ross yesterday, the former scaling 145¾ and Ross 140.

Sebastian Isabella of this city, a student of Duquesne U, has been named secretary to Head Coach Joseph Back who took Elmer Layden's football position. There are no New Castle boys in the lineup this season. They will open the season against Waynesburg at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, September 21. Their game with Carnegie Tech will be played November 17.

Max Waxman, manager of Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, accompanied by Jack Dempsey, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and Dundee is expected to arrive today to finish his training. Teddy Yarosz, the Monaca contender will continue his training at Conneaut Lake for the titular scrap at Pittsburgh, September 11. Dempsey is helping to exploit the contest.

Ky Laffoon, Denver and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., went into a deadlock yesterday for the lead in the first 18 hole round of the sixth annual $4,000, Glens Falls open golf tourney. They turned in a 63. Lex Robson, Toronto and Jack Patroni, New Rochelle, trailed the leaders by a stroke.

Lou Gehrig Is Real Leader In American League

Gehrig Leads In Homers, Runs Batted In, And Has Most Hits

PIRATES DEFEAT BOSTON BRAVES

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—With the Giants and Tigers slowly but surely getting together like a little colored boy and a piece of watermelon what little interest remains in the major league races is centered in the battle for individual records and personal leadership.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees is ambitious to top the American league in everything and he's a sure bet to attain most of his marks.

When the season is over he will have played in more than 1,500 games for an all time endurance record. At the moment he tops Charley Gehringer of the Tigers and Heinie Manush in a hot race for batting honors. His 42 homers put him up on Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics. He has made the most hits in his own league and leads both circuits in runs batted in. He is third to Gehringer of the Tigers and Werber of the Red Sox in runs scored. He also has hit for most extra bases.

Paul Waner Leads

In the older circuit, Bill Terry is trying to overhaul Paul Waner of the Pirates for batting honors while Mel Ott of the Giants, Jimmy Collins of the Cards and Wally Berger of the Braves are having a hot tussle for home run honors with the first two having socked 32 and Berger 31.

Ott also has his eye fixed on the leadership for runs batted in and runs scored. In both of which departments he is now leading.

Ott did nothing to help his team yesterday but, as usual, the Giants had somebody else to supply the punch needed to take the Cubs 2-1 in 12 heats.

The Cards again trimmed the Dodgers 7 to 5 and the Pirates battling for a place in the first division sun, stopped the Braves 4 to 1.

The Yanks picked up half a game on the idling Tigers by nosing out the White Sox 5 to 3 and the Red Sox beat the Indians 6 to 1.

Vince Dundee In Pittsburgh

Champion Arrives In Pittsburgh For Bout With Teddy Yarosz

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7—Vince Dundee, middleweight champion who will defend his title here next Tuesday night against Teddy Yarosz, Monaca idol, was to arrive here today to round out his training.

Dundee will establish temporary training quarters at Hickory Bowl until fight time. Meanwhile Yarosz continued his preparations at Conneaut Lake.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world who will referee two of the preliminary bouts, was here conferring with matchmakers.

Westminster Grid Squad In Training; 35 Men Work Out

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 7.—Thirty-five candidates for the Westminster College football team yesterday completed their third day of drills under Bill and Tom Gilbane, new Titan coaches, and after devoting most of the early camp drills to fundamentals, are pointing to more strenuous sessions.

The Gilbane brothers found upon their arrival a squad composed of 17 men who have seen action on Titan teams. Of this number, but 12 can be called veterans. Of the new men little is known, and the grid drills to date, dealing almost entirely with fundamentals, have not proved the ability of any of the men.

It is certain from the early outlook that the Titans will have a hard job to win a major portion of the games on the ten-contest card. For one thing, as the Titan mentors point out, there are not enough men on the squad to engage such major opponents as Fordham, John Carroll, and Pitt in the first part of the schedule and still have all players in shape for the important district games in November.

The squad is about evenly divided between linemen and backs, and it would appear as if there will be little or no concern about ball carriers. The real problem, which will have to be solved by Tom Gilbane, line coach, is the building of a forward wall strong enough to allow the backs to demonstrate what they can do. It might be that by shifting some heavier backs to the line, a stronger first line can be developed. At all events, it will take scrimmage sessions of next week to determine the real status of the outfit.

The arrival of Bob Arrowsmith, Erie, in camp Thursday, and the planned arrival of Lou Franklin, varsity center, in camp today, will complete the Titan squad. It is hoped that there will be three complete teams available for the campaign so that the games with major opponents will find plenty of replacements.

The Gilbanes will continue their two-drills-a-day scheme until Monday, Sept. 10, when freshmen orientation week begins. The start of classes on Friday, Sept. 14, will necessitate but one drill each day and this a shorter one due to the fact that laboratory periods in the afternoon will not allow an early start.

Union Gridders Hold Scrimmage

Head Coach Dave Boyd Selects Temporary First Team Lineup

SCHAAS-THOMPSON ARE IMPROVING

Union High School football team scheduled to open up the 1934 season at Ellwood City next Saturday afternoon will be ready when the season lid lifter arrives, judging from the amount of work being given the Scotland Laners by Head Coach Davey Boyd.

The first scrimmage session of the year was held by the squad yesterday afternoon and outside of a bad case of fumbling on the part of the backfield men, the workout didn't go half bad.

Schaas-Thompson Star

In the scrimmage Boyd selected Wallace at quarter, Annerella at fullback, and Schaas and Thompson at the halfback posts on the varsity team. The line was made up of Rudesill, Kenehan, Pattison, Caiazza, Taylor, Mateja and Jaskolka.

The second team contained Denney, Huling, Sniezek and Eve in the backfield, with the linemen being Taylor, Korby, McDaniels, Hill and Clark.

Big George Schaas and Ed. Thompson were the best looking bets in the Union backfield, the former running 45 yards to score the first touchdown, and Thompson skirting end for 25 yards and another touchdown. Schaas uncorked a beautiful 30-yard pass to Thompson for another touchdown. The Union passing combination is going to be a hard one to stop this year.

All-Stars Will Play Bessemer

A team made up of all-star baseball players from the Lawrence county league will go to Bessemer Sunday afternoon for a game with the championship Bessemer team. The game will start at 3 p. m. The all-stars are being selected by Louis "Pick" Glitch and "Jewie" Coen. A strong team will be taken to Bessemer.

McLarnin-Ross Bout Tonight

Bout Postponed Last Night Due To Wet Grounds; Will Be Staged Tonight

ROSS INSTALLED AS FAVORITE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Having taken a 24-hour stay of execution on account of wet grounds, the 15-round re-play between Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin for the world's welterweight championship is to go on tonight, with the original plot unimpaired and a few added sequences thrown in, by way of emphasis and for good measure.

No sooner was the postponement announced than a firm of betting commissioners called up to state that the odds of 7 to 5 on Ross had advanced to 9 to 5 because of an inside tip that the champion would get heavier overnight, thus more nearly reaching a parity with McLarnin, who it seemed, figured to remain at or near the same weight.

McLarnin Heaviest.

At the official weighing in yesterday, McLarnin, the real welterweight did 145 3-4 pounds, while Ross, the combination lightweight-welterweight champion, came in at 140. They won't be required to weigh in again today, so they can do anything, everything or nothing about the weight situation in the meantime.

This was a surprising figure for Ross, since he is supposed to be a legitimate lightweight who is merely stepping out with the older boys when he plays in the class above. What he could possibly want with more weight overnight and why this would affect the betting is one of life's many mysteries. Ross beat McLarnin out of the title three months ago on speed; he'll need even more this time, because McLarnin figures to be better. Even the physical examination yesterday showed that. He had only one round of boxing in 18 months and was down around a worried 143 pounds when he went in there in May.

Feu de joie is a form of musketry fire reserved for the celebration of some joyful events, as, e. g., the observance of the King of England's birthday in the British army.

Grove City College Squad Starts Late

GROVE CITY, Sept. 7.—Trailing all district rivals in preparing for the football wars, Coach Bill Amos will not look over his squad until the fall term opens September 17. Members of last year's squad have been notified to report at Athletic Field at 10 a. m. on that date, and with the first-year men, it is expected that 40 candidates will answer the first call. The squad will have three weeks in which to get ready for the opening game with Holbrook College.

Although the Grovers will play the lightest schedule in years, it will provide plenty of trouble. Graduation last June claimed both varsity tackles, center, quarterback, and a halfback, the latter being Art Alexander, New Castle, passer, punter and consistent ball-carrier. Only seven letter-men are left and the 1934 team will be built around Tomko and Soich, ends; Binder and Beres, guards and Smith, Gross and Oriss, backs.

Coach Amos is anticipating trouble from every game on the card. Holbrook College, here for the opener October 6, is reported to have a rugged team in the making. The following week at Slippery Rock the Grovers will meet a veteran team practically intact from last year when the Rockets earned a 6-6 tie at Grove City. October 20, Bethany will appear here and the Bisons of 1934 will be a difficult hurdle for the Crimson. On the 27, Grove City and Allegheny resume gridiron relations at Meadville, after a two-year lapse. Westminster comes to Grove City on November 3, followed by Morris-Harvey on the 10. The Grove season ends November 17, with Thiel at Greenville.

Last year, with a light, inexperienced squad, Coach Amos turned a sorry outlook into a successful season, marred only by a tie with Slippery Rock and a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Geneva. This year he faces identical problems in developing good tackles and a fast and deceptive attack. At the first practice, he will be looking for tackles and a center to replace Bill Bache; if he finds them, the season will start auspiciously.

VERY-McMILLAN PLAY GOLF HERE

Penn State Star Of Former Days Predicts Great Team For New Castle

One of the Penn State football greats, Dexter Very, was in New Castle Thursday afternoon and evening. With A. W. McMillan, a well known football official Very was in for a little golf at Castle Hills. After the game they talked football with a number of fans.

"I don't know just what you have for New Castle high school football this year but it's a good guess that you'll have a fast team" said Very. "That's a good guess any year with Phil Bridenbaugh coaching."

McMillan concurred with Very which seemed to make it unanimous. Dexter is one of the all time "Greats" of Penn State. Back in 1909-10-11-12 he played end for State when State was a team to be reckoned with. Since then he has been a football official. McMillan is president of the Pittsburgh Football Officials Association and an expert in his line.

Dex Very is also an expert football referee, having worked many of the college games and several of the more important high school games in this district. Both McMillan and Very have handled games here in New Castle.

POLISH NATIONALS TO MEET TONIGHT

Shenango High Looks Good For 1934 Season

Team Will Miss Regis Arnold But Raney Has Good Material To Replace Him

All that Coach Ed Raney has to do this year to have a good team is to replace Regis Arnold, the one man backfield, and find a few boys to replace Thompson, Shaffer and Emminger. Aside from that everything looks lovely out at the East New Castle school.

Once in a blue moon a coach gets a player like Regis Arnold. With a football brain, a fast pair of legs and 165 pounds of weight Arnold made every Shenango team in the past four years look good. Now he's gone and with him Shaffer, Amminger and Thompson. But Raney isn't altogether blue. He isn't any too optimistic either but the material he has left looks good enough to give any of the Class B teams plenty to worry about.

McConahy and Horteg are on the squad again this year which means a lot. The two boys have been named co-captains and with McConahy in the backfield and Horteg on the line things aren't nearly as bad as they might be. Both of them are seasoned veterans and both of them are smart football players.

In the backfield this year will be found McConahy, Tanner, Gierling, Irwin, Leithen, Fee and Bulisco. Out of that combination Raney expects a quartet that will make it tough for the opposition this year. On the line he will have Horteg and Long at tackles, Petro and Williams at guard, McIlroy at center and Wersuck at end. The other end has not been selected as yet and this terminal position is one of Raney's worries.

The season opens on Friday, September 14 with Zelienople, always a tough opponent. In the past three years the Shenango team has been able to polish Zelienople off but they have a veteran team this year and the opening game will be tough. Following Zelienople will come Sharpsville, Bessemer, Union, Mars, Slippery Rock, Mercer and Emlenton and if you know Class B football you'll recognize a tough schedule.

Of all the games the one with Union Township is the one most desired. It makes little difference what either team has done up to the day of the annual game. On that day they are both on edge and the winner is always in doubt. Some years Shenango has defeated Union and some years vice versa. You can't go far wrong picking either team.

Other games that promise to be plenty tough are Sharpsville, Bessemer and Mars. All three teams are good and all of them have a lot of veteran material on the squad. Raney hopes to beat them but it will take a lot of football.

Every afternoon sees the Shenango squad out on the field practicing and by the day of the opening game Coach Raney expects to have a squad molded that will be bad news for the Class B schedule this year. Arnold will be missed of course, but the material on hand makes it appear that the loss will not be too great to be forgotten.

Hanuman was a famous monkey chief in Hindu mythology and the legends of the epic period of India and still a favorite divinity in Hindustan.

And if all the buildings burned in the U. S. each year were placed side by side (before they burned) they would form an unbroken line from Chicago to New York.

There are no New Castle boys in the lineup this season. They will open the season against Waynesburg at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, September 21. Their game with Carnegie Tech will be played November 17.

Max Waxman, manager of Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, accompanied by Jack Dempsey, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and Dundee is expected to arrive today to finish his training. Teddy Yarosz, the Monaca contender will continue his training at Conneaut Lake for the titular scrap at Pittsburgh, September 11. Dempsey is helping to exploit the contest.

Ky Laffoon, Denver and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., went into a deadlock yesterday for the lead in the first 18 hole round of the sixth annual $4,000, Glens Falls open golf tourney. They turned in a 68. Lex Robson, Toronto and Jack Patroni, New Rochelle, trailed the leaders by a stroke.

Lou Gehrig Is Real Leader In American League

Gehrig Leads In Homers, Runs Batted In, And Has Most Hits

PIRATES DEFEAT BOSTON BRAVES

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—With the Giants and Tigers slowly but surely getting together like a little colored boy and a piece of watermelon what little interest remains in the major league races is centered in the battle for individual records and personal leadership.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees is ambitious to top the American league in everything and he's a sure bet to attain most of his marks.

When the season is over he will have played in more than 1,500 games for an all time endurance record. At the moment he tops Charley Gehringer of the Tigers and Heinie Manush in a hot race for batting honors. His 42 homers put him up on Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics. He has made the most hits in his own league and leads both circuits in runs batted in. He is third to Gehringer of the Tigers and Werber of the Red Sox in runs scored. He also has hit for most extra bases.

Paul Waner Leads

In the older circuit, Bill Terry is trying to overhaul Paul Waner of the Pirates for batting honors while Mel Ott of the Giants, Jimmy Collins of the Cards and Wally Berger of the Braves are having a hot tussle for home run honors with the first two having socked 32 and Berger 31.

Ott also has his eye fixed on the leadership for runs batted in and runs scored. In both of which departments he is now leading.

Ott did nothing to help his team yesterday but, as usual, the Giants had somebody else to supply the punch needed to take the Cubs 2-1 in 12 heats.

The Cards again trimmed the Dodgers 7 to 5 and the Pirates battling for a place in the first division sun, stopped the Braves 4 to 1.

The Yanks picked up half a game on the idling Tigers by nosing out the White Sox 5 to 3 and the Red Sox beat the Indians 6 to 1.

Westminster Grid Squad In Training; 35 Men Work Out

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 7.—Thirty-five candidates for the Westminster College football team yesterday completed their third day of drills under Bill and Tom Gilbane, new Titan coaches, and after devoting most of the early camp drills to fundamentals, are pointing to more strenuous sessions.

The Gilbane brothers found upon their arrival a squad composed of 17 men who have seen action on Titan teams. Of this number, but 12 can be called veterans. Of the new men little is known, and the grid drills to date, dealing almost entirely with fundamentals, have not proved the ability of any of the men.

It is certain from the early outlook that the Titans will have a hard job to win a major portion of the games on the ten-contest card. For one thing, as the Titan mentors point out, there are not enough men on the squad to engage such major opponents as Fordham, John Carroll, and Pitt in the first part of the schedule and still have all players in shape for the important district games in November.

The squad is about evenly divided between linemen and backs, and it would appear as if there will be little or no concern about ball carriers. The real problem, which will have to be solved by Tom Gilbane, line coach, is the building of a forward wall strong enough to allow the backs to demonstrate what they can do. It might be that by shifting some heavier backs to the line, a stronger first line can be developed. At all events, it will take scrimmage sessions of next week to determine the real status of the outfit.

The arrival of Bob Arrowsmith, Erie, in camp Thursday, and the planned arrival of Lou Franklin, varsity center, in camp today, will complete the Titan squad. It is hoped that there will be three complete teams available for the campaign so that the games with major opponents will find plenty of replacements.

The Gilbanes will continue their two-drills-a-day scheme until Monday, Sept. 10, when freshmen orientation week begins. The start of classes on Friday, Sept. 14, will necessitate but one drill each day and this a shorter one due to the fact that laboratory periods in the afternoon will not allow an early start.

Union Gridders Hold Scrimmage

Head Coach Dave Boyd Selects Temporary First Team Lineup

SCHAAS-THOMPSON ARE IMPROVING

Union High School football team scheduled to open up the 1934 season at Ellwood City next Saturday afternoon will be ready when the season lid lifter arrives, judging from the amount of work being given the Scotland Laners by Head Coach Davey Boyd.

The first scrimmage session of the year was held by the squad yesterday afternoon and outside of a bad case of fumbling on the part of the backfield men, the workout didn't go half bad.

Schaas-Thompson Star

In the scrimmage Boyd selected Wallace at quarter, Annerella at fullback, and Schaas and Thompson at the halfback posts on the varsity team. The line was made up of Rudesill, Kenehan, Pattison, Caiazza, Taylor, Mateja and Jaskolka.

The second team contained Denney, Huling, Sniezek and Eve in the backfield, with the linemen being Taylor, Korby, McDaniels, Hill and Clark.

Big George Schaas and Ed. Thompson were the best looking bets in the Union backfield, the former running 45 yards to score the first touchdown, and Thompson skirting end for 25 yards and another touchdown. Schaas uncorked a beautiful 30-yard pass to Thompson for another touchdown. The Union passing combination is going to be a hard one to stop this year.

All-Stars Will Play Bessemer

A team made up of all-star baseball players from the Lawrence county league will go to Bessemer Sunday afternoon for a game with the championship Bessemer team. The game will start at 3 p. m. The all-stars are being selected by Louis "Pick" Glitch and "Jewie" Coen. A strong team will be taken to Bessemer.

McLarnin-Ross Bout Tonight

Bout Postponed Last Night Due To Wet Grounds; Will Be Staged Tonight

ROSS INSTALLED AS FAVORITE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Having taken a 24-hour stay of execution on account of wet grounds, the 15-round re-play between Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin for the world's welterweight championship is to go on tonight, with the original plot unimpaired and a few added sequences thrown in, by way of emphasis and for good measure.

No sooner was the postponement announced than a firm of betting commissioners called up to state that the odds of 7 to 5 on Ross had advanced to 9 to 5 because of an inside tip that the champion would get heavier overnight, thus more nearly reaching a parity with McLarnin, who it seemed, figured to remain at or near the same weight.

McLarnin Heaviest.

At the official weighing in yesterday, McLarnin, the real welterweight did 145 3-4 pounds, while Ross, the combination lightweight-welterweight champion, came in at 140. They won't be required to weigh in again today, so they can do anything, everything or nothing about the weight situation in the meantime.

This was a surprising figure for Ross, since he is supposed to be a legitimate lightweight who is merely stepping out with the older boys when he plays in the class above. What he could possibly want with more weight overnight and why this would affect the betting is one of life's many mysteries. Ross beat McLarnin out of the title three months ago on speed; he'll need even more this time, because McLarnin figures to be better. Even the physical examination yesterday showed that. He had only one round of boxing in 18 months and was down around a worried 143 pounds when he went in there in May.

Feu de joie is a form of musketry fire reserved for the celebration of some joyful events, as, e. g., the observance of the King of England's birthday in the British army.

Grove City College Squad Starts Late

GROVE CITY, Sept. 7.—Trailing all district rivals in preparing for the football wars, Coach Bill Amos will not look over his squad until the fall term opens September 17. Members of last year's squad have been notified to report at Athletic Field at 10 a. m. on that date, and with the first-year men, it is expected that 40 candidates will answer the first call. The squad will have three weeks in which to get ready for the opening game with Holbrook College.

Although the Grovers will play the lightest schedule in years, it will provide plenty of trouble. Graduation last June claimed both varsity tackles, center, quarterback, and a halfback, the latter being Art Alexander, New Castle, passer, punter and consistent ball-carrier. Only seven letter-men are left and the 1934 team will be built around Tomko and Soich, ends; Binder and Beres, guards and Smith, Gross and Oriss, backs.

Coach Amos is anticipating trouble from every game on the card. Holbrook College, here for the opener October 6, is reported to have a rugged team in the making. The following week at Slippery Rock the Grovers will meet a veteran team practically intact from last year when the Rockets earned a 6-6 tie at Grove City. October 20, Bethany will appear here and the Bisons of 1934 will be a difficult hurdle for the Crimson. On the 27, Grove City and Allegheny resume gridiron relations at Meadville, after a two-year lapse. Westminster comes to Grove City on November 3, followed by Morris-Harvey on the 10. The Grove season ends November 17, with Thiel at Greenville.

Last year, with a light, inexperienced squad, Coach Amos turned a sorry outlook into a successful season, marred only by a tie with Slippery Rock and a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Geneva. This year he faces identical problems in developing good tackles and a fast and deceptive attack. At the first practice, he will be looking for tackles and a center to replace Bill Bache; if he finds them, the season will start auspiciously.

VERY-McMILLAN PLAY GOLF HERE

Penn State Star Of Former Days Predicts Great Team For New Castle

One of the Penn State football greats, Dexter Very, was in New Castle Thursday afternoon and evening. With A. W. McMillan, a well known football official Very was in for a little golf at Castle Hills. After the game they talked football with a number of fans.

"I don't know just what you have for New Castle high school football this year but it's a good guess that you'll have a fast team" said Very. "That's a good guess any year with Phil Bridenbaugh coaching."

McMillan concurred with Very which seemed to make it unanimous. Dexter is one of the all time "Greats" of Penn State. Back in 1909-10-11-12 he played end for State when State was a team to be reckoned with. Since then he has been a football official. McMillan is president of the Pittsburgh Football Officials Association and an expert in his line.

Dex Very is also an expert football referee, having worked many of the college games and several of the more important high school games in this district. Both McMillan and Very have handled games here in New Castle.

Shenango High Looks Good For 1934 Season

Team Will Miss Regis Arnold But Raney Has Good Material To Replace Him

All that Coach Ed Raney has to do this year to have a good team is to replace Regis Arnold, the one man backfield, and find a few boys to replace Thompson, Shaffer and Emminger. Aside from that everything looks lovely out at the East New Castle school.

Once in a blue moon a coach gets a player like Regis Arnold. With a football brain, a fast pair of legs and 165 pounds of weight Arnold made every Shenango team in the past four years look good. Now he's gone and with him Shaffer, Amminger and Thompson. But Raney isn't altogether blue. He isn't any too optimistic either but the material he has left looks good enough to give any of the Class B teams plenty to worry about.

McConahy and Horteg are on the squad again this year which means a lot. The two boys have been named co-captains and with McConahy in the backfield and Horteg on the line things aren't nearly as bad as they might be. Both of them are seasoned veterans and both of them are smart football players.

In the backfield this year will be found McConahy, Tanner, Gierling, Irwin, Leithen, Fee and Bulisco. Out of that combination Raney expects a quartet that will make it tough for the opposition this year. On the line he will have Horteg and Long at tackles, Petro and Williams at guard, McIltrot at center and Wersuck at end. The other end has not been selected as yet and this terminal position is one of Raney's worries.

The season opens on Friday, September 14 with Zelienople, always a tough opponent. In the past three years the Shenango team has been able to polish Zelienople off but they have a veteran team this year and the opening game will be tough. Following Zelienople will come Sharpsville, Bessemer, Union, Mars, Slippery Rock, Mercer and Emlenton and if you know Class B football you'll recognize a tough schedule.

Of all the games the one with Union Township is the one most desired. It makes little difference what either team has done up to the day of the annual game. On that day they are both on edge and the winner is always in doubt. Some years Shenango has defeated Union and some years vice versa. You can't go far wrong picking either team.

Other games that promise to be plenty tough are Sharpsville, Bessemer and Mars. All three teams are good and all of them have a lot of veteran material on the squad. Raney hopes to beat them but it will take a lot of football.

Every afternoon sees the Shenango squad out on the field practicing and by the day of the opening game Coach Raney expects to have a squad molded that will be bad news for the Class B schedule this year. Arnold will be missed of course, but the material on hand makes it appear that the loss will not be too great to be forgotten.

Hanuman was a famous monkey chief in Hindu mythology and the legends of the epic period of India and still a favorite divinity in Hindustan.

PLANT COVER CROP TO IMPROVE GARDEN SOIL

Where vegetables have been harvested and the ground is bare the soil can be lightly cultivated and some rye sown as a cover crop. The rye can be broadcast and covered by raking in the small patch or harrowing in the larger garden.

Between the rows of late maturing crops rye also may be seeded if the operation does not injure foliage of the crops. When the first frost kills the tomatoes and beans the vines of these crops can be removed and rye sown there.

Rye planted September 1 will make a good fall growth which can be spaded or plowed under early in the spring. If the rye is not shown until about October 1, it will not make so much fall growth but if it can be allowed to stand longer in the spring a good growth will result before it is plowed or spaded under.

A cover crop or green manuring crop on the ground during the winter has many advantages. It prevents washing of the soil, takes up and holds the available fertility so that it does not leach away, and produces an abundance of organic matter which improves the water-holding capacity and working conditions of the soil.

Sometimes wheat is used instead of rye for the cover crop on the garden but it does not make as abundant growth usually nor start so early in the spring as rye.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS AND FARMERS TO SHOW STOCK

4-H club members of Butler, Crawford and Washington counties are feeding lambs which they will exhibit at the Pittsburgh livestock show in October, and club members of Mercer and Lawrence counties are fattening baby beeves for the same exposition.

John Shober of Garrett, Somerset county; Wesley Wrightsy, Meadville, and Dick Stevens, Homer City, are adult farmers who also are feeding lambs to be shown in Pittsburgh.

More than 200 lambs and between 15 and 20 baby beeves will be shown by the Pennsylvania exhibitors, according to W. B. Connell, in charge of animal husbandry extension for the Pennsylvania State college.

GOOD HENS LAY MORE EGGS WITH LATE MOLT

When and how a hen molts are good indications of her productive ability. If molt is to be considered in culling, one must be certain that the hens have been cared for properly. Moving the hens from one house to another or changing their feed will force them to molt. In fact, any slight change in management or environment will cause both good and poor hens to molt now, the natural time for molting.

If nothing is done to upset the birds, the good layers will continue to lay and will not molt until late summer or early fall. The poor producers will molt early and usually will take long vacations.

Tests made at the Missouri station indicate that the late molter not only lays more winter eggs, but lays more eggs the following year than the early molter.

The tests show that as a rule early molters are not profitable to keep. Their laying period is shortened considerably and they are most certain to be unprofitable birds the second year. Then, too, they are naturally slow molters and take long vacations. In many cases, the early molters also are capable of laying only about 15 eggs a month instead of 20 to 25 as usually is the figure for the late molters.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours nding at 3:30 p. m. September 6, five arrests on charges as follows: violating parking ordinance 2, suspicion 1, drunkenness 1 and drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

When the city is financially able to do so the council may purchase some rubber clothing so that when volunteer firemen turn out to help fight blazes they will be able to properly clothe themselves. It is reported that there is not much extra equipment of this kind at the various departments.

Councilman Albert Hoyland's building experience asserted itself yesterday when he placed himself on record as being opposed to using any old material on the reconstruction of a public library. He said the material which is in the Shenango Hospital building would be suitable for a Community recreation building and also a toolhouse. He estimated the materials worth $5,000. The city engineer, Harry Hoskins estimated the value at $6,000. None of the council were in favor of storing the material if the building and materials were bought. It is proposed to save the labor cost by using RWD employes. Council has introduced an ordinance authorizing the purchase at a cost not to exceed $2,000.

Sealer of weights and Inspector of measures A. R. English has reported to council that only one scale was found incorrect and had to be condemned during his August examinations. Only four even balance scales and nine computing scales had to be adjusted. This is considered an excellent record in view of more than 600 examinations of weights and measures in the city.

Harold Dunlap, inspector of plumbing, reported today quite a lot of inpesctions are being made. He said that the plumbing is being installed in old buildings.....The eyes of Motorcycle Patrolman Ray Showalter will glisten like those of a child at a decorated Christmas tree when he sees the new motorcycle which has been bought for him to ride.

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, is holding his breath these days; in fact he is holding crossed fingers. There has been no contagious illness reported for some time and he is hopeful that with the resumption of school activities all persons will report any communicable immediately so that the city can do its share toward preventing any large number of cases. Toward the close of the school term for the summer vacation the town was "hard hit" by contagion. However, it disappeared almost entirely during the summer months.

Rynier erected a tent over the bush on which the spider has made ils web to protect it from storms.

JUVENILE MAJOR LEAGUERS.

The first year American league team of this season has an International league flavor with seven of the twelve players chosen having played in that circuit during 1933. Only one player, Cecil Travis, came from a league lower than the AA group. Marcum, Newsom, Trosky, and Strange are the others who were graduated from a circuit other than the International.

Here is the personnel of the current juveniles in the American league:

Broaca, p., New York.
Marcum, p., Philadelphia.
Newsom, p., St. Louis.
Murphy, p., New York.
Hayes, c., Philadelphia.
Trosky, 1b., Cleveland.
Heffner, 2b., New York.
Strange, ss., St. Louis.
Travis, 3b., Washington.
Solters, cf., Boston.
Hoag, lf., New York.
Pepper, rf., St. Louis.

Broaca and Murphy have been life savers for the Yankees. When Russ Van Atta and Johnny Allen fell down in their pitching it was these two ex-collegians who stepped up and kept the Yankees in the pennant fight.

Johnny Marcum, the pitcher who stopped Rowe's winning streak, has turned out to be Connie Mack's most consistent pitcher. He was a little wobbly during the first weeks of the season but has settled down and now has won more games than any other Athletic pitcher.

Buck Newsom is leading the league in bases on balls issued but is a good pitcher notwithstanding his wildness. Buck has been the hardest worker on the Brownie staff. He has won about a dozen games and if he ever gets control he should be one of the league's leading flingers.

The catching departments in the American league are taken care of mostly by veterans. However, Frank Hayes has been catching the young Athletic staff very adeptly even though he hasn't had much experience.

Two of the best hitting prospects to come up this season are first basemen. During the first month of the season Zeke Bonura was the sensation among the freshmen in the league. Trosky started poorly but has gradually improved until now his batting average has surpassed that of Bonura. Hal should develop into one of the game's leading hitters.

Don Heffner has been far from a sensation with the Yankees but who among the first year men has done any better at the keystone sack? Don still seems to have the makings of a good ball player. If he can put on a little more beef during the winter he should be ready for steady playing next year.

Cecil Travis with a .325 batting average leads the juvenile third basemen. Cecil thinks he should be an outfielder but so far has done all his playing with Washington at third. Clift and Saltzgaver aren't far behind the Southern association graduate.

Solters, Hoag, and Pepper make up a formidable outfield. All three are graduates of the International league where Solters played with Baltimore, Hoag with Newark, and Pepper with Rochester.

SPORT SIDELIGHTS

Bill Dietrich's inquisitiveness placed his position on the Athletic payroll in jeopardy last spring before the regular season got under way. While the Athletics were in training camp the camera men were making a talkie of Connie Mack. In the recording Mack stated: "The Athletics have a good ball team. In fact, we may surprise everybody and meet the Giants in the World Series."

Dietrich, standing nearby, asked one of the camera men: "What is this? A comedy?"

HARPSTER WORKS CARNEGIE SQUAD

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 7.—Well pleased with the excellent condition of his Carnegie Tech football players, who reported for fall practice Labor Day, Head Coach Howard Harpster has planned the heaviest sessions of recent years for a Tartan squad. Almost without exception, the Skibo players were employed through the summer months in tasks that kept them in shape, and consequently much of the usual conditioning can be dispensed with. The young coach can get right down to his rebuilding job.

Of the 35 candidates, 32 were on the job for the first drill on Tuesday. Only Cliff Doloway, tackle, and Bill and Charley Spisak, halfback and quarterback respectively, were absent, and they reported the following day. Many of the boys were right down to playing weights, the few notable exceptions being Joe Mihm, who always puts on considerable weight during the off-season, and Co-Captain Croft, tall tackle, who is still growing. They are the largest boys on the squad. Mihm will probably play at 208 or 210 pounds, while Croft will go around 212, the heaviest he has ever been.

When the few boys who need to take off weight have shed those extra pounds, it would not be surprising to see the squad go right into scrimmage, for new men will have to fill certain positions, and Harpster wants to see how the youngsters behave under fire. The first scrimmage has been tentatively set for Saturday.

Tennis Unknown Beats Lott In Tourney Upset

Edward Feibleman Defeats George Lott In National Match; Meets Perry Today

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7—Edward William Feibleman blinked in an unaccustomed spotlight out at Forest Hills today.

After losing to obscure players of the calibre of Mel Partridge and Leonard Hartman all summer long, the veteran New Yorker was completely overwhelmed by the attention lavished upon him following his suppressing conquest of George Lott in the third round of the national tennis championship.

Feibleman grinned when an overoptimistic rooter quizzed him concerning his chances this afternoon against Fred Perry, the British Davis cup star in the feature match of the fourth-round schedule.

"Don't make me laugh."

Two unfinished matches left over from the third round vied in interest with the Perry-Feibleman clash. They found Bitsy Grant batting Donald Budge in the fifth set with Budge ready to open service in the first game, and Roderick Menzel opposing Greg Manglin with the Czech one up on the Newark bulldog.

Menzel crossed the experts by outplaying Mangin the first set, 7-5. The set was played almost continually through the rain. However, with better footing, Mangin was expected to do better against the Czech Giant.

North Park Next For Muny Golfers

Pittsburgh Team Will Appear Here Sunday With Galaxy Of Stars

With a team which will include some of best Municipal course golfers in the Pittsburgh district including several of the star players who represented them in the National Public links tournament held at Pittsburgh last month, the North Park team will be here Sunday afternoon for a match with the Muny Course team.

This match will rival in importance, the one staged last summer, when the Schenley Course team of Pittsburgh played an aggregation of local stars.

Those who like to see splendid golfers in action will have an opportunity on this occasion. The Muny team boasts several players who can shoot around par on any course, and of course the Pittsburghers will have men of the same calibre.

A big crowd is anticipated and a large gallery should follow the different stars as they make their way about the course.

Unions Will Be Back In Field

Union Brewery softball team will be back in the field in 1935 and "we expect to have a faster team than we had this year" according to Manager John Fair. The Unions are a little discouraged at the showing made against the Scarazzos, but are looking ahead to next year.

The Unions won 45 games this year and lost but 11 which is an excellent record, and one that the Unions can be justly proud of.

Bessemer Will Play All-Stars

The Lawrence County League All-Stars picked by Glitch and Coen will go to Bessemer Sunday afternoon to play the Bessemer championship team. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock. Glitch and Coen will announce the All-Star lineup Saturday. A fast game is anticipated.

GENEVA GRIDDERS WORKING HARD

Beede Is Moulding Team To Represent Covenanters This Fall

BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 7.—The Geneva college football squad is now in its second week of intensive training. Head Coach Dyke Beede has been putting his squad through two hard scrimmage sessions daily and is already setting up a starting lineup for his opening encounter with Carnegie Tech September 9. Although greatly handicapped this year by the absence of seasoned material, Beede is very hopeful that he will be able to round out a successful representative for the Covenanters.

As every position has been declared wide open, one is able to gain only an inkling into what will later develop into the varsity. At the end positions Beede will have Park and Begolly, reserves from last year's Tri-State Conference champions. Both are rangy and dependable for their respective terminal positions and should offer keen resistance to end runs. Most promising among the list of tackles are Ellis Nave, a last year reserve, and Belitchek, a freshman and former star at Struthers. O. Joe Paris and Jack Welckle, both regulars last season, are making things particularly tough for their competitors and should be in the thick of the opening battle. At center Joe Hlista appears to be filling the shoes vacated by Campbell, ace center of last season. The backfield is featuring Johnson, Jones, Wilson, Garda and Perricelli.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

What effect squalls of rain may have had on Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin will be seen when they tangle tonight, their battle scheduled for last night on Long Island having been shunted back 24 hours. There is nothing more disrupting to a boxer than a postponement—especially if he must keep to a certain weight, which both Ross and McLarnin must do. McLarnin had a weight advantage on Ross yesterday, the former scaling 145¾ and Ross 140.

Sebastian Isabella of this city, a student of Duquesne U, has been named secretary to Head Coach Joseph Back who took Elmer Layden's football position. There are no New Castle boys in the lineup this season. They will open the season against Waynesburg at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, September 21. Their game with Carnegie Tech will be played November 17.

Max Waxman, manager of Vince Dundee, middleweight champion, accompanied by Jack Dempsey, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and Dundee is expected to arrive today to finish his training. Teddy Yarosz, the Monaca contender will continue his training at Conneaut Lake for the titular scrap at Pittsburgh, September 11. Dempsey is helping to exploit the contest.

Ky Laffoon, Denver and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., went into a deadlock yesterday for the lead in the first 18 hole round of the sixth annual $4,000, Glens Falls open golf tourney. They turned in a 68. Lex Robson, Toronto and Jack Patroni, New Rochelle, trailed the leaders by a stroke.

Lou Gehrig Is Real Leader In American League

Gehrig Leads In Homers, Runs Batted In, And Has Most Hits

PIRATES DEFEAT BOSTON BRAVES

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—With the Giants and Tigers slowly but surely getting together like a little colored boy and a piece of watermelon what little interest remains in the major league races is centered in the battle for individual records and personal leadership.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees is ambitious to top the American league in everything and he's a sure bet to attain most of his marks.

When the season is over he will have played in more than 1,500 games for an all time endurance record. At the moment he tops Charley Gehringer of the Tigers and Heinie Manush in a hot race for batting honors. His 42 homers put him up on Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics. He has made the most hits in his own league and leads both circuits in runs batted in. He is third to Gehringer of the Tigers and Werber of the Red Sox in runs scored. He also has hit for most extra bases.

Paul Waner Leads

In the older circuit, Bill Terry is trying to overhaul Paul Waner of the Pirates for batting honors while Mel Ott of the Giants, Jimmy Collins of the Cards and Wally Berger of the Braves are having a hot tussle for home run honors with the first two having socked 32 and Berger 31.

Ott also has his eye fixed on the leadership for runs batted in and runs scored. In both of which departments he is now leading.

Ott did nothing to help his team yesterday but, as usual, the Giants had somebody else to supply the punch needed to take the Cubs 2-1 in 12 heats.

The Cards again trimmed the Dodgers 7 to 5 and the Pirates battling for a place in the first division sun, stopped the Braves 4 to 1.

The Yanks picked up half a game on the idling Tigers by nosing out the White Sox 5 to 3 and the Red Sox beat the Indians 6 to 1.

Vince Dundee In Pittsburgh

Champion Arrives In Pittsburgh For Bout With Teddy Yarosz

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7—Vince Dundee, middleweight champion who will defend his title here next Tuesday night against Teddy Yarosz, Monaca idol, was to arrive here today to round out his training.

Dundee will establish temporary training quarters at Hickory Bowl until fight time. Meanwhile Yarosz continued his preparations at Conneaut Lake.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world who will referee two of the preliminary bouts, was here conferring with matchmakers.

Gerson Trophy Cup Will Be Awarded To First Presbyterian "A" Team

Members of the New Castle Church Golfing league will have their first annual banquet at the Castle Hills golf course clubhouse next Tuesday evening, it was announced last night at a meeting of the team managers and players present.

Jack Gerson local well known jeweler has donated a beautiful trophy cup to the champions of the league the First Presbyterian "A" team. The cup will be known as the Gerson Trophy and will become the permanent possession of one team after three straight championships.

Keystone Grid League Is Ready To Open Season

Keystone A. C. football league games will start on September 9 it was announced today with Pitt playing Southern California and Notre Dame meeting Michigan. The games will be played at Athletic Field.

Tonight at the Keystone club rooms an important meeting will be held. All managers and captains are asked to attend. All business prior to the start of the league will be taken up for discussion.

Westminster Grid Squad In Training; 35 Men Work Out

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 7.—Thirty-five candidates for the Westminster College football team yesterday completed their third day of drills under Bill and Tom Gilbane, new Titan coaches, and after devoting most of the early camp drills to fundamentals, are pointing to more strenuous sessions.

The Gilbane brothers found upon their arrival a squad composed of 17 men who have seen action on Titan teams. Of this number, but 12 can be called veterans. Of the new men little is known, and the grid drills to date, dealing almost entirely with fundamentals, have not proved the ability of any of the men.

It is certain from the early outlook that the Titans will have a hard job to win a major portion of the games on the ten-contest card. For one thing, as the Titan mentors point out, there are not enough men on the squad to engage such major opponents as Fordham, John Carroll, and Pitt in the first part of the schedule and still have all players in shape for the important district games in November.

The squad is about evenly divided between linemen and backs, and it would appear as if there will be little or no concern about ball carriers. The real problem, which will have to be solved by Tom Gilbane, line coach, is the building of a forward wall strong enough to allow the backs to demonstrate what they can do. It might be that by shifting some heavier backs to the line, a stronger first line can be developed. At all events, it will take scrimmage sessions of next week to determine the real status of the outfit.

The arrival of Bob Arrowsmith, Erie, in camp Thursday, and the planned arrival of Lou Franklin, varsity center, in camp today, will complete the Titan squad. It is hoped that there will be three complete teams available for the campaign so that the games with major opponents will find plenty of replacements.

The Gilbanes will continue their two-drills-a-day scheme until Monday, Sept. 10, when freshmen orientation week begins. The start of classes on Friday, Sept. 14, will necessitate but one drill each day and this a shorter one due to the fact that laboratory periods in the afternoon will not allow an early start.

Union Gridders Hold Scrimmage

Head Coach Dave Boyd Selects Temporary First Team Lineup

SCHAAS-THOMPSON ARE IMPROVING

Union High School football team scheduled to open up the 1934 season at Ellwood City next Saturday afternoon will be ready when the season lid lifter arrives, judging from the amount of work being given the Scotland Laners by Head Coach Davey Boyd.

The first scrimmage session of the year was held by the squad yesterday afternoon and outside of a bad case of fumbling on the part of the backfield men, the workout didn't go half bad.

Schaas-Thompson Star

In the scrimmage Boyd selected Wallace at quarter, Annerella at fullback, and Schaas and Thompson at the halfback posts on the varsity team. The line was made up of Rudesill, Kenehan, Pattison, Caiazza, Taylor, Mateja and Jaskolka.

The second team contained Denney, Huling, Sniezek and Eve in the backfield, with the linemen being Taylor, Korby, McDaniels, Hill and Clark.

Big George Schaas and Ed. Thompson were the best looking bets in the Union backfield, the former running 45 yards to score the first touchdown, and Thompson skirting end for 25 yards and another touchdown. Schaas uncorked a beautiful 30-yard pass to Thompson for another touchdown. The Union passing combination is going to be a hard one to stop this year.

All-Stars Will Play Bessemer

A team made up of all-star baseball players from the Lawrence county league will go to Bessemer Sunday afternoon for a game with the championship Bessemer team. The game will start at 3 p. m. The all-stars are being selected by Louis "Pick" Glitch and "Jewie" Coen. A strong team will be taken to Bessemer.

McLarnin-Ross Bout Tonight

Bout Postponed Last Night Due To Wet Grounds; Will Be Staged Tonight

ROSS INSTALLED AS FAVORITE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Having taken a 24-hour stay of execution on account of wet grounds, the 15-round re-play between Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin for the world's welterweight championship is to go on tonight, with the original plot unimpaired and a few added sequences thrown in, by way of emphasis and for good measure.

No sooner was the postponement announced than a firm of betting commissioners called up to state that the odds of 7 to 5 on Ross had advanced to 9 to 5 because of an inside tip that the champion would get heavier overnight, thus more nearly reaching a parity with McLarnin, who it seemed, figured to remain at or near the same weight.

McLarnin Heaviest.

At the official weighing in yesterday, McLarnin, the real welterweight did 145 3-4 pounds, while Ross, the combination lightweight-welterweight champion, came in at 140. They won't be required to weigh in again today, so they can do anything, everything or nothing about the weight situation in the meantime.

This was a surprising figure for Ross, since he is supposed to be a legitimate lightweight who is merely stepping out with the older boys when he plays in the class above. What he could possibly want with more weight overnight and why this would affect the betting is one of life's many mysteries. Ross beat McLarnin out of the title three months ago on speed; he'll need even more this time, because McLarnin figures to be better. Even the physical examination yesterday showed that. He had only one round of boxing in 18 months and was down around a worried 143 pounds when he went in there in May.

Feu de joie is a form of musketry fire reserved for the celebration of some joyful events, as, e. g., the observance of the King of England's birthday in the British army.

Grove City College Squad Starts Late

GROVE CITY, Sept. 7.—Trailing all district rivals in preparing for the football wars, Coach Bill Amos will not look over his squad until the fall term opens September 17. Members of last year's squad have been notified to report at Athletic Field at 10 a. m. on that date, and with the first-year men, it is expected that 40 candidates will answer the first call. The squad will have three weeks in which to get ready for the opening game with Holbrook College.

Although the Grovers will play the lightest schedule in years, it will provide plenty of trouble. Graduation last June claimed both varsity tackles, center, quarterback, and a halfback, the latter being Art Alexander, New Castle, passer, punter and consistent ball-carrier. Only seven letter-men are left and the 1934 team will be built around Tomko and Soich, ends; Binder and Beres, guards and Smith, Gross and Criss, backs.

Coach Amos is anticipating trouble from every game on the card. Holbrook College, here for the opener October 6, is reported to have a rugged team in the making. The following week at Slippery Rock the Grovers will meet a veteran team practically intact from last year when the Rockets earned a 6-6 tie at Grove City, October 20, Bethany will appear here and the Bisons of 1934 will be a difficult hurdle for the Crimson. On the 27, Grove City and Allegheny resume gridiron relations at Meadville, after a two-year lapse. Westminster comes to Grove City on November 3, followed by Morris-Harvey on the 10. The Grove season ends November 17, with Thiel at Greenville.

Last year, with a light, inexperienced squad, Coach Amos turned a sorry outlook into a successful season, marred only by a tie with Slippery Rock and a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Geneva. This year he faces identical problems in developing good tackles and a fast and deceptive attack. At the first practice, he will be looking for tackles and a center to replace Bill Bache; if he finds them, the season will start auspiciously.

VERY-McMILLAN PLAY GOLF HERE

Penn State Star Of Former Days Predicts Great Team For New Castle

One of the Penn State football greats, Dexter Very, was in New Castle Thursday afternoon and evening. With A. W. McMillan, a well known football official Very was in for a little golf at Castle Hills. After the game they talked football with a number of fans.

"I don't know just what you have for New Castle high school football this year but it's a good guess that you'll have a fast team" said Very. "That's a good guess any year with Phil Bridenbaugh coaching."

McMillan concurred with Very which seemed to make it unanimous. Dexter is one of the all time "Greats" of Penn State. Back in 1909-10-11-12 he played end for State when State was a team to be reckoned with. Since then he has been a football official. McMillan is president of the Pittsburgh Football Officials Association and an expert in his line.

Dex Very is also an expert football referee, having worked many of the college games and several of the more important high school games in this district. Both McMillan and Very have handled games here in New Castle.

POLISH NATIONALS TO MEET TONIGHT

Shenango High Looks Good For 1934 Season

Team Will Miss Regis Arnold But Raney Has Good Material To Replace Him

All that Coach Ed Raney has to do this year to have a good team is to replace Regis Arnold, the one man backfield, and find a few boys to replace Thompson, Shaffer and Emminger. Aside from that everything looks lovely out at the East New Castle school.

Once in a blue moon a coach gets a player like Regis Arnold. With a football brain, a fast pair of legs and 165 pounds of weight Arnold made every Shenango team in the past four years look good. Now he's gone and with him Shaffer, Amminger and Thompson. But Raney isn't altogether blue. He isn't any too optimistic either but the material he has left looks good enough to give any of the Class B teams plenty to worry about.

McConahy and Horteg are on the squad again this year which means a lot. The two boys have been named co-captains and with McConahy in the backfield and Horteg on the line things aren't nearly as bad as they might be. Both of them are seasoned veterans and both of them are smart football players.

In the backfield this year will be found McConahy, Tanner, Gierling, Irwin, Leithen, Fee and Bulisco. Out of that combination Raney expects a quartet that will make it tough for the opposition this year. On the line he will have Horteg and Long at tackles, Petro and Williams at guard, McIltrot at center and Wersuck at end. The other end has not been selected as yet and this terminal position is one of Raney's worries.

The season opens on Friday, September 14 with Zelienople, always a tough opponent. In the past three years the Shenango team has been able to polish Zelienople off but they have a veteran team this year and the opening game will be tough. Following Zelienople will come Sharpsville, Bessemer, Union, Mars, Slippery Rock, Mercer and Emlenton and if you know Class B football you'll recognize a tough schedule.

Of all the games the one with Union Township is the one most desired. It makes little difference what either team has done up to the day of the annual game. On that day they are both on edge and the winner is always in doubt. Some years Shenango has defeated Union and some years vice versa. You can't go far wrong picking either team.

Other games that promise to be plenty tough are Sharpsville, Bessemer and Mars. All three teams are good and all of them have a lot of veteran material on the squad. Raney hopes to beat them but it will take a lot of football.

Every afternoon sees the Shenango squad out on the field practicing and by the day of the opening game Coach Raney expects to have a squad molded that will be bad news for the Class B schedule this year. Arnold will be missed of course, but the material on hand makes it appear that the loss will not be too great to be forgotten.

Hanuman was a famous monkey chief in Hindu mythology and the legends of the epic period of India and still a favorite divinity in Hindustan.

Stock Market Firmer Today

Market Opens Slightly Lower And Then Firms Up; Composure Regained

MOTOR SHARES ARE IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The stock market appeared to have regained its composure today following yesterday's shakeout precipitated by the 15 point break in United States Smelting.

Opening slightly lower, the last showed definite signs of firming before the end of the first hour with the railroad shares again setting the pace.

Atchison was the outstanding favorite in the carrier shares opening fractionally higher and then extending this gain to more than a point. New York Central, Southern Railway and several others also gave a good performance.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were in fair demand right from the start worked fractionally higher on a comparatively large turnover.

United States Smelting opened unchanged at 125½ and then dipped more than a point before meeting support. Trading in the issue tapered off and a substantial recovery was scored. Alaska Juneau and other mining shares were quiet and generally firm.

There was little to feature the utilities where Consolidated Gas and other favorites held in a narrow range around yesterday's close.

Stock Market Firmer Today

Market Opens Slightly Lower And Then Firms Up; Composure Regained

MOTOR SHARES ARE IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The stock market appeared to have regained its composure today following yesterday's shakeout precipitated by the 15 point break in United States Smelting.

Opening slightly lower, the last showed definite signs of firming before the end of the first hour with the railroad shares again setting the pace.

Atchison was the outstanding favorite in the carrier shares opening fractionally higher and then extending this gain to more than a point. New York Central, Southern Railway and several others also gave a good performance.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were in fair demand right from the start worked fractionally higher on a comparatively large turnover.

United States Smelting opened unchanged at 125½ and then dipped more than a point before meeting support. Trading in the issue tapered off and a substantial recovery was scored. Alaska Juneau and other mining shares were quiet and generally firm.

There was little to feature the utilities where Consolidated Gas and other favorites held in a narrow range around yesterday's close.

THE SPORT PATROL

By JOHN J. MAHER, JR.

JUVENILE MAJOR LEAGUERS.

The first year American league team of this season has an International league flavor with seven of the twelve players chosen having played in that circuit during 1933. Only one player, Cecil Travis, came from a league lower than the AA group. Marcum, Newsom, Trosky, and Strange are the others who were graduated from a circuit other than the International.

Here is the personnel of the current juveniles in the American league:

Broaca, p., New York.
Marcum, p., Philadelphia.
Newsom, p., St. Louis.
Murphy, p., New York.
Hayes, c., Philadelphia.
Trosky, 1b., Cleveland.
Heffner, 2b., New York.
Strange, ss., St. Louis.
Travis, 3b., Washington.
Solters, cf., Boston.
Hoag, lf., New York.
Pepper, rf., St. Louis.

Broaca and Murphy have been life savers for the Yankees. When Russ Van Atta and Johnny Allen fell down in their pitching it was these two ex-collegians who stepped up and kept the Yankees in the pennant fight.

Johnny Marcum, the pitcher who stopped Rowe's winning streak, has turned out to be Connie Mack's most consistent pitcher. He was a little wobbly during the first weeks of the season but has settled down and now has won more games than any other Athletic pitcher.

Buck Newsom is leading the league in bases on balls issued but is a good pitcher notwithstanding his wildness. Buck has been the hardest worker on the Brownie staff. He has won about a dozen games and if he ever gets control he should be one of the league's leading flingers.

The catching departments in the American league are taken care of mostly by veterans. However, Frank Hayes has been catching the young Athletic staff very adeptly even though he hasn't had much experience.

Two of the best hitting prospects to come up this season are first basemen. During the first month of the season Zeke Bonura was the sensation among the freshmen in the league. Trosky started poorly but has gradually improved until now his batting average has surpassed that of Bonura. Hal should develop into one of the game's leading hitters.

Don Heffner has been far from a sensation with the Yankees but who among the first year men has done any better at the keystone sack? Don still seems to have the makings of a good ball player. If he can put on a little more beef during the winter he should be ready for steady playing next year.

Cecil Travis with a .325 batting average leads the juvenile third basemen. Cecil thinks he should be an outfielder but so far has done all his playing with Washington at third. Clift and Saltzgaver aren't far behind the Southern association graduate.

Solters, Hoag, and Pepper make up a formidable outfield. All three are graduates of the International league where Solters played with Baltimore, Hoag with Newark, and Pepper with Rochester.

SPORT SIDELIGHTS

Bill Dietrich's inquisitiveness placed his position on the Athletic payroll in jeopardy last spring before the regular season got under way. While the Athletics were in training camp the camera men were making a talkie of Connie Mack. In the recording Mack stated: "The Athletics have a good ball team. In fact, we may surprise everybody and meet the Giants in the World Series."

HARPSTER WORKS CARNEGIE SQUAD

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 7.—Well pleased with the excellent condition of his Carnegie Tech football players, who reported for fall practice Labor Day, Head Coach Howard Harpster has planned the heaviest sessions of recent years for a Tartan squad. Almost without exception, the Skibo players were employed through the summer months in tasks that kept them in shape, and consequently much of the usual conditioning can be dispensed with. The young coach can get right down to his rebuilding job.

Of the 35 candidates, 32 were on the job for the first drill on Tuesday. Only Cliff Doloway, tackle, and Bill and Charley Spisak, halfback and quarterback respectively, were absent, and they reported the following day. Many of the boys were right down to playing weights, the few notable exceptions being Joe Mihm, who always puts on considerable weight during the off-season, and Co-Captain Croft, tall tackle, who is still growing. They are the largest boys on the squad. Mihm will probably play at 208 or 210 pounds, while Croft will go around 212, the heaviest he has ever been.

When the few boys who need to take off weight have shed those extra pounds, it would not be surprising to see the squad go right into scrimmage, for new men will have to fill certain positions, and Harpster wants to see how the youngsters behave under fire. The first scrimmage has been tentatively set for Saturday.

Immanuel Kant was one of the greatest and most influential German metaphysicians.

Council Plans RWD Work For Fall At Meeting

Plans Discussed At Monthly Meeting Last Night; Many Matters Up

To Repair Dirt Streets And Regulate Traffic In The Borough Limits

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 7—Plans for RWD work, labor and white collar jobs, both, were discussed by the Borough Council of Ellwood City at its monthly meeting in the city building last night. A number of projects were suggested by A. L. Martsoff of Beaver Falls, relief administrator, which a special committee of council will study and recommend. The committee also recommended a number of projects.

In the course of the evening's business Council permitted the city's fire trucks to participate in a parade at Midland in the near future. An approval of the street work done by the state highway department in this city was given at this time.

A request of the Sons of the American Legion Veterans for an appropriation for purchasing flags and equipment was referred to the finance committee to grant the request if they find it legal. A request of Mr. Buckheit, manager of the city's new remodeled theatre, to hang up penants on the city's light posts on the theatre's opening day, was granted by council.

Council took a determined action last night to repair the dirt streets of the city before winter sets in and also to regulate traffic in the city to a greater extent by placing stop, slow and speed limit signs where necessary. Violators will be punished accordingly, it was announced. The borough also plans to put in a sidewalk on hospital hill and leading up to Beachwood boulevard. Necessary steps were also taken to go back to the old way of parking on Lawrence avenue. The P. & L. E. grounds have been secured as free parking grounds which will be properly lighted and protected by police.

The monthly report of the health officers stated that there were no contagious cases in Ellwood City for the past month. Council granted permission to B. E. Wilcox to cut the curb on property on Eighth street and Crescent avenue for service station. The fire chief was delegated to check a fire hazard in the fourth ward. B. J. McCandless was selected by council to supervise repairs to the local fire department building.

Munitions Firms Were Given Aid By Government

Munitions Firms Disposed Of Wares Abroad Through Departmental Assistance

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7— New evidence that governmental departments assisted munitions firms in disposing of their wares abroad was presented to the senate munitions committee today.

The war department, it was disclosed, assisted the Driggs engineering company in making available to Poland certain secret patents for anti-aircraft guns.

The disclosure followed evidence that the navy department, state department and American admirals and ambassadors aided American submarine buildings in their world-wide sales campaigns.

Louis L. Driggs, company president, defended the war department's policy on the ground it aided gun manufacturers to maintain their establishments so they would be available to this country in war time.

Letter Made Known

A letter from Driggs to his Polish agent, Florjan Ziemba, dated Jan. 24, 1929, said:

"As you know the United States war department is now cooperating with us 100 per cent. They have even changed the policy to a more favorable one to us than when you were here.

"The ordnance department officials said that the department was now more concerned in having our plant get work than government plants."

Anti aircraft gun designs were developed both by army and company engineers, Driggs testified.

"Are secret American gun designs always available to foreign countries through sales by your company?" asked Senator Vandenberg (R) of Michigan.

"I suppose so, but the foreign countries could copy them anyway," Driggs declared.

"Then, for the sake of American business, the war department is ready to rob itself of designs developed by its own engineers," Vandenberg commented.

Driggs said it is impossible to "keep gun secrets from other nations."

A resident in the vicinity of the house today identified photographs of Fred Barker, Alvin Karpis, and Albert Barker as those of three men who had been seen at the west side home and who fled yesterday in the company of a fourth man.

Flight of the gang followed within an hour the arrest of three richly-clad and bejeweled women who were creating a disturbance at a downtown hotel room.

Stock Market Firmer Today

Market Opens Slightly Lower And Then Firms Up; Composure Regained

MOTOR SHARES ARE IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The stock market appeared to have regained its composure today following yesterday's shakeout precipitated by the 15 point break in United States Smelting.

Opening slightly lower, the last showed definite signs of firming before the end of the first hour with the railroad shares again setting the pace.

Atchison was the outstanding favorite in the carrier shares opening fractionally higher and then extending this gain to more than a point. New York Central, Southern Railway and several others also gave a good performance.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were in fair demand right from the start worked fractionally higher on a comparatively large turnover.

United States Smelting opened unchanged at 125½ and then dipped more than a point before meeting support. Trading in the issue tapered off and a substantial recovery was scored. Alaska Juneau and other mining shares were quiet and generally firm.

There was little to feature the utilities where Consolidated Gas and other favorites held in a narrow range around yesterday's close.

ALUMINUM CO. STRIKERS READY TO RESUME JOBS

Expect Normalcy To Prevail In Aluminum Industry By Monday

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Satisfied with the peace truce between the Aluminum Company of America and the National Council of Aluminum Workers, hundreds of workers returned to work today after a month's strike.

In the majority of the six plants closed by the strike only skeleton forces made equipment ready for the general return to work on Monday.

The strike was settled after considerable negotiations and the Mellon-controlled concern agreed to recognize the principles of collective bargaining as approved by section 7-A of the NIRA.

Two hundred men were engaged in preparing the mills at New Kensington, Arnold and Logan's Ferry for operating. Other plants closed by the strike are located at Massena, N. Y., East St. Louis, Ill., and Alcoa, Tenn.

Gospel Tabernacle Gets New Pastor

The Rev. J. Henry Boon Will Begin His Ministry To Congregation Sunday

Sometime during the summer the Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian Missionary Alliance, 210 Pearson street, lost its pastor, when the Rev. C. F. Westover went to California, but the pulpit has been filled by a call to the Rev. J. Henry Boon of Scranton, who accepted.

The Rev. Mr. Boon and his wife arrived in the city this week and have taken up their residence at 720 Brooklyn avenue. They will be joined next week by their son Harold, who is a student at the Houghton college, Houghton, N. Y., who remained in Scranton to preach Sunday of this week.

The Rev. Boon is one of the outstanding figures in the Alliance church of the eastern district and comes here from a nine year pastorate at Scranton.

He will be welcomed by his congregation at all services Sunday.

Flax has been cultivated from the earliest historic times. It is mentioned in the Book of Exodus as one of the products of Egypt.

Pastor Of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Inaugurates Schedule Of Fall Work

Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, announces that arrangements have been made to inaugurate the regular fall work of the church.

The annual Harvest Home services will be held at both the English and German morning services Sunday, September 23, with all English services at 10:40 and all German services at 11:40 each Sunday morning.

The Sunday School rally day services with a special program will be held at the English service hour September 30 and the fall communion service will be held at both German and English services October 5.

The evening services will be resumed Sunday evening, October 5, at 7:30.

The catechetical class, which will be confirmed on Palm Sunday of next year, will be organized Sunday afternoon, October 5, at 2 p. m. when all persons of 14 years of age or over, who desire to be received into the church by confirmation, will be in attendance.

A special "family day" service will be held on Sunday morning, October 28, at which service each family, from the youngest to the oldest, is invited to sit together in the same pew. This is the second annual service of this nature and the Cradle Roll Department will have a special part in this service.

Early in November the annual office Sunday will be observed stressing service, there being at least some ninety odd persons who hold some office in the work of the congregation.

A special series of sermons will be used at all the morning services stressing the general theme of "Spiritual Development of the Congregation." These sermon themes and texts have been especially prepared for the use of the West Conference churches of the Lutheran church by Pastors Stough and Stump by the authority of the president of the conference. The themes and texts are based on the gospels of the day beginning with the 14th Sunday after Trinity to Epiphany Sunday.

Executives Hear Convention Report

Plans Are Discussed For The State Convention At Indiana In October

The first fall meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlor Thursday evening, with the president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., presiding, and the following members present:—P. W. Griffin and Harry W. Brown, vice-presidents; Mrs. M. E. Vaugh, secretary, Marjorie Streeter, young peoples superintendent, Mrs. Howard F. Magill, mission superintendent, George B. Wilson, president Ellwood district, and additional members Mrs. E. G. Armstrong, Rev. D. C. Schnebly, D. S. Williams, Mrs. Frank Neal and Mrs. F. R. Weisz.

The chief matter under consideration was the coming state convention, which is to be held at Indiana, Pa., October 10-11-12. The quota for Lawrence county is thirty delegates, but it is hoped that this will be exceeded. The president and secretary were appointed official delegates to represent the county association.

The committee endorsed the Recognition Day for Sabbath school teachers and suggested that the first Sunday in October some suitable recognition be given those who have so faithfully taught in the Sabbath schools.

Mrs. Vaughn gave a report of the conference at Kanesatake for presidents and secretaries which she attended together with Miss Anna Perry, the administrative superintendent.

The rating of Lawrence county in state associational work was discussed and it is thought that Lawrence county will be among the leaders this year.

Miss Marjorie Streeter, who was a leader and instructor at a state camp this year, gave an interesting report of camp activities.

Miss Hamilton has resumed her duties as an instructor in Rayen high school in Youngstown.

TOO MANY COLLEGES IN U. S. SURVEY FINDS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK.—Too many small colleges exist today in this country making efficient administration impossible, Dr. Floyd B. O'Rear, associate professor of education, Teachers College Columbia University, declared in a study on "High Education," made public here.

Accoring to Dr. O'Rear more than half of the 1,253 collegiate institutions in this country enroll fewer than the number of students necessary for economical operation. The solution, he declares, rests upon the coordination of effort by smaller colleges in larger cooperating units, and doing away with duplication of effort.

Council Plans RWD Work For Fall At Meeting

To Repair Dirt Streets And Regulate Traffic In The Borough Limits

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 7—Plans for RWD work, labor and white collar jobs, both, were discussed by the Borough Council of Ellwood City at its monthly meeting in the city building last night. A number of projects were suggested by A. L. Martsoff of Beaver Falls, relief administrator, which a special committee of council will study and recommend. The committee also recommended a number of projects.

In the course of the evening's business Council permitted the city's fire trucks to participate in a parade at Midland in the near future. An approval of the street work done by the state highway department in this city was given at this time.

A request of the Sons of the American Legion Veterans for an appropriation for purchasing flags and equipment was referred to the finance committee to grant the request if they find it legal. A request of Mr. Buckheit, manager of the city's new remodeled theatre, to hang up penants on the city's light posts on the theatre's opening day, was granted by council.

Council took a determined action last night to repair the dirt streets of the city before winter sets in and also to regulate traffic in the city to a greater extent by placing stop, slow and speed limit signs where necessary. Violators will be punished accordingly, it was announced. The borough also plans to put in a sidewalk on hospital hill and leading up to Beachwood boulevard. Necessary steps were also taken to go back to the old way of parking on Lawrence avenue. The P. & L. E. grounds have been secured as free parking grounds which will be properly lighted and protected by police.

The monthly report of the health officers stated that there were no contagious cases in Ellwood City for the past month. Council granted permission to B. E. Wilcox to cut the curb on property on Eighth street and Crescent avenue for service station. The fire chief was delegated to check a fire hazard in the fourth ward. B. J. McCandless was selected by council to supervise repairs to the local fire department building.

Meeting Held By Mission Society

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 7.—Women's Missionary Society of the U. P. church held its regular meeting last night in the church room. Mrs. H. C. Pickel was in charge.

The program for the occasion was led by Mrs. George Burrows, Mrs. Robert Lowry, and Mrs. S. P. McKim, who gave interesting talks. Plans for the fall rally to be held on September 21 at Mt. Jackson were completed at this time. It was also decided to send fruit to church institutions.

Child Is Cause Of Small Fire Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 7—A small child playing with matches in a bath room was the cause of a small fire at the two story frame-home occupied by Hiram Jones and family of Spring avenue. The curtains had been set aflame. The local fire department had been summoned but the flames had been extinguished by the family before it arrived. Damage to the bath room was estimated at $25 by Fire Chief H. T. Plante.

AT POMONA GRANGE

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Harry Boots, Miss Dorothy Boots, Mrs. Chalmers Hazen, Mrs. Mont Hazen and Mrs. Charlie Weisz of the Pleasant Hill grange attended the Lawrence county Pomona grange held Wednesday at Liberty grange hall with members of the East Brook grange as hosts.

Members Of Little Club Resume Meetings For Fall Season Last Night

A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess with the assistance of Mrs. Paul Conner and Miss Midge Liebendorfer. The latter will entertain the club in two weeks in her home in Wurtemburg.

Munitions Firms Were Given Aid By Government

Munitions Firms Disposed Of Wares Abroad Through Departmental Assistance

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7— New evidence that governmental departments assisted munitions firms in disposing of their wares abroad was presented to the senate munitions committee today.

The war department, it was disclosed, assisted the Driggs engineering company in making available to Poland certain secret patents for anti-aircraft guns.

The disclosure followed evidence that the navy department, state department and American admirals and ambassadors aided American submarine buildings in their world-wide sales campaigns.

Louis L. Driggs, company president, defended the war department's policy on the ground it aided gun manufacturers to maintain their establishments so they would be available to this country in war time.

Letter Made Known

A letter from Driggs to his Polish agent, Florjan Ziemba, dated Jan. 24, 1929, said:

"As you know the United States war department is now cooperating with us 100 per cent. They have even changed the policy to a more favorable one to us than when you were here.

"The ordnance department officials said that the department was now more concerned in having our plant get work than government plants."

Anti aircraft gun designs were developed both by army and company engineers, Driggs testified.

"Are secret American gun designs always available to foreign countries through sales by your company?" asked Senator Vandenberg (R) of Michigan.

"I suppose so, but the foreign countries could copy them anyway," Driggs declared.

"Then, for the sake of American business, the war department is ready to rob itself of designs developed by its own engineers," Vandenberg commented.

Driggs said it is impossible to "keep gun secrets from other nations."

WEARING OF DRESS NETS BURGLAR PAIR

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa.—Burglars who invaded a cleaning and pressing establishment here and stole several hundred dollars worth of garments, would have done better by leaving behind the favorite dress of Mrs. Alvareta Chambenux.

Acting on a "hunch", Mrs. Chambenux decided to turn detective. With her husband, she made a tour of beer gardens. In one she spotted her dress on Mrs. Pearl Soyster and turned the woman over to police. She implicated Walter Szymkec, 24, who confessed, according to police.

Salesmen of Death

Edwin V. Morgan (above), ex-ambassador to Brazil, Capt. Alfred G. Howe (left), U. S. N., and Rear Admiral Clark Woodward, U. S. N., are among U. S. officials named in Senate Probe as having helped this country's largest submarine-builder get orders from abroad.

Grand Jury Reports On Investigation Of Farrell Bank

Says Conditions At Colonial Trust Company Do Not Warrant Criminal Action

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 7.—The September grand jury in its return today reports on the investigation of the affairs of the Colonial Trust Company of Farrel as follows:

"After examination and investigation of these matters we find there does not exist such conditions as would warrant the entering of any criminal precedings. We do condemn, however, some of the banking practices of the officers of the Colonial Trust Company and believe there should have been more rigid legislation covering such conduct.

The Colonial Trust Company bank closed about one year ago, with 9,000 depositors, and two million dollars in deposits.

The state department, now in possession, found nothing incriminating and the county investigation found nothing criminal involved.

The grand jury also found not a true bill in the case of Peter Jemme, aged 35, Farrell barber, who was held for the alleged killing of his wife, Ida, on June 22.

Kidnaping Gang Is Being Hunted At Cleveland, O.

Seek Kidnapers Of Edward G. Bremer, Of St. Paul, In Cleveland

HIDEOUT HOUSE IS DISCOVERED

Arrest Of Three Women In Hotel Room Leads To Clue Of Kidnapers

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 7.—A west side Cleveland home has been used for weeks as the hideout of members of the notorious Barker outlaw gang, wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, it was established today.

A resident in the vicinity of the house today identified photographs of Fred Barker, Alvin Karpis, and Albert Barker as those of three men who had been seen at the west side home and who fled yesterday in the company of a fourth man.

Flight of the gang followed within an hour the arrest of three richly-clad and bejeweled women who were creating a disturbance at a downtown hotel room.

Girl Tells Story.

With them was a five-year-old girl, whose story led officers to believe the women were companions of the four men. The women gave their names as Mrs. Ethel Matterson of Cleveland, Mrs. Winona Wolcott of Toledo, and Mrs. Grace Sawyer of St. Paul, the little girl's foster-mother.

Both Barkers are sought in the Bremer kidnaping, and Fred now is wanted for the murder of Sheriff C. R. Kelly of Howell county, Missouri. Karpis, an escaped convict, is wanted for murder in Oklahoma. In the home believed to be the hide-out, police found a note containing a row of figures which proved to be Fred Barker's fingerprint classification.

Stock Market Firmer Today

Market Opens Slightly Lower And Then Firms Up; Composure Regained

MOTOR SHARES ARE IN DEMAND

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The stock market appeared to have regained its composure today following yesterday's shakeout precipitated by the 15 point break in United States Smelting.

Opening slightly lower, the last showed definite signs of firming before the end of the first hour with the railroad shares again setting the pace.

Atchison was the outstanding favorite in the carrier shares opening fractionally higher and then extending this gain to more than a point. New York Central, Southern Railway and several others also gave a good performance.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were in fair demand right from the start worked fractionally higher on a comparatively large turnover.

United States Smelting opened unchanged at 125½ and then dipped more than a point before meeting support. Trading in the issue tapered off and a substantial recovery was scored. Alaska Juneau and other mining shares were quiet and generally firm.

There was little to feature the utilities where Consolidated Gas and other favorites held in a narrow range around yesterday's close.

ALUMINUM CO. STRIKERS READY TO RESUME JOBS

Expect Normalcy To Prevail In Aluminum Industry By Monday

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7.—Satisfied with the peace truce between the Aluminum Company of America and the National Council of Aluminum Workers, hundreds of workers returned to work today after a month's strike.

In the majority of the six plants closed by the strike only skeleton forces made equipment ready for the general return to work on Monday.

The strike was settled after considerable negotiations and the Mellon-controlled concern agreed to recognize the principles of collective bargaining as approved by section 7-A of the NIRA.

Two hundred men were engaged in preparing the mills at New Kensington, Arnold and Logan's Ferry for operating. Other plants closed by the strike are located at Massena, N. Y., East St. Louis, Ill., and Alcoa, Tenn.

Gospel Tabernacle Gets New Pastor

The Rev. J. Henry Boon Will Begin His Ministry To Congregation Sunday

Sometime during the summer the Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian Missionary Alliance, 210 Pearson street, lost its pastor, when the Rev. C. F. Westover went to California, but the pulpit has been been filled by a call to the Rev. J. Henry Boon of Scranton, who accepted.

The Rev. Mr. Boon and his wife arrived in the city this week and have taken up their residence at 720 Brooklyn avenue. They will be joined next week by their son Harold, who is a student at the Houghton college, Houghton, N. Y., who remained in Scranton to preach Sunday of this week.

The Rev. Boon is one of the outstanding figures in the Alliance church of the eastern district and comes here from a nine year pastorate at Scranton.

He will be welcomed by his congregation at all services Sunday.

Flax has been cultivated from the earliest historic times. It is mentioned in the Book of Exodus as one of the products of Egypt.

REV. A. M. STUMP BEGINS FALL WORK

Pastor Of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Inaugurates Schedule Of Fall Work

Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, announces that arrangements have been made to inaugurate the regular fall work of the church.

The annual Harvest Home services will be held at both the English and German morning services Sunday, September 23, with all English services at 10:40 and all German services at 11:40 each Sunday morning.

The Sunday School rally day services with a special program will be held at the English service hour September 30 and the fall communion service will be held at both German and English services October 5.

The evening services will be resumed Sunday evening, October 5, at 7:30.

The catechetical class, which will be confirmed on Palm Sunday of next year, will be organized Sunday afternoon, October 5, at 2 p. m., when all persons of 14 years of age or over, who desire to be received into the church by confirmation, will be in attendance.

A special "family day" service will be held on Sunday morning, October 28, at which service each family, from the youngest to the oldest, is invited to sit together in the same pew. This is the second annual service of this nature and the Cradle Roll Department will have a special part in this service.

Early in November the annual office Sunday will be observed stressing service, there being at least some ninety odd persons who hold some office in the work of the congregation.

A special series of sermons will be used at all the morning services stressing the general theme of "Spiritual Development of the Congregation." These sermon themes and texts have been especially prepared for the use of the West Conference churches of the Lutheran church by Pastors Stough and Stump by the authority of the president of the conference. The themes and texts are based on the gospels of the day beginning with the 14th Sunday after Trinity to Epiphany Sunday.

Executives Hear Convention Report

Plans Are Discussed For The State Convention At Indiana In October

The first fall meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlor Thursday evening, with the president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., presiding, and the following members present:—P. W. Griffin and Harry W. Brown, vice-presidents; Mrs. M. E. Vaugh, secretary, Marjorie Streeter, young peoples superintendent, Mrs. Howard F. Magill, mission superintendent, George B. Wilson, president Ellwood district, and additional members Mrs. E. G. Armstrong, Rev. D. C. Schnebly, D. S. Williams, Mrs. Frank Neal and Mrs. F. R. Welsz.

The chief matter under consideration was the coming state convention, which is to be held at Indiana, Pa., October 10-11-12. The quota for Lawrence county is thirty delegates, but it is hoped that this will be exceeded. The president and secretary were appointed official delegates to represent the county association.

The committee endorsed the Recognition Day for Sabbath school teachers and suggested that the first Sunday in October some suitable recognition be given those who have so faithfully taught in the Sabbath schools.

Mrs. Vaughn gave a report of the conference at Kanesatake for presidents and secretaries which she attended together with Miss Anna Perry, the administrative superintendent.

The rating of Lawrence county in state associational work was discussed and it is thought that Lawrence county will be among the leaders this year.

Miss Marjorie Streeter, who was a leader and instructor at a state camp this year, gave an interesting report of camp activities.

HOME FROM TRIP WITH MOVIE STARS

Miss Betty Jane Hamilton of Pennsylvania avenue, a teacher in the Rayen high school, returned Thursday from a three-month trip, during which time she accompanied a group of moving picture stars, and wrote feature articles for a newspaper syndicate about their activities.

The party sailed from New York on the S. S. Virginia, visiting Cuba, the Panama Canal zone, Mexico and cities along the Pacific.

Miss Hamilton has resumed her duties as an instructor in Rayen high school in Youngstown.

TOO MANY COLLEGES IN U. S. SURVEY FINDS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK.—Too many small colleges exist today in this country making efficient administration impossible. Dr. Floyd B. O'Rear, associate professor of education, Teachers College Columbia University, declared in a study on "High Education," made public here.

Accoring to Dr. O'Rear more than half of the 1,253 collegiate institutions in this country enroll fewer than the number of students necessary for economical operation. The solution, he declares, rests upon the coordination of effort by smaller colleges in larger cooperating units, and doing away with duplication of effort.
